Overview & Current Events

L3Harris Technologies (LHX) is the result of a merger between L3 Technologies and Harris Corporation completed on June 29, 2019 forming the sixth largest defense contractor. Shareholders of L3 Technologies received 1.30 shares of Harris Corporation for each of their own shares outstanding. The company now reports four business segments including Integrated Mission Systems, (30% of revenue) Communication Systems (23% of revenue), Space and Airborne Systems (25% of revenue), and Aviation Systems (23% of revenue). The majority of the L3Harris' sales are to the U.S. Government or to other defense contractors. The combined companies had pro forma revenue of over $18B in 2019.

L3Harris reported strong results for Q4 2019 and full year on February 4, 2020. Companywide revenue increased 10% to $4,832M from $4,382M (pro forma prior year) and diluted non-GAAP EPS increased 28% to $2.85 from $2.22 (pro forma prior year) on year-over-year basis due to the merger and organic growth. Integrated Mission Systems segment revenue increased 11% to $1,471M from $1,331M in the prior year due to growth from ISR aircraft missionization and classified maritime programs. Revenue for Space & Airborne Systems increased 12% to $1,198M from $1,068M. Growth came from avionics and electronic warfare on F-35, F/A-18, and F-16 platforms, B-52 electronic warfare, and space sensing. Communications systems revenue increased 10% to $1,119M from $1,016M and operating margins expanded 80 bps to 23.1% from 22.3% in the prior year on strength of tactical and public safety communication systems, and Integrated Vision Solutions. Aviation Systems revenue was flat at $1,090M from $1,017M, but operating margins expanded 740 bps to 14.9% from 7.5% on a year-over-year basis due to C-17 training contract loss offset by gains commercial simulators and defense aviation products. For the year, revenue grew 10% to $18,074M from $16,404M and diluted adjusted earnings per share grew 27% to $10.08 from $7.92. L3Harris continues to win orders in its market areas and the funded backlog grew 5%. The book-to-bill ratio is 1.04 indicating healthy win rates. The company will sell its airport security and automation business to Leidos for $1B in cash that is expected to close in mid-2020.

L3Harris has only a short operating history of several months. But the new company is positioned for both top and bottom line growth in high margin market segments. Increased defense spending will support top line growth. Both predecessor organizations have a history of increasing earnings and dividends. We are currently forecasting average annual earnings per share growth of 10% out to 2025. Bottom line growth will be driven by organic sales increases, higher margins, and robust share buybacks. The bottom line will also benefit from cost synergies from the recent merger. The new company has signaled that free cash flow will be deployed through increased dividends and share buybacks. We are forecasting 10% average annual increase in dividends out to 2025 due to the low payout ratio.

² Share count is in millions.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2025
Avg. P/E	9.9	10.1	8.3	9.6	13.3	14.2	13.9	19.7	22.2	20.3	19.8	16.0

L3Harris' stock price has gained since our last report and the stock now trades at an elevated earnings multiple of 20.4. We believe that over long-term a fair value multiple is about 16X. We have adjusted our earnings estimate upward due to continued good results. Our current fair value estimate is now $185. Our 5-year price target is now $298.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
Payout	21%	22%	25%	30%	34%	37%	35%	41%	36%	28%	26%	26%

As a large defense contractor L3Harris has competitive advantages related to defense contracting, which often requires knowledge of acquisition regulations and accounting standards particularly for large programs. The company develops and manufactures complex and bespoke systems for the DoD requiring a skilled work force with security clearances that is not easily replicated. Furthermore, L3Harris has built long-term relationships with both the DoD and prime contractors in its areas of expertise. These attributes make it somewhat recession resistant. But the company may experience top and bottom line declines if defense programs are cut or the defense budget is decreased.

L3Harris took on debt to fund the merger. Short-term debt now stands at $260M and long-term debt is now $6,694M offset by cash and equivalents of $824M. Despite the increase, interest coverage is healthy at about 9X.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We are forecasting 6.8% annualized total returns over the next five years down from our last report due to market gains. The company's stock price continues to trend upward due to top and bottom line growth. L3Harris is seemingly executing well after the merger. The company is spending heavily on R&D investing on differentiated technology and innovation, which will drive future growth. But we view this stock as a hold for current investors at the current price.
