Overview & Current Events

UMB Financial Corporation is a financial services holding company headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri. Through a number of operating subsidiaries, UMB offers complete banking, asset management, health spending solutions, and related financial services to commercial, institutional, and personal customers nationwide. The company's most prominent operating subsidiary is UMB Bank, N.A. UMB has increased its dividend for an impressive 29 consecutive years. It trades with a $3.3 billion market capitalization and produces about $1.2 billion in annual revenue.

UMB reported third quarter earnings on October 27th, 2020 with both top and bottom-line results coming in ahead of expectations. Net income came to $1.52 per share, or $73 million in Q3, with operating income coming to $76 million, or $1.59 per share. Pre-tax, pre-provision income of $99 million was a staggering 10% increase from the second quarter of this year as conditions continued to improve for banks coming out of COVID-related weakness earlier in the year.

Average loans were up at an annualized growth rate of 17% from the second quarter, while deposits grew $1.3 billion to $24.1 billion from the second quarter. Book value per share soared 14% to $59.43, and tangible book value was up 15% to $55.19 compared to the same period last year. Charge-offs were also strong at just 0.13% of average loans, which is tremendously strong in this environment.

We now forecast $4.15 in earnings-per-share for UMB this year, which is down from 2019's blockbuster results, but higher than any other year in the past decade.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
EPS	$2.26	$2.77	$3.04	$3.20	$2.65	$2.44	$3.22	$3.67	$3.94	$4.96	$4.15	$5.05
DPS	$0.75	$0.79	$0.83	$0.87	$0.91	$0.95	$0.99	$1.04	$1.17	$1.21	$1.28	$1.48
Shares¹	40	40	40	45	46	49	50	50	49	49	49	49

UMB's adjusted earnings-per-share have compounded at about 7% per year since 2009. However, short-term headwinds exist in the form of the flattened yield curve, which is crimping lending margins. We see 4% annual growth coming from 2020 earnings, which is down from 6% on credit quality and yield curve concerns. We think continued asset base expansion is the key as UMB is working its way further away from fee generation and more towards traditional lending, as evidenced by the sizable increase in net interest income again in 2019, and a modest boost in fee income. If rates remain unfavorable, it should see some downward pressure on earnings expansion. However, the bank has thus far been able to overcome an unfavorable yield curve by swiftly expanding the amount of lending it is doing, as it showed in 2019 and into 2020. We think this growth will be difficult to replicate as the current economic cycle matures, so we have become more cautious on the bank's projected growth.

The dividend could continue to grow at roughly the rate of earnings in the coming years, rising from $1.28 this year to $1.48 or so in 2025. UMB does not appear to have any interest in boosting the payout ratio and chooses instead to build its capital buffer or increase its lending capacity. UMB raised its payout by 3.2% at the end of October 2020.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	Now	2024
Avg. P/E	16.9	14.1	15.0	17.0	22.3	21.4	17.7	20.2	18.5	13.3	16.9	13.0
Avg. Yld.	2.0%	2.0%	1.8%	1.6%	1.5%	1.8%	1.7%	1.4%	1.6%	1.8%	1.8%	2.3%

UMB now trades at 16.9 times earnings estimates for this year, against our estimate of fair value at 13. We see the stock as overvalued as a result, which could provide a meaningful headwind to total returns. We expect the dividend yield to remain near 2% for the foreseeable future.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2025
Payout	33%	29%	27%	27%	34%	39%	31%	28%	30%	24%	31%	29%

UMB's payout ratio is just one-third of normalized earnings, and the bank boasts a 29-year dividend increase streak following its recent payout increase. Given these factors, we see the dividend as safe with lots of room to grow in the future. As mentioned, we don't see a lot of upside to the payout ratio, so the dividend should grow about in line with earnings, keeping the payout ratio around 30% for the foreseeable future.

UMB Financial Corporation's largest competitive advantage is its entrenched position in the financial services sector. Because of industry regulations, it is very difficult for a new competitor to enter into the market and take market share from established lenders like UMB. The company's small size is also a potential advantage, as it allows the company to explore smaller, less-competitive growth opportunities that the big banks would not be interested in pursuing. Of course, recessions aren't kind to banks of any size, and UMB's earnings will likely suffer during this downturn, as we are forecasting for 2020. To its credit, UMB is holding up quite well considering the circumstances.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

UMB's valuation has worsened since our last update. We now see just 0.7% total annual returns in the coming years, consisting of the current 1.8% yield, modest earnings-per-share growth, and a large headwind from the valuation. We are downgrading UMB from hold to sell on the murky growth outlook and a very high valuation.
