Overview & Current Events

T. Rowe Price Group, founded in 1937 and headquartered in Baltimore, MD, is one of the largest publicly-traded asset managers. The company provides a broad array of mutual funds, subadvisory services, and separate account management for individual and institutional investors, retirement plans and financial intermediaries. T. Rowe Price has a market capitalization of $25 billion and had assets under management of $1.14 trillion as of July 31st, 2019.

On July 24th, 2019 T. Rowe reported Q2 2019 results for the period ending June 30th, 2019. For the quarter, ending assets under management (AUM) came in at $1.125 trillion, up 7.7% compared to Q2 2018 as the company saw $41 billion in market appreciation and income to go along with $2.5 billion in net client inflows. Net revenues were up 3.7% to $1.395 billion, representing 0.124% of AUM or just under 50 basis points on an annualized basis. Adjusted net operating income came in at $632.8 million compared to $601.1 million in the year ago period, while adjusted net income totaled $498.1 million a 5.4% increase compared to the $472.8 million posted previously. Adjusted earnings-per-share equaled $2.03 versus $1.87, an 8.6% improvement as net income improvement was aided by a lower share count. Investors domiciled outside of the U.S. accounted for 6.4% of the firm's assets under management.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

T. Rowe's earnings, as well as its dividends, have grown substantially over the last decade. While earnings did drop materially during the last financial crisis, the overall record has been quite good. Since 2007 the company has grown earnings-per-share by an average compound rate of 10.2% per annum.

Asset managers like T. Rowe have low variable costs. As a result, higher revenues, driven primarily by increasing assets under management, allow for margin expansion and attractive earnings growth rates. Assets under management grow in two basic ways: increased contributions and higher underlying asset values. While asset values are finicky, the trend is upward over the long-term. On the contribution side, more than 80% of T. Rowe's funds outperformed the respective Lipper average over the last three, five and ten years. This strong performance of T. Rowe's funds is a key selling point and could attract customers going forward. In addition, T. Rowe has another growth lever in the way of share repurchases over time.

With that being said there is a significant and ongoing challenge for traditional asset managers. Namely, the advance of low-cost ETFs, where other asset managers such as Blackrock or Vanguard are much better positioned. This could lead to lower growth rates for T. Rowe Price, as managers are forced to compete on price and reduce management fees.

Taking these items collectively, strong general economics along with a propensity for higher assets values against lower management fees, we believe T. Rowe can grow its bottom line by 5% annually over the intermediate-term.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	Now	2024
Avg. P/E	24.2	20.8	20.2	18.5	19.3	17.9	16.7	14.7	13.1	15.6	14.3	15.0
Avg. Yld.	2.5%	2.1%	2.1%	2.2%	2.0%	2.2%	2.7%	3.0%	2.8%	2.6%	2.8%	3.0%

The 2009 through 2011 stretch is somewhat of an anomaly as earnings were depressed during this time. From 2012 through 2018 shares of T. Rowe have traded hands with an average P/E ratio of about 16.5 times earnings. We believe 15 times earnings is a reasonable starting point, taking into consideration moderate growth potential paired with an excellent balance sheet. With shares currently trading near 14 times earnings, this implies a slight valuation tailwind.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2024
Payout	61%	43%	42%	40%	39%	39%	45%	45%	37%	40%	41%	45%

While T. Rowe has put together a solid record, asset managers do not tend to have a large competitive advantage. Fund performance and general customer stickiness help – once you invest with a company you tend to stay invested and the benefits of switching are unknown. However, the “race to the bottom” as it relates to fee’s has been and will continue to be an important and ongoing challenge in the industry.

During the last recession T. Rowe posted earnings-per-share of $2.40, $1.82, $1.65 and $2.53 in the 2007 through 2010 stretch. This is instructive, as it shows both the cyclical nature in lesser times along with the ability to bounce back.

Also notable is the company’s exceptionally clean balance sheet. As of the most recent quarter T. Rowe held $1.8 billion in cash and $8.9 billion in total assets (54% of which were investments) against $1.3 billion in total liabilities and zero long-term debt.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares are up 3% since our last update. T. Rowe Price has been a great business, with strong operating metrics for many years. That being said, the focus on lower fees will continue to be a headwind for the industry. Total return potential comes in at 8.8% per annum, stemming from 5% growth, a 2.8% starting dividend yield and the potential for a 1% valuation tailwind. We rate shares as a hold at the current quotation.
