Overview & Current Events

1st Source was founded back in 1863 and since that time, has grown into a regional bank with $6 billion in assets. The company is headquartered in Indiana and has about 80 branches to service its customers. 1st Source's market capitalization is $1.2 billion, and it is expected to produce about $325 million in revenue this year.

1st Source reported Q1 earnings on 4/18/19 and results were strong in a variety of ways. Net interest income was up nearly 9% year-over-year as the bank saw its average loans and leases rise almost 6%. Noninterest income rose just 1.3% year-over-year, but the gain in net interest income was also bolstered by higher net interest margin, which rose from 3.69% to 3.78% year-over-year.

1st Source's deposits rose 7.5% in Q1, helping to finance the additional loans and leases with cheap funding. Noninterest expense fell fractionally from the prior year's Q1, helping to drive a high level of operating leverage, which boosted earnings. Net charge-offs fell from 0.74% of total loans to just 0.49% year-over-year, also helping to improve earnings. In total, earnings-per-share rose 18% to $0.86 thanks to higher revenue, lower loan losses, and lower expenses. The key profitability metric - return on assets - improved markedly year-over-year, rising from 1.31% to 1.43%.

1st Source's common equity tier 1 ratio is 12.3% as of the end of Q1, up fractionally from the 12.2% value from the year-ago period. The bank has been able to return a lot of capital to shareholders and still maintain a strong capital base thanks to robust earnings growth.

We're maintaining our estimate of $3.55 per share in earnings for this year after a robust Q1 that produced a record amount of earnings. This was built into prior forecasts as 1st Source has been performing extremely well.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
EPS	$0.72	$1.10	$1.78	$1.84	$2.03	$2.17	$2.17	$2.22	$2.52	$3.16	$3.55	$5.22
DPS	$0.54	$0.55	$0.58	$0.60	$0.62	$0.65	$0.67	$0.72	$0.76	$0.96	$1.08	$1.56
Shares	27	27	27	27	27	26	26	26	26	26	26	25

Earnings-per-share growth has been robust since the bottom in 2009. Recent growth has been fueled by gains in its asset base, averaging 7%+ in the past four years. 1st Source's strong balance sheet growth has been accompanied by expanding margins and prudent operating expenditures, allowing for a rise in returns on its asset base. In light of this, we are expecting robust 8% earnings-per-share growth going forward, achieved by a continuation of what 1st Source has been doing for years. Higher lending rates combined with continued low deposit costs are a tailwind for earnings growth. Charge-offs are a growing concern but overall, there is still a favorable growth outlook for 1st Source after Q1 results. Our expectation for the dividend has been raised to $1.56 in 2024, representing 30% of projected earnings.

Updated April 20th, 2019 by Josh Arnold

1st Source’s price-to-earnings multiple has been fairly steady, all things considered, for the past decade. It is trading for 12.9 times earnings after a recent selloff, which is essentially in line with its own historical valuations, as well as our estimate of fair value at 13 times earnings. Therefore, we see very little impact from the valuation on total returns in the coming years.

We see the yield remaining roughly where it is today in the mid-2% range as the valuation is near fair value, and the payout should grow at roughly congruent rates with earnings.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
Payout	75%	50%	33%	33%	31%	30%	32%	34%	30%	30%	30%	30%

The payout ratio should be in the area of 30% given that dividend raises will likely be in line with earnings growth in the coming years. We see the dividend as very safe and with a lot of room to grow given 1st Source’s commitment to raising the payout, as well as the low payout ratio and the bank’s strong earnings growth rates.

1st Source’s competitive advantage is in its clean balance sheet, strong profitability metrics and robust market position in the areas it serves. The advantage of a community or regional bank is that it can generate sizable market share in lots of small markets, creating a sustainable competitive advantage. It is obviously not immune from recessions but given its performance during the Great Recession, 1st Source looks well positioned for when the next economic downturn arrives.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We believe total returns for 1st Source investors will be 10.5% annually, consisting of the current 2.4% yield, a 0.1% tailwind from the valuation and 8% earnings-per-share growth. 1st Source is a high-quality bank stock and despite shares trading at our estimate of fair value, we rate it a buy. 1st Source is one of the best regional banks in our coverage universe and we see the stock as attractive. It offers investors a robust growth outlook, a decent yield, and the prospects of high rates of dividend growth.
