Overview & Current Events

ARMOUR Residential (ARR) is a mortgage REIT that was formed in 2008. The trust invests primarily in residential mortgage-backed securities that are guaranteed or issued by a United States government entity including Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac and Ginnie Mae. ARMOUR has a $630.5 million market capitalization and produces about $139.66 million in net revenues.

ARMOUR reported Q3 results on October 22nd. The trust's liquidity including cash and unencumbered securities amounted to $571 million with $11.62 book value per common share at quarter end. Core income in Q3 increased from 19 cents in Q2 to 35 cents per common share with comprehensive income at $61.9 million. ARMOUR also reported net interest income of $22.8 million.

We expect $1.30 in earnings-per-share for this year, a sharp decline against last year's results, reflecting challenging conditions for mREITs in 2020.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2025
EPS	$12.52	$15.38	$12.26	$8.14	$7.06	$5.57	-$5.54	$2.78	$2.59	$2.54	$1.30	$1.25
DPS	$12.16	$11.28	$9.60	$6.48	$4.80	$3.89	$3.02	$2.28	$2.28	$2.04	$1.20	$1.05

ARMOUR's cash flow has been volatile since its inception in 2008, but this is to be expected with all mREITs. Of late, a shrinking balance sheet and declining spreads have crimped the trust's ability to produce cash flow.

That being said, the economic disruption caused by the coronavirus outbreak has disrupted the business model, leading to a sharp decline in cash flow per share, as well as a steep dividend cut. Moving forward, we expect the low interest rate environment and heavy government stimulus to enable the company to resume growth, though it will likely take a while for them to rebuild to previous levels of book value and earnings power.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2025
Avg. P/E	5.0	3.7	4.2	3.9	4.2	3.9	---	9.3	8.6	6.7	7.7	7.0
Avg. Yld.	19%	20.0%	18.5%	20.2%	16.3%	17.9%	13.9%	8.9%	10.6%	12.0%	12.0%	12.0%

As one would expect, ARMOUR's valuation has moved around a lot in recent years. With cash flow declining of late, the valuation has moved significantly higher. Given the current uncertainty and headwinds facing the sector and the economy as a whole, we have reduced fair value further to 7 times cash flow. The company's current price to cash flow is considered overvalued. Given that shares trade slightly above that level based on expectation for this year's cash flow per share, we expect multiple contraction over the coming years, providing a slight headwind to total returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	97%	73%	78%	80%	68%	70%	---	82%	88%	80%	92%	84%

ARMOUR’s quality metrics have been volatile given the performance of the trust as rates have moved around over the years. Gross margins have moved down since short-term rates began to rise meaningfully a couple of years ago, although it appears most of that damage has been done. Balance sheet leverage had been moving down slightly, but it saw an uptick again this past quarter. However, we do not forecast significant movement in either direction from this point. Interest coverage has declined with spreads but also appears to have stabilized, so we are somewhat optimistic moving forward, while keeping in mind the significant potential for volatility. ARMOUR is facing headwinds from the coronavirus outbreak and an overall economic downturn. As a result, a steep dividend cut was necessary to preserve the balance sheet and allow the REIT to reposition itself for survival and future growth.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

In total, we see 7.4% annualized total returns for shareholders in the coming years thanks to the attractive dividend yield of 12%. ARMOUR has endured some tough times in the past but with prudent leverage and a management team that does not chase unprofitable growth, it appears the company should be able to weather its uncertain future. We therefore rate it as a hold for aggressive investors, but not for conservative investors, and reiterate the inherent risks with mREITs.
