Overview & Current Events

The Travelers Companies was founded in 1864 in Hartford, CT by two local businessmen. The company began with life and accident insurance but has expanded into various other types of coverage in the 150+ years since then. Today, it enjoys $29 billion in annual revenue and a $36 billion market capitalization. The company offers a wide and deep variety of protection products for auto, home and business customers. It is also a member of the Dow Jones Industrial Average, making it the only property casualty insurance provider in the prestigious index.

Travelers reported Q1 earnings on 4/18/19 and results were strong. Total revenue rose 5% thanks mostly to a 3% gain in net written premiums, with strength across all of its segments. Gross written premiums rose 6% during Q1 to a new record of $7.8 billion. Profitability increased as well thanks to lower catastrophe losses and stronger underwriting, with core income per diluted share rising 15% year-over-year to $2.83.

The company's underlying combined ratio came in at 91.6% in Q1 against 92.4% in the year-ago period, reflecting lower losses and boosting margins. A 3% lower share count year-over-year also helped to drive earnings-per-share improvement in excess of the rate of revenue growth.

Net investment income fell slightly year-over-year thanks to lower private equity income, but the $496 million Travelers generated allowed it to return $625 million of cash to shareholders in Q1 via dividends and buybacks. Book value is now up to $92.94 per share, a gain of 7% in the last year.

Our estimate of $11.00 in earnings-per-share for this year is unchanged after a nice Q1 report. Separately, Travelers boosted its dividend by 6.5% to a new annualized payout of $3.28 per share.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
EPS	$6.32	$6.31	$3.25	$6.21	$9.46	$10.56	$10.87	$10.13	$7.27	$8.94	$11.00	$14.72
DPS	$1.26	$1.44	$1.64	$1.79	$1.96	$2.15	$2.38	$2.68	$2.83	$3.03	$3.28	$5.00
Shares	520	435	393	377	354	322	296	280	271	266	260	235

After strong growth coming out of the Great Recession, Travelers has failed to regain its 2014 high of $10.87 in earnings-per-share. However, we believe that 2019 will be the year that occurs with our estimate of $11.00. In total, we are expecting 6% earnings-per-share growth annually in the coming years, following a much higher rate of growth for 2019.

Travelers will achieve this growth primarily from higher underwritten premiums and the buyback program, although margins should play a part as well, as long as there aren't any large catastrophes. We see low single digit gains from higher revenue as well as a similar tailwind from the company's buyback, which has reduced the float by more than half in just the past decade alone. Recent reductions have been smaller in size given the higher share price, but Travelers is committed to reducing its share count over time. Lower operating expenses should also provide a bit of a boost to earnings, but the Travelers story really is about higher premiums, lower catastrophe losses, and a lower share count.

The dividend has been raised in the mid-single digit range annually and we expect that will continue for the foreseeable future. Travelers is not a pure income stock any longer given the higher share price, but its 2.4% yield is respectable, and the payout should continue to grow more quickly than earnings.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	Now	2024
Avg. P/E	7.0	8.2	17.4	10.3	8.8	8.8	9.7	11.2	17.2	14.7	12.4	11.0
Avg. Yld.	2.8%	2.8%	2.9%	2.8%	2.3%	2.3%	2.3%	2.4%	2.3%	2.3%	2.4%	3.1%

Travelers' price-to-earnings multiple has mostly stayed under 10 for the past decade but today, stands at 12.4. We therefore see the stock as somewhat overvalued given that our estimate of fair value is 11. That implies a low single digit headwind impact to total returns due to the valuation.

The yield is near its historical lows at 2.4%, but we see the stagnating share price and rising dividend combining to send the yield to 3% in five years. Thus, we believe Travelers will become a stronger income stock again

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
Payout	19%	22%	48%	28%	21%	20%	22%	25%	38%	34%	30%	34%

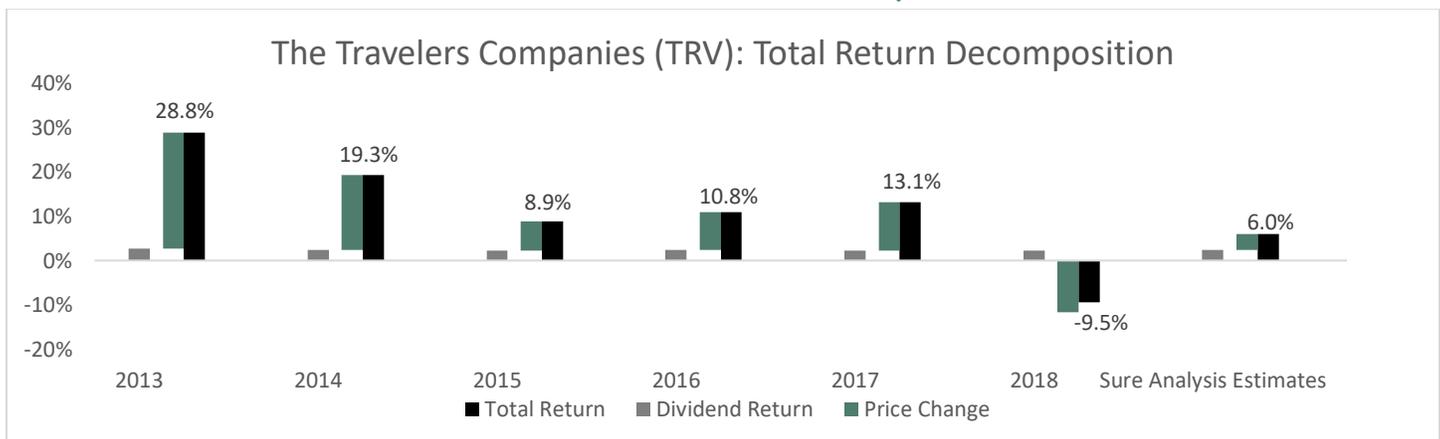

Travelers continues to be conservatively-financed and does not have significant debt coming due in the next three years, so its balance sheet is in good shape and interest coverage remains robust. We believe the payout ratio should remain in the low-30% area given that we are forecasting earnings and the dividend to grow at roughly congruent rates. The dividend is, therefore, very safe and we see many more years of increases on the horizon.

Travelers' main competitive advantages are in its immense scale and recognizable brand. Its size allows it to underwrite policies that others would not be able to and its brand is well-known from its long history. Travelers is more susceptible to catastrophes than recessions, as we saw in 2017 and again in 2018. This makes Travelers a defensive play should the economy turn south.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Travelers looks like a safe financial services provider with a decent growth outlook that is trading slightly above fair value. We therefore see total annual returns of just 6.0% annually in the coming years, consisting of the current 2.4% yield, 6% earnings-per-share growth and a 2.4% headwind from movement in the valuation. The valuation has continued to rise, reducing the attractiveness of the stock. Results continue to improve, but we believe most of this is already priced into the stock. We therefore rate the stock as a hold, as we think investors will get a chance to buy the shares at a lower valuation in the relatively near term.
