Overview & Current Events

UMB Financial Corporation is a financial services holding company headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri. Through a number of operating subsidiaries, UMB offers complete banking, asset management, health spending solutions, and related financial services to commercial, institutional, and personal customers nationwide. The company's most prominent operating subsidiary is UMB Bank, N.A. UMB has increased its dividend for an impressive 26 consecutive years. It trades with a $3.3 billion market capitalization and produces just over $1 billion in annual revenue.

UMB reported Q1 earnings on 4/23/19 and results were largely in line with our expectations. Net interest income rose nearly 11% year-over-year thanks to a 9% increase in average loans – as UMB continues its aggressive growth – and thanks to a 65bps improvement in average loan yields. The bank achieved this loan yield improvement via higher short-term interest rates, volume, and asset mix changes.

Noninterest income increased 1.8% year-over-year as gains in company-owned life insurance, trading and investment income, and money market revenue were partially offset by declines in alternative investments, as well as bankcard and other fee declines. Noninterest expense rose 9.3% year-over-year due primarily to an increase in employee salaries and benefits, with added expense from a variety of non-operating categories.

Earnings-per-share were essentially flat year-over-year, rising a penny to $1.19 on an adjusted basis. Return on assets fell 10bps to 1.02%, while the bank's efficiency ratio deteriorated just over 1% to 70%.

UMB's growth plans include buying earning assets and while that has worked, it has come with significant costs, as reflected in Q1 results. However, Q1 was essentially as expected and we've left our estimate of $4.60 in earnings-per-share for this year unchanged as a result.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
EPS	$2.20	$2.26	$2.77	$3.04	$3.20	$2.65	$2.44	$3.22	$3.67	$3.94	$4.60	$6.45
DPS	$0.71	$0.75	$0.79	$0.83	$0.87	$0.91	$0.95	$0.99	$1.04	$1.17	$1.20	$1.80
Shares	41	40	40	40	45	46	49	50	50	49	49	49

UMB's adjusted earnings-per-share have compounded at about 7% per year since 2009. We believe that a similar rate of growth is reasonable for the bank moving forward, particularly given the collective tailwind of rising interest rates and widening lending spreads. We think continued asset base expansion is the key as UMB is working its way further away from fee generation and more towards traditional lending, as evidenced again by the sizable increase in net interest income in Q1 and a very small boost in fee income. If rates turn against UMB, it may see some downward pressure on earnings expansion. However, all looked well on the lending front once again in Q1, so we are optimistic.

The dividend should continue to grow at roughly the rate of earnings in the coming years, rising from $1.20 this year to $1.80 or so in 2024. UMB does not appear to have any interest in boosting the payout ratio and chooses instead to build its capital buffer, or increase its lending capacity.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	Now	2024
Avg. P/E	18.5	16.9	14.1	15.0	17.0	22.3	21.4	17.7	20.2	18.5	14.6	13.0
Avg. Yld.	1.7%	2.0%	2.0%	1.8%	1.6%	1.5%	1.8%	1.7%	1.4%	1.6%	1.8%	2.1%

Increased earnings estimates and a much lower share price have brought the valuation down significantly since 2017. UMB now trades at 14.6 times this year's earnings against our estimate of fair value at 13. We see upside in the valuation as limited from here given that we are near the end of the economic cycle, coupled with general uncertainty about how rates will behave in the near-term. That implies a 2.3% headwind to total returns and is the most favorable valuation the stock has seen in several years. We expect the yield and share price to grow roughly congruently, meaning the yield should remain around 2%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
Payout	32%	33%	29%	27%	27%	34%	39%	31%	28%	30%	26%	28%

UMB's payout ratio is just one-quarter of earnings, and the bank boasts a 26-year dividend increase streak. Given these factors, we see the dividend as very safe and with lots of room to grow in the future. As mentioned, we don't see a lot of upside to the payout ratio, so the dividend should grow about in line with earnings, keeping the payout ratio under 30% for the foreseeable future.

UMB Financial Corporation's largest competitive advantage is its entrenched position in the financial services sector. Because of industry regulations, it is very difficult for a new competitor to enter into the market and take market share from established lenders like UMB. The company's small size is also a potential advantage, as it allows the company to explore smaller, less-competitive growth opportunities that the big banks would not be interested in pursuing.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

UMB's valuation has improved in recent quarters as it continues to post strong results while the share price languishes. We see 6.5% total annual returns in the coming years, consisting of the current 1.8% yield, 7% earnings-per-share growth and a 2.3% headwind from the valuation. This has created a situation where investors can own UMB, which is a high-performing financial institution, at a reasonable price. We are reiterating our recommendation of hold given the outlook for growth and the share price's current proximity to our fair value estimate.
