Overview & Current Events

AptarGroup Inc. (ATR) began trading as an independent company in 1993 and is now one of the leading businesses in the global dispensing systems industry. With a market capitalization of approximately $6.4 billion, the company has over 14,000 employees in 18 countries and produced $2.86 billion in revenue in 2019. The company is divided into three business segments: "Beauty + Home," "Food + Beverage," and "Pharma."

The company reported second-quarter on July 30, 2020. The Pharma segment saw sales growth of 7% for the quarter where the Beauty + Home and Food + Beverage saw a decrease in sales of (12%) and (17%), respectively. In total, sales decrease by (6%) for the second quarter compared to 2Q19, from $742 million a year ago to $699 million. Net Income saw a (43)% decrease to a total of $41 million. Free cash flow was $105 million in the first half of 2020 an increase of 9% compared to prior year. Year to date, total sales are down (4)% compared to the first half of 2019. The decrease in total sales thus far is of headwinds from changes in currency rates which were offset by revenue generated by the recent acquisitions. The sales of Beauty + Home, and Food + Beverage segments had more difficulty in the first half of the year primarily due to the impacts of COVID-19. Adjusted earnings per share totaled $0.80, a decrease of 30% compared to the prior year.

Current year adjusted earnings per share, which exclude restructuring costs and acquisition-related expenses, were $1.72 and down 21% from prior year adjusted earnings per share, including comparable exchange rates, of $2.18. We lower our estimated EPS from $3.75 for this year to $3.36. The company expects EPS for the third-quarter results to be in the range of $0.80 to $0.88.

AptarGroup has grown organically and via occasional acquisitions. In 2018, the company spent $528 million on acquisitions, which is its most substantial amount spent on acquisitions in recent history for the company and should contribute to significant growth in the coming years. During years when acquisitions are not substantial, the company historically uses cash or debt to repurchase shares and has averaged a -0.2% share reduction per year. The Pharma segment is AptarGroup's most profitable segment, as it accounts for approximately one-third of company sales but two-thirds of its EBITDA.

The company's Pharma segment is its primary driver of growth, although currency impacts and tax changes are currently acting as headwinds. We estimate 4.0% annual earnings and a 3.0% dividend growth over the next five years. The dividend growth has been slowing down as the company has a 10-year dividend growth average of 8.9%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2025
Avg. P/E	16.8	18.7	21.5	20.8	22.7	21.6	23.9	24.1	32.1	29.3	35.2	20.0
Avg. Yld.	1.6%	1.6%	1.7%	1.7%	1.7%	1.7%	1.6%	1.6%	1.4%	1.2%	1.2%	2.0%

AptarGroup currently trades for a valuation of over 35.2 times earnings, which we consider to be rich for a company with its low growth level. The security looks overvalued when compared to its 10-year average of 23 times earnings. Additionally, the dividend yield is historically low at approximately 1.2% compared to its average of roughly 1.6%.

From this point, there is more potential for a valuation reduction rather than valuation expansion over the next five years, in our view. We believe that a valuation of 20x earnings, modestly below its 10-year average, is fair given the company's decent but unspectacular expected growth potential.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
Payout	27%	30%	35%	36%	38%	38%	39%	38%	33%	36%	43%	41%

AptarGroup has over 5,000 customers, with no customer accounting for more than 6% of sales. Additionally, three-quarters of sales come from outside of the United States, with more than half of sales coming from Europe. The company has various patents and trademarks to protect its designs. However, it faces stiff competition and has historically achieved returns on invested capital that are only marginally higher than its weighted average cost of capital. The Pharma segment, however, enjoys high switching costs due to regulatory certification and has higher profit margins.

AptarGroup has paid growing dividends for 26 consecutive years and maintains a low payout ratio. The company was only mildly affected by the previous recession, as it remained profitable and quickly recovered to all-time high sales and earnings in 2010. Its products across all three business segments are not very cyclical.

The company has nearly doubled its long-term debt over the past four years, but its interest coverage ratio remains healthy at over 9.33x. With a ratio of long-term debt to net income of approximately 8x, AptarGroup makes substantial use of leverage, although its consistent earnings should allow it to support that leverage safely.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

In our view, AptarGroup is a durable company with a long history of growing dividends. However, the valuation is higher than its historical average and compared to what we consider fair for this level of growth. The company's sizeable foreign exposure is both a source of opportunity and a risk. The exchange rates of various foreign currencies, especially the euro, will have a substantial impact on AptarGroup's earnings due to its significant international exposure. We rate AptarGroup as a sell at the current time due to its low expected total returns of just (5.4)% per year.
