Overview & Current Events

Otter Tail Corporation goes back to 1907 with its electric utility, which was founded in Fergus Falls, MN. The company eventually expanded into metal fabrication and plastics manufacturing and today, it has about $887 million in annual revenue split between utility, manufacturing and plastics operations. Otter Tail has a $1.6 billion market capitalization.

Otter Tail reported Q3 fiscal 2020 earnings on 11/02/20. Consolidated operating revenues increased by 3.1% year-over-year to $235.8 million from $228.7 million in the year-ago quarter and consolidated net income increased to $35.9 million from $24.7 million in the year-ago period. Diluted earnings-per-share rose to $0.87 from $0.62 in the year-ago period. The company reported that the third-quarter earnings per share increase was driven by increased earnings in Electric and Plastics Segments. Meanwhile, the corporation raised and narrowed its 2020 earnings per share guidance range from $2.10-$2.30 to $2.26-$2.36.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
EPS	$0.38	$0.45	$1.05	$1.37	$1.55	$1.56	$1.60	$1.86	$2.06	$2.15	$2.31	$2.78
DPS	$1.19	$1.19	$1.19	$1.19	$1.21	$1.23	$1.25	$1.28	$1.34	$1.40	$1.48	$1.80
Shares³	36	36	36	36	37	38	39	40	40	40	40	42

Otter Tail's earnings-per-share history has been fairly strong in the last decade, as earnings bottomed in 2010 and have grown every year since. Guidance for this year is for ~$2.31 and we see average growth of 3.8% going forward. Otter Tail will achieve this growth via revenue increases from its utility business – which is looking stronger now that North Dakota and South Dakota have approved rate increases – as well as continued strong performances in its other two, non-utility lines of business. It continues to increase margins as well and the diversification it offers over other utilities is certainly a strength that is showing its value.

The company's manufacturing and plastics businesses have benefited from higher order rates as well as a lower income tax rate, while seeing gross margins tick higher over time. The higher operating expenses seen in prior quarters are uncharacteristic for Otter Tail, so we don't see any long-term impairment just yet.

We see all of these factors as continuing until further notice and as a result, earnings should grow steadily in the coming years. Otter Tail's full rate case in South Dakota is still pending, but the company has a favorable relationship with its regulators, so we are optimistic that Otter Tail will continue to receive the rate increases it needs to grow revenue.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2025
Avg. P/E	55.1	47.5	21.7	21.1	18.8	18.2	20.2	22.1	22.2	24.2	17.4	20.0
Avg. Yld.	5.7%	5.6%	5.2%	4.1%	4.1%	4.3%	3.9%	3.1%	2.9%	2.7%	3.7%	3.2%

The stock's price-to-earnings multiple has moved significantly lower in recent years after being artificially inflated due to low earnings-per-share from 2008 to 2011. However, today's multiple of 17.4 is near its recent historical norm of 20 and as such, we see the stock as undervalued.

We think shares will remain around a multiple of 20 over time, causing a modest tailwind to total returns moving forward. The yield should remain near where it is today between 3%-4% as dividend increases keep pace with earnings-per-share growth, and Otter Tail remains a decent income stock choice among utilities.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
Payout	---	---	113%	87%	78%	79%	78%	69%	65%	65%	64%	65%

Otter Tail's payout ratio remains around two-thirds of earnings and we don't expect that will change. The company continues to boost its payout at roughly the same rate as earnings, so the dividend is quite safe and should continue to move higher over time.

Otter Tail's competitive advantage of having a diversified business model is also its disadvantage during recessions. The non-utility businesses are providing strong growth today but during the last recession, earnings fell much more than expected for a pure utility. That will likely happen next time there is a downturn, so investors should keep this in mind.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We see Otter Tail as a stock that has a relatively strong growth outlook compared to its peers and is trading right around fair value. We see the stock providing 9.7% annualized total returns moving forward along with a safe 3.7% dividend yield that will grow with inflation over time. As a result, it is a solid holding for conservative dividend growth investors, and we rate it a buy.
