Overview & Current Events

Honeywell International is a diversified industrial company. The company has four divisions: Aerospace, Home & Building, Performance Materials & Technologies and Safety & Productivity Solutions. Honeywell International has more than 130,000 employees around the world and more than 40% of sales come from international markets. The company trades with a current market capitalization of $123 billion and generates more than $36 billion in annual revenues.

Honeywell International completed its spin-off of its Transportation Systems unit, called Garret Motion, on October 1st. The company then spun off its Homes & Global Distribution business, called Resideo Technologies, on October 29th.

Honeywell International released financial results for the first quarter on 4/18/2019. The company earned $1.92 per share, $0.08 above estimates, but a 1.5% decline from the previous year. Revenue declined 14.5% to $8.9 billion, though this topped estimates by $249 million. Adjusting for the spinoffs, earnings-per-share grew 13% and organic revenue growth was 8%.

The Aerospace segment grew 10% as Honeywell International experienced strong demand from business aviation original equipment manufacturers. The company's U.S. and international defense businesses were also contributors to growth during the quarter. Honeywell Building Technologies saw organic growth of 9%. Commercial fire and security offerings and global building projects were highlighted as sources of strength. Automation projects as well as maintenance and migration services and fluorine products helped drive 5% organic growth for the Performance Materials & Technologies segment. Safety & Productivity Solutions produced 10% growth as the company's Intelligrated automation business continues to perform well. Internet of Things, sensing products and growth in China also were behind the double-digit growth for this segment. Segment margins improved 120 bps to 20% as higher sales volumes, operational improvements and favorable impact of the spinoffs sparked the year-over-year gains.

Honeywell International also provided updated guidance for 2019. The company expects revenue in a range of $36.5 billion to $37.2 billion, up from the previous range of $36 billion to $36.9 billion. The new range equates to 3% to 6% organic growth year-over-year. Earnings-per-share for 2019 is now expected to be between $7.90 to $8.15, up from $7.80 to $8.10 previously. Excluding the spinoffs, Honeywell International expects growth of 7% to 10% in 2019.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
EPS	$2.85	$3.00	$3.79	$4.48	$4.97	$5.56	$6.04	$6.59	$7.11	$8.01	$8.03	$11.26
DPS	$1.21	$1.21	$1.37	$1.53	$1.68	$1.87	$2.15	$2.45	$2.74	$3.06	$3.28	$4.60
Shares	764	783	775	783	784	782	770	761	751	740	732	700

While Honeywell International did see an earnings decline of 24% during the last recession, the company has managed to grow earnings every year since 2010. We expect that the combination of organic growth, margin expansion and share repurchases should drive earnings-per-share to grow at least 7% per year through 2024.

Honeywell International has paused, but not cut, its dividend growth several times over the past two decades, most recently in 2010. The company increased its dividend 10.1% for the December 2018 payment. This is the ninth 10%+ increase since 2010. In order to be conservative, we forecast that dividend will grow in line with earnings going forward.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	Now	2024
Avg. P/E	12	14.7	14.3	13.2	16.0	16.9	16.9	17.0	18.9	16.5	21	16.0

Honeywell International shares have increased $20, or 13.4%, since our February 9th report. Factoring in the updated earnings-per-share guidance for 2019, shares have a forward multiple of 21. Due to organic growth projections, we have a target price-to-earnings multiple of 16 for the stock, slightly above the 10-year average multiple of 15.6. If shares reverted to our target multiple by 2024, total returns could be reduced 5.3% per year over this time frame.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Industrial companies tend to perform very well when the economy is strong, but struggle in weak economic climates. As with most industrial companies, Honeywell International would likely see earnings declines in the next recession.

Honeywell International divested two lower margin businesses in the form of spin offs last October. This should allow the company to focus on its higher margin businesses, particularly in Aerospace. Commercial and military products remain in high demand. With higher sales for this division, aftermarket services should see growth as well. As long as the economy remains strong, the company's other products, such as Intelligrated and industrial products like Solstice, should perform well. We see Honeywell's strong position in these markets as its competitive advantage.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We have lowered our expected total return for Honeywell International to 3.6%, from 6.1% previously, following first quarter results and the sizeable price increase since our last update. Honeywell International's business continues to perform well. Divesting lower margin businesses has allowed the company to focus on its higher growth areas. Honeywell International's segment margins have topped 20% for two consecutive quarters. Despite quarterly results, Honeywell International continues to earn a hold recommendation from Sure Dividend at this time. We would be buyers of the stock if shares traded closer to fair value. We have increased our 2024 price target $2 to $180 due to updated earnings-per-share guidance for the current year.
