Overview & Current Events

Lamar Advertising traces its lineage back to 1902 when Charles Lamar helped form a small poster company in Florida. Since that time, the business has grown exponentially into an advertising giant with ~350,000 outdoor displays in nearly every state, Canada and Puerto Rico. The trust changed its corporate structure to become a REIT in 2014 and today, it trades with a $10.9 billion market capitalization.

Lamar reported Q2 2021 results on 8/6/21. Net revenue fell by 28.0% to $445.1 million, net income came in at $119.6 million, and adjusted EBITDA grew by 60.3% to $213.5 million. Adjusting for acquisitions, net revenue increased by 28.9% and EBITDA increased by 59.9%. That said, the trust's financial position remained solid with $856.8 million in total liquidity ($735.6 million available on the revolving senior credit facility, $52.5 million available under the Accounts Receivable Securitization Program, and $68.7 million in cash and cash equivalents).

Meanwhile, total operating expenses increased 5.3% to $296.1 million and operating income also increased $82.5 million to $149.0 million, compared to $66.5 million in the year-ago period. The company updated its guidance range for full-year diluted AFFO per share to between $6.10 and $6.30 and net income per diluted share between $3.67 and $3.83.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

|---------------------------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|---------------|---------------|
| FFOPS              | $3.31 | $3.25 | $3.62 | $4.08 | $4.59 | $5.00 | $5.05 | $5.50 | $5.75 | $5.10 | $6.25 | $6.50 |
| DPS                | ---    | ---    | ---    | ---    | $2.50 | $2.75 | $3.02 | $3.56 | $3.84 | $2.00 | $3.00 | $4.00 |
| Shares<sup>3</sup> | 93     | 94     | 95     | 96     | 97     | 97     | 98     | 100    | 101    | 101    | 101    | 105    |

At times in the past, Lamar has struggled to grow. However, over the past decade Lamar has been busy growing organically and through acquisitions, fueling strong FFO-per-share growth. The trust is experiencing strong growth tailwinds after growing AFFO/share by 8.9% in 2018 and is carrying new acquisitions from 2019 and reduced COVID-19 headwinds into 2021.

We see revenue as the main driver of growth as Lamar grows organically and through acquisition, as the additional revenue should provide some leverage on the trust's largely fixed expense base, improving margins, providing extra FFO/share growth. Lamar has significant debt, so interest expense consumes a significant amount of operating income. However, it has done a nice job in recent years of keeping its debt at manageable levels. Overall, we expect FFO per share to grow at a 0.8% annualized clip over the next half decade.

Valuation Analysis

|------------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|
| Avg. P/FFO | 8.3  | 11.9 | 14.4 | 13.1 | 13.1 | 13.4 | 14.7 | 14.2 | 15.3 | 16.0 | 17.5 | 12.0 |
| Avg. Yld.  | ---  | ---  | ---  | ---  | 4.2% | 4.1% | 4.1% | 4.6% | 4.4% | 2.5% | 2.7% | 5.1% |

Lamar's price-to-funds-from-operations ratio has moved around a lot in the past decade due to choppy FFO results. We see the current valuation as being above fair value, which we've estimated at 12 times FFO due to the choppiness of earnings and the leveraged, acquisition-focused business model. At today's multiple of 17.5 times 2021 FFO, we see a headwind to total returns in the years to come from multiple contraction.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Payout | ---  | ---  | ---  | ---  | 55%  | 55%  | 60%  | 65%  | 67%  | 39%  | 48%  | 62%  |

Lamar's quality metrics have been remarkably stable considering the amount of change the trust has gone through in the past decade in terms of strategy and converting to a REIT. Margins have crept a bit higher over time and while we see some operating leverage on its expense base, gross margins have plateaued. The trust's balance sheet remains significantly leveraged, and that should remain the same. Interest coverage has improved markedly in recent years and with a solid FFO growth outlook, it should only improve further.

Lamar is somewhat susceptible to recession but during the Great Recession, its FFO-per-share dipped only briefly before recovering. Its immense size is certainly a competitive advantage, and its long operating history and brand it has built over the past century is certainly a long-term asset. Lamar's competitive positioning should continue to improve with its acquisition-heavy strategy moving forward.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Lamar offers investors a well-covered 2.7% yield. We believe management will continue to grow the dividend in the years to come, though growth will slow as the recent headwinds have pushed management to redouble their efforts to deleverage instead of investing in new acquisitions. Overall, we view shares as a sell as the income looks decent, but total returns are only expected to be -2.6% annualized over the next half decade.
