Overview & Current Events

Sanofi, a global pharmaceutical leader, incorporated in 1994. The company develops and markets a variety of therapeutic treatments and vaccines. Pharmaceuticals account for ~72% of sales, vaccines makeup ~15% of sales and consumer healthcare contributing the remainder of sales. Sanofi is truly a global leader, with a third of sales coming from the U.S., a little more than a quarter coming from Western Europe, and the remainder of sales coming from emerging markets/rest of the world. Sanofi produces annual revenues of about $45 billion. Sanofi is incorporated in France, but U.S. investors have access to the company through an American Depositary Receipt, or ADR.

On 7/29/2021, Sanofi reported second quarter earnings results. Unless otherwise noted, all figures are listed in U.S. dollars and constant exchange rates. Revenue grew 7.6% to $10.4 billion, topping expectations by $491 million. The company's earnings-per-share per ADR of $0.82 was a 9.3% increase from the prior year and $0.07 above estimates.

Pharmaceutical revenues grew 11.6%. Specialty Care sales were up 15.3% from the prior year. Dupixent, which treats patients with moderate-to-severe asthma, was higher by almost 57% due to higher uptake rates in adults and children age 6 to 11. Total prescriptions improved 50% and new patients were up 52% even as patient levels remain compressed due to COVID-19. Dupixent was approved for use in children ages 6 to 11 in the U.S. in May of 2020 and was recently approved for use in China for treatment in adults. The product is now approved for use in adults in 53 countries and in adolescents in ~20 countries. Sanofi estimates that the product can be launched in ~50 additional countries. Oncology was up 25.4%. Jevtana, which treats prostate cancer that has spread to other parts of the body, remains challenged and had a sales decrease of 9%, but the remainder of the portfolio continues to show excellent growth rates. Rare Diseases grew nearly 9%, with gains once again made in all areas. Cardiovascular and Established Products gained 6% due to top products seeing higher demand. Vaccine revenues were higher by more than 16% due to strength in meningitis and boosters. Consumer Healthcare returned to growth with a 12% improvement in sales. Cough, cold and flu remains weak due to social distancing, but pain, digestive and mental wellness all posted double-digit growth rates. By region, U.S. sales grew 20.4%, Europe increased 14.4% and the rest of the world was higher by 4.2%. China was up 4%.

Sanofi offered revised guidance and now expects earnings-per-share growth of approximately 12%, up from a high single-digit growth previously. Currency is still currency expected to be a 4% to 5% headwind to results.

Sanofi SA (SNY)

Updated July 31st, 2021 by Nathan Parsh

Sanofi saw earnings growth during the last recession, though there has been some variance in results in the past few years. This is the case with many ADRs and is often a result of currency fluctuations. We expect the company's pharmaceutical segment to continue to show growth in the coming years, leading to a 4% annual increase in earnings and dividends per share through 2026. The fluctuations in dividends received for the ADR is, again, due largely to currency exchanges, as Sanofi has increased its dividend for 27 consecutive years in its local currency. Sanofi pays an annual dividend, usually in May or June.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	12.0	15.3	22.7	25.7	26.8	22.6	19.5	21.3	33.9	8.2	14.1	16.0
Avg. Yld.	4.9%	4.2%	3.7%	3.7%	3.3%	4.1%	3.6%	4.3%	3.9%	3.4%	3.7%	3.3%

Shares of Sanofi have decreased $1, or 1.9%, since our 4/29/2021 update. We maintain our 2026 target price-to-earnings ratio of 16, which is in line with peers. Based off of updated guidance for earnings-per-share for 2021, shares trade with a price-to-earnings multiple of 14.1 today. If the stock expanded to our target valuation, investors would see an additional 2.6% added to annual returns through 2026. The stock's 3.7% yield is well-above the yield of the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	59%	65%	85%	96%	89%	93%	70%	58%	52%	49%	52%	52%

Sanofi's specialty care division, especially in the areas of rare disease and immunology, have demonstrated high rates of growth. These areas are likely to be continued sources of strength for the company. Several of these products, such as Dupixent, are just starting to gain traction. Sanofi has also showed a willingness to use acquisitions to fund its growth. Given Sanofi's products are used to treat diseases, and thus, shouldn't be dependent upon strong economic conditions, we see Sanofi as a defensive play for when the next recession strikes.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Sanofi is now expected to return 9.8% annually through 2026, up from our previous estimate of 8.7%. Our projected return stems from a 4% earnings growth rate, starting yield of 3.7% and a low single-digit contribution from multiple expansion. Second quarter results were strong nearly across the board. Dupixent continues to see very high growth rates even as patient visits remain below pre-pandemic levels. We have raised our 2026 price target $2 to $72 and now view shares of Sanofi as a buy due to projected returns.
