Brown & Brown has a remarkable growth track record that includes a decade-long compound annual earnings growth rate of more than 11%. The company's book value per common share has grown at a similar rate, expanding at ~9% per year over the last ten years. Brown & Brown's growth strategy is both simple and sustainable. Over the years, the company has actively acquired smaller insurance brokerage firms and integrated them into its larger operating base. We believe that this strategy has plenty of room left to run and forecast that the firm can continue to grow at 7% per year for the foreseeable future. Brown & Brown continues to perform extremely well in all sorts of environments, and we see the growth runway as long.

In addition, we see 9% annual growth in the dividend for the foreseeable future given that Brown & Brown has exhibited strong earnings growth over time, and its strategy is sustainable. The company has also proven it is willing and able to return capital to shareholders via large dividend increases over time.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	20.6	21.7	23.0	20.9	22.4	20.6	24.2	18.5	23.9	25.7	26.7	22.0
Avg. Yld.	1.4%	1.3%	1.1%	1.3%	1.3%	1.3%	1.2%	1.1%	1.0%	0.8%	0.7%	0.9%

Brown & Brown has historically traded at a somewhat lofty valuation, with a 10-year average price-to-earnings ratio of 22.2. Looking ahead our fair value earnings multiple for Brown & Brown is a price-to-earnings ratio of 22. Using our 2021 earnings estimate of $1.95 and the company's current stock price, Brown & Brown is trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 26.7. Valuation contraction to an earnings multiple of 22 would reduce Brown & Brown's total returns modestly if this mean reversion occurred over a five-year holding period.

We see the yield rising somewhat over time as the payout rises, but primarily due to a potentially lower valuation.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2026
Payout	30%	27%	26%	25%	27%	27%	20%	26%	24%	21%	19%	21%

Brown & Brown's competitive advantage comes from its willingness to execute small and frequent acquisitions. This growth-by-acquisition strategy gives the company an enduring opportunity to continue growing its business for the foreseeable future. Brown & Brown is also modestly recession resistant. The company's earnings-per-share declined by just -20.5% during the worst of the 2007-2009 financial crisis, while its dividend continued to grow. We note the company's 2020 results were unaffected by the COVID-19 crisis.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Brown & Brown has many of the characteristics of a high-quality business. It has increased its dividend for 27 consecutive years, and company insiders own a great deal of its outstanding stock. With that said, its valuation is still too rich to earn a buy rating today. The stock has rallied strongly since our last update, and as a result, due to projected total returns of just 3.8% annually, we are downgrading Brown & Brown from hold to sell. We see the growth story as very attractive, but the recent rally has pushed the stock well above our estimate of fair value.
