Overview & Current Events

AvalonBay Communities (AVB) is a $23.5 billion multifamily REIT that owns a portfolio of 270 apartment communities with over 73,500 units and is developing 18 additional properties with over 7,200 units. The trust's strategy consists of owning top-tier properties in the major metropolitan areas of New England, New York/New Jersey, Washington D.C., California, and the Pacific Northwest. It was formed by the 1998 merger of Avalon Properties with Bay Apartment Communities and has raised its dividend for nine consecutive years.

AvalonBay reported Q3 results on 10/28/20. FFO per share was at $2.06, falling short of the consensus estimate of $2.17 and also down from $2.34 in the year-ago quarter. The trust also experienced a decline of 6.1% year-over-year in rental revenue for established communities. Meanwhile, Q3 residential revenue collection was strong at 95.2% and October rent collections were even better at 96.1%. Nevertheless, NOI for established communities in Q3 fell 10.1% year-over-year.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Over the past decade, AvalonBay generated very impressive annualized Core FFO/share growth of ~9.7% thanks to its growing scale and strong rental rate growth. However, this growth rate has slowed dramatically in recent years, coming in at 5.5% in 2017, 4.4% in 2018, and just 3.8% in 2019. This year growth will take a pause as rent collections have taken a hit from COVID-19 headwinds.

Potential headwinds for AvalonBay are the threat of future rent control legislation in its West Coast markets (this was already on the ballot in the 2018 mid-term elections) as well as the lateness of the economic cycle. Furthermore, its denser markets will likely see less growth in the years to come as people become increasingly wary of moving to big cities due to social unrest and the lingering fears from the COVID-19 outbreak. As a result, we are projecting a 3.6% growth rate over the next five years despite recent growth strength.

on margins - not to mention a challenging acquisition climate due to compressed cap rates – will lead to continued slowing growth. Therefore, the stock will warrant a lower valuation multiple and a higher dividend yield. Given the sharp pullback in the share price this year, we think the stock is only slightly overvalued at present.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
Payout	91.8%	89.7%	76.9%	71.5%	68.7%	68.4%	66.2%	65.9%	65.9%	65.3%	72.3%	66.7%

AvalonBay significantly outperformed the S&P 500 during the Great Recession due to the defensive nature of the multifamily sector. However, it still experienced a sizable decline in FFO/share (from $4.61 in 2007 down to a low of $3.89 in 2009). Additionally, multifamily apartments lack a strong competitive advantage due to the ease of creating new supply, as well as the alternative sources of affordable housing in large metropolitan areas in which AvalonBay operates. Given that, AvalonBay's investments are essentially plays on the economic strength of its core markets. Furthermore, the fact that most of its assets are high-quality "A" apartment units makes it even more levered to the state of the economy, as these apartments are in high demand during strong economic conditions, but are less affordable during a recession. AVB does have considerable economies of scale, low cost of capital, operational and marketing expertise, and a brand name advantage, which enable it to compete effectively against competitors. The trust's balance sheet is also very strong, as its sector-leading A- credit rating makes clear. AvalonBay has plenty of resources to invest in its development projects and sustain the dividend during a downturn, while also reacting opportunistically to opportunities that may become available.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

AvalonBay has an excellent track record and a stellar balance sheet. After a sharp pullback in the share price and fairly strong fundamental performance, AvalonBay appears fairly valued at this time and likely to deliver solid risk-adjusted 5.9% annualized returns moving forward (average annualized total returns over the next five years). As a result, we rate it a hold. If growth prospects pick back up or the stock declines meaningfully, shares will likely warrant buying but until then AvalonBay remains a solid hold for conservative income investors.
