Overview & Current Events

Best Buy Co. Inc. is one the largest consumer electronics retailers in North America with operations in the U.S. and Canada. Best Buy sells consumer electronics, personal computers, software, mobile devices, and appliances and provides services. At end of Q2 FY2022, Best Buy operated 947 Best Buy stores in the U.S, 15 Best Buy Outlet Centers in the U.S., 21 Pacific Sales Stores, 129 Best Buy stores in Canada, and 33 Best Buy Mobile Stand-Alone Stores in Canada. Best Buy exited Mexico operations in fiscal 2021. The company continues to lower total store count during the COVID-19 pandemic continuing a long-term trend. The company's annual sales exceeded $47B in fiscal 2021.

Best Buy reported very strong Q2 FY2022 results on August 24, 2021. Enterprise revenue increased to $11,849M from $9,910M and non-GAAP diluted EPS increased 74% to $2.98 from $1.71 on a year-over year basis. GAAP diluted EPS increased 76% to $2.90 from $1.65. Comparable enterprise revenue increased 19.6%, as demand was very high, making it four quarters in a row of double-digit growth. Domestic revenue rose 20.6% driven by a 20.8% rise in comparable sales offset by permanent store closures. Comparable domestic online sales fell (-28.1%) to $3.49B compared to the prior year due to the reopening of the U.S. economy. Domestic online sales now comprise about 31.7% of total domestic revenue versus 53.1% last year. International segment revenue rose 7.2% to $838M due to 5.0% comparable sales growth. Best Buy exited its operations in Mexico and closed all stores there this past year.

Best Buy was initially adversely affected by COVID-19 due to local government restrictions and store closures. But Best Buy is benefitting from higher on-line sales from consumers and businesses. COVID-19 has changed how people work, attend school, entertain, and eat. This has driven sales of electronics, appliances, tablets, and home theater.

Federal government stimulus has helped increase electronics sales demand leading a strong start to fiscal 2022. Best Buy raised its outlook again to 9% - 11% enterprise comparable sales growth from 3% to 6% and (-2%) to 1% initially. The company increased its share repurchase outlook to $2.5 billion for fiscal 2022.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Best Buy's diluted non-GAAP EPS growth is volatile. It was affected by the Great Recession and more recently the ongoing transition to online shopping. In fact, sales growth was flat-to-negative from fiscal 2012 to 2017. But saying that, the company's efforts to prioritize online sales growth, optimize store count and extract cost efficiencies has been taking hold leading to organic sales growth and higher earnings accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. We are forecasting on average 6% EPS and 8% DPS growth out to fiscal 2027, but growth will be uneven. The payout ratio is low so there is room for further dividend increases. Indeed, the quarterly payout was raised 27.3% in fiscal 2022.

¹ Best Buy's fiscal year ends at the beginning of February. All tables are in fiscal year.

² Diluted Non-GAAP EPS including restructuring charges, intangible asset amortization, and acquisition-related transaction costs.

³ Share count in millions.

Best Buy's stock price is down since our last report. The company continues to benefit from the impact of COVID-19 due to still elevated stay at-home activity. On-line sales are slowing relative to fiscal 2020 but the company's momentum in FY 2021 continued into FY 2022. Consensus earnings estimates is up to $9.39 in fiscal 2022. Our estimate of the fair value multiple is 12X near the trailing 5-year valuation. Our fair value is now $116. Our 5-year price target is now $156.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	17%	26%	33%	28%	33%	31%	31%	34%	33%	28%	29%	32%

As a retailer Best Buy is in a very competitive industry. Although it is one the largest electronics retailers by revenue, the company has for the most part no significant advantage. Both Walmart and Costco sell electronics and have scale and cost advantages. Best Buy is also not the clear market leader for online electronics retailing as Amazon, Walmart, Apple, and others provide significant competition there. However, Best Buy's Geek Squad does provide an advantage relative to other traditional retailers as they provide a level of expertise and service not typically found at other retailers.

Best Buy makes very conservative use of debt with only $110M in short-term debt and $1,243M in long-term debt that is offset by $4,340M in cash, equivalents, and short-term investments giving the company a net cash position.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

At present we are forecasting 9.3% annualized total return over the next five years. Best Buy continues to benefit from the effects of COVID-19 as the stay at-home trend is still a tailwind. Best Buy is executing well and is now trialing a subscription membership program that may catch on. The company was trading at an elevated valuation until recently and the current price may be a good entry point. At the current price, we rate this stock a buy.
