Overview & Current Events

Tapestry Inc. (TPR) was founded in 2017 as a transformation from Coach IP Holdings LLC (founded in 1941) and is a leading American multinational luxury fashion holding company. The company is based in New York and is the parent company of three brands: Coach, Kate Spade, and Stuart Weitzman. The company's renaming came after Coach acquired Stuart Weitzman and Kate Spade and expanded from making Coach-brand handbags to producing a wider variety of products through their three primary brands. These products include various leather goods, footwear, accessories, clothes, fragrances, and jewelry. Tapestry has a market capitalization of approximately $4.4 billion, over 20,000 employees, and $4.9 billion in annual revenue. Coach continues to make up 70% of company sales, Kate Spade represents about a quarter of sales, and Stuart Weitzman is a small but growing segment in the overall business. The company sells products worldwide from its 1,500+ branded retail locations, brand websites, and through thousands of distributor retail locations.

Tapestry reported Fiscal year (FY)2020 fourth-quarter results and Full-Year FY2020 on August 13th, 2020. For the quarter, sales were down (53)% Year over Year (YoY), and sales were down (18)% for the full year compared to the entire year of 2019. The three Brands saw sales down over (50)% for the quarter, where Stuart Weitzman decreased (61)%. The company lost $(293) million in the quarter and lost $(652) million for the year. Net interest expense was $20 million in the quarter compared to $11 million in the year-ago period. On a non-GAAP basis, net loss earnings per share of $(0.25). This is compared to non-GAAP earnings per share of $0.61 in the prior-year period. For the full year, non-GAAP earnings per share of $0.97. This compared to non-GAAP earnings per share of $2.57 in the prior year. Interim CEO Ms. Crevoiserat said that the company has multiple initiatives that are designed to create a strong foundation for profitable expansion. She and management expect to "...return to sustained topline growth in the second half of fiscal 2021, with bottom-line growth in each of fiscal 2021, 2022 and 2023."

The company is not providing an FY2021 outlook because of the dynamic nature of the COVID-19 pandemic. However, consensus estimate that the company will make $1.87 per share for the full year of 2021. Thus, we will use $1.87 per share as of fair value and an annual rate of return calculation.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Tapestry had experienced negative earnings growth of (11.5)% since 2011, when it earned $2.98 per share, but has had (1.1)% annual growth over the past five years. Revenue has continued to grow at a CAGR of 9.5% for the past five years, while operating margins have deteriorated, resulting in flat and choppy earnings in recent years. We expect stabilization and 5.0% forward earnings growth, primarily due to share buybacks at low valuations and continued slow revenue growth, but the outcome is highly dependent on Tapestry's ability to maintain margins and sustain at least mild topline growth.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	17.3	18.4	14.9	16.2	19.4	17.4	18.3	17.4	15.2	13.7	8.6	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.3%	1.5%	2.2%	2.7%	3.6%	3.9%	3.4%	3.0%	3.5%	0.0%	0.0%	1.4%

Over the past decade, Tapestry has averaged a P/E ratio of 16.8. However, for most of that period, the company consisted entirely of the Coach brand and enjoyed higher returns on invested capital. With slowing sales and declining margins in a competitive environment of online competition and slower global growth, we consider a P/E ratio of 10 to be fair until the company can demonstrate a resumption of growth and stabilized margins. The company has upside valuation potential even with a partial reversion towards the mean of a P/E ratio of 12 or 13, but likely only if the company demonstrates improvement.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	23.3%	27.8%	33.3%	43.5%	70.3%	68.2%	62.8%	51.3%	52.5%	105.2%	18%	---

Tapestry's luxury brands, especially Coach, give the company at least a small economic moat. This is evidenced by its historically high returns on invested capital and considerable market outperformance since Coach went public in the early 2000s. However, the company's returns on invested capital have been declining in recent years, which may indicate a deterioration in brand strength or cyclical in nature as online retail puts margin pressure on all physical retailers. Overall, their investment returns and profitability remain above average but diminishing. The ongoing trade dispute between the United States and China puts further pressure on Tapestry, as a small portion of its products is made in China, but a significant amount of its sales are earned from China. Tapestry currently has a BBB- credit rating, which puts them on the low side of investment grade. The company's balance has deteriorated, with a Debt/Equity ratio of 2 compared to last reported 0.5. Still, the inconsistency of their earnings and economic vulnerability of the company appear to be driving lower overall credit quality from the rating agencies. The security does not necessarily offer growth or stability that many retirees rely on. The company did remain highly profitable during the previous two recessions as the primary Coach brand, but the expanded Tapestry company is untested by a downturn in its current form.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Tapestry has decent brands but faces stiff competition, global tariff uncertainty, coronavirus outbreak, and diminishing profitability along with the rest of the retail sector. The good news is that Tapestry is a producer of its products, rather than just a middleman, and has various online platforms from which to grow. We expect moderate forward returns of 9.6% per annum from Tapestry as a baseline case, but the result is expected to be highly variable. The dividend has been suspended, and we do not know when it will be restarted and how much. Overall, business uncertainty remains high. We consider Tapestry to be a hold.
