Overview & Current Events

L3Harris Technologies (LHX) is the result of a merger between L3 Technologies and Harris Corporation completed on June 29, 2019 forming the sixth largest defense contractor. Shareholders of L3 Technologies received 1.30 shares of Harris Corporation for each of their own shares outstanding. The company now reports four business segments: Integrated Mission Systems (30% of revenue), Communication Systems (23% of revenue), Space and Airborne Systems (25% of revenue), and Aviation Systems (23% of revenue). The majority of the L3Harris' sales are to the U.S. Government or to other defense contractors. The combined companies had revenue of about $18.2B in 2020.

L3Harris reported improved Q2 2021 results on August 3, 2021. Companywide revenue rose 5.0% to $4,668M from $4,445M and diluted non-GAAP EPS increased 15% to $3.26 from $2.83 on year-over-year basis due to growth in all four segments offset by divestitures of Combat Propulsion Systems and Military Training.

Integrated Mission Systems segment revenue was rose 12% to $1,494M from $1,331M in the prior year due to growth in Maritime and ISR programs offset by declines Electro Optical and 150 bps margin decline. Revenue for Space & Airborne Systems increased 3.0% to $1,287M from $1,249M. Growth came from Space, Intel & Cyber offset by a decline in Electronic Warfare and F-35 Mission Avionics. Communications systems revenue increased 1.3% to $1,127M from $1,112M due to growth in Tactical Communications, Integrated Vision, and Global Communications offset by declines in Public Safety and Broadband Communications. Aviation Systems revenue rose 1.1% to $809M from $800M due to recovery in Commercial Aviation, Training, Avionics, and growth in Defense Aviation.

L3Harris will divest Electron Devices subject to customary approvals. The book-to-bill ratio was 1.00 in the quarter.

The company guided for 3.0% – 5.0% organic revenue growth and updated EPS guidance to $12.80 - $13.00 in 2021.

L3Harris has only a short operating history. But the new company is positioned for both top and bottom line growth in high margin market segments. Increased defense spending will support top line growth. Both predecessor organizations have a history of increasing earnings and dividends. We are currently forecasting average annual earnings per share growth of 8% out to 2026. The COVID-19 pandemic negatively impacted revenue in the commercial aviation business in 2020. Bottom line growth will be driven by organic sales increases, higher margins, and robust share buybacks. The bottom line will also benefit from cost synergies from the recent merger. L3Harris announced a $6B (~16% of market capitalization) share repurchase program of which $2.3B will occur in 2021. L3Harris also raised the dividend 20% in 2021. We are forecasting on average 8% annual increase in dividends out to 2026 due to the low payout ratio.

¹ Note that L3Harris is the successor organization to Harris and thus tabular data before 2019 is for Harris.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	10.1	8.3	9.6	13.3	14.2	13.9	19.7	22.2	20.3	36.2	17.8	16.0

L3Harris' stock price is up since our last report as U.S. federal budget and economic uncertainties fade. We have increased our earnings estimate to the mid-point of current guidance. Our fair value multiple is 16X discounting for merger uncertainties. The stock is trading above our fair value estimate of $206. Our 5-year price target is $302.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	22%	25%	30%	34%	37%	35%	41%	36%	28%	29%	32%	32%

As a large defense contractor L3Harris has competitive advantages related to defense contracting, which often requires knowledge of acquisition regulations and accounting standards particularly for large programs. The company develops and manufactures complex and bespoke systems for the DoD requiring a skilled work force with security clearances that is not easily replicated. Notably, L3Harris is the market leader in tactical communications. Furthermore, L3Harris has built long-term relationships with both the DoD and prime contractors in its areas of expertise. These attributes make it somewhat recession resistant. But the company may experience top and bottom line declines if defense programs are cut, or the defense budget is decreased. COVID-19 is causing headwinds for commercial aviation and public safety.

L3Harris took on debt to fund the merger. Short-term debt now stands at $3M and long-term debt is now $7,061M offset by cash and equivalents of $2,029M. Interest coverage is decent at 9.8X, and the leverage ratio is about 1.5X.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We are forecasting 7.4% annualized total return over the next five years. L3Harris had a solid quarter as the U.S. economy and commercial aviation recovers. This should continue into 2021 as vaccination rates rise. The defense budget is prioritizing space and hypersonics and L3Harris is well positioned in this area. The company is rapidly raising the dividend and it is well covered by earnings. At the current stock price, we rate this stock a hold.
