Overview & Current Events

W.P. Carey is a commercial real estate focused REIT that operates two segments: real estate ownership and investment management. The REIT operates more than 1,200 single tenant properties on a net lease basis, across the US and Northern and Western Europe. W.P. Carey was founded more than 40 years ago and is headquartered in New York, NY.

W. P. Carey reported its first quarter earnings results on April 30. The trust reported that its revenues totaled $310 million during the quarter, which was 4% more than the revenues that W. P. Carey generated during the previous year's period. Revenues came in ahead of the analyst consensus estimate.

During the first quarter the trust was more profitable than what the analyst community expected, as funds-from-operations came in at $1.22 on a per-share basis, which was $0.07 more than the analyst consensus. Funds-from-operations were down on a per-share basis compared to the previous year's quarter, however.

W. P. Carey has updated its guidance for 2021, forecasting funds from operations in a range of $4.87 to $4.97 on a per-share basis, which means an improvement versus 2020 at the midpoint of the guidance range. 2020 had been a down year for the company, with some of the impact being caused by the coronavirus crisis, while a growing share count that led to some dilution, also had an impact. In 2021, W.P. Carey is looking forward to getting back on growth track.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2026
FFOPS	$4.71	$3.76	$4.22	$4.81	$4.99	$5.12	$5.30	$5.41	$5.00	$4.60	$4.92	$5.84
DPS	$2.19	$2.44	$3.39	$3.69	$3.81	$3.90	$4.01	$4.09	$4.15	$4.18	$4.20	$4.64

W. P. Carey generated FFO-per-share growth at a rate of 6% annually between 2009 and 2019, which is a very solid growth rate for a real estate investment trust, as these usually are low-growth vehicles. The growth rate has slowed down over the years, though, as W. P. Carey's FFO-per-share growth rate averaged just 3% between 2014 and 2018. FFOPS was lower in 2020 than 2014 as a result of COVID-19 and its impact on the REIT's operations.

W. P. Carey invests additional money into new properties continuously. Since 2012 the REIT invested more than $10 billion into new assets by either purchasing entire REITs or through asset/portfolio purchases. W. P. Carey can access debt markets at favorable rates, which lowers the trust's cost of capital, which then allows for improved investment spreads. Since W. P. Carey cannot finance these acquisitions with debt alone, and since the REIT does not retain a large portion of its cash flows, W. P. Carey issues new shares regularly. A factor that drives organic revenue growth is that the contracts W. P. Carey and the tenants sign include ongoing rent increases, which results in growing revenues even without new asset purchases. These growth factors should persist going forward, which is why W. P. Carey should be able to increase its profits over the coming years. Due to the defensive nature of its business, W.P. Carey remained profitable during the pandemic and was even able to raise its dividend.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
P/FFO	8.7	12.4	13.4	12.9	12.7	12.2	12.4	12.0	15.8	15.2	15.0	12.5
Avg. Yld.	5.6%	5.2%	5.2%	5.7%	6.0%	6.2%	6.1%	6.3%	5.3%	6.0%	5.7%	6.3%

W. P. Carey's share price is up since our last update, and up quite substantially from the lows seen during the spring sell-off in 2020. Right now, shares are trading for 15 times this year's expected funds from operations, which is a bit of a premium over the historic mean. The dividend yield is still relatively high, at close to 6%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	46.5%	64.9%	80.3%	76.7%	76.4%	76.2%	75.7%	75.6%	83.0%	90.9%	85.4%	79.4%

W. P. Carey has grown its dividend very regularly during the last decade. There has not been a dividend cut or dividend freeze during that time frame. The dividend payout ratio is high, as the REIT is paying out more than 80% of its funds from operations via dividends this year. We still believe that the dividend is sustainable, especially as W. P. Carey did not have any problems financing its dividend during previous recessions.

W.P. Carey is quite recession-proof, as even during the last financial crisis the REIT managed to keep its profits stable. Due to diversification across industries, as well as geographically (65% US, 30% Europe, 5% other), W. P. Carey is not overly dependent on the progress of any single market, which makes the REIT a safer investment. This safety is underlined by long-lasting contracts, remarkably high occupancy rates of ~99%, considerable scale, and an investment grade credit rating. W. P. Carey is one of the biggest players in its industry, and its focus on the sale-and-lease-back-transactions niche markets means that it is unlikely that competitors or new market entrant will hurt its business.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

W. P. Carey is a fundamentally strong, low-risk REIT, and the trust has a very solid dividend growth track record. W. P. Carey is active in an attractive and non-cyclical market segment. The REIT is weathering the current pandemic relatively well, and even increased its dividend in 2020 and 2021, although only marginally. Shares are trading above our fair value estimate, however, which is why we rate the stock a hold for now.
