Overview & Current Events

Community Trust Bancorp is a regional bank with 84 branch locations in 35 counties in Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia. It is the second-largest bank holding company in Kentucky and has a market cap of $767 million. Community Trust Bancorp operates with a $5.4 billion balance sheet. Due to its small market cap, it does not belong to the S&P 500 index and hence it is not considered a Dividend Aristocrat even though it has raised its dividend for 41 consecutive years. In mid-October, Community Trust Bancorp reported (10/20/21) financial results for the third quarter of fiscal 2021. Its net interest income grew 11% while its non-interest income decreased -3% over last year's quarter. Moreover, the bank reduced its provision for credit losses by $0.2 million sequentially, as the economy is recovering from the pandemic. Overall, the bank enjoyed a strong recovery from the pandemic and grew its earnings-per-share 21%, from $0.98 in the prior year's quarter to $1.19, exceeding analyst's consensus by $0.03. It also raised its dividend by 3.9%.

Most banks faced material loan losses due to the pandemic last year, but Community Trust Bancorp is a conservatively managed bank, which is resilient to the pandemic. On the other hand, most of this year's growth has resulted from the reversion of provisions for loan losses and hence investors should expect much slower growth in the years ahead.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Community Trust Bancorp has grown its earnings-per-share at a 4.3% average annual rate over the last decade and at a 4.7% average annual rate over the last five years. The economy has begun to recover from the pandemic, but interest rates will probably remain low for a considerable period and hence they could provide a headwind to the growth efforts of the bank. Moreover, the non-recurring decreases in the tax rate of the bank, which fueled a great portion of the bottom-line growth in 2018 and 2019, will not be growth drivers anymore. As a result, we do not expect the company to accelerate its growth pattern in the upcoming years. We expect Community Trust Bancorp to grow its earnings per share at a 3.0% average annual rate over the next five years.

Community Trust Bancorp is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 11.0, which is lower than its 10-year average price-to-earnings ratio of 12.8. Due to the small market cap of the stock, we prefer to be somewhat conservative and assume a price-to-earnings ratio around 12.0 by 2026. In such a case, the stock would enjoy a 1.8% annualized gain thanks to the expansion of its valuation level over the next five years.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	48.7%	43.3%	43.9%	47.4%	45.9%	46.7%	44.7%	40.3%	40.1%	45.7%	40.0%	40.6%

Community Trust Bancorp proved that it was well managed in the Great Recession. In the worst financial crisis of the last 80 years, when most banks cut their dividends, this bank remained profitable and continued raising its dividend.

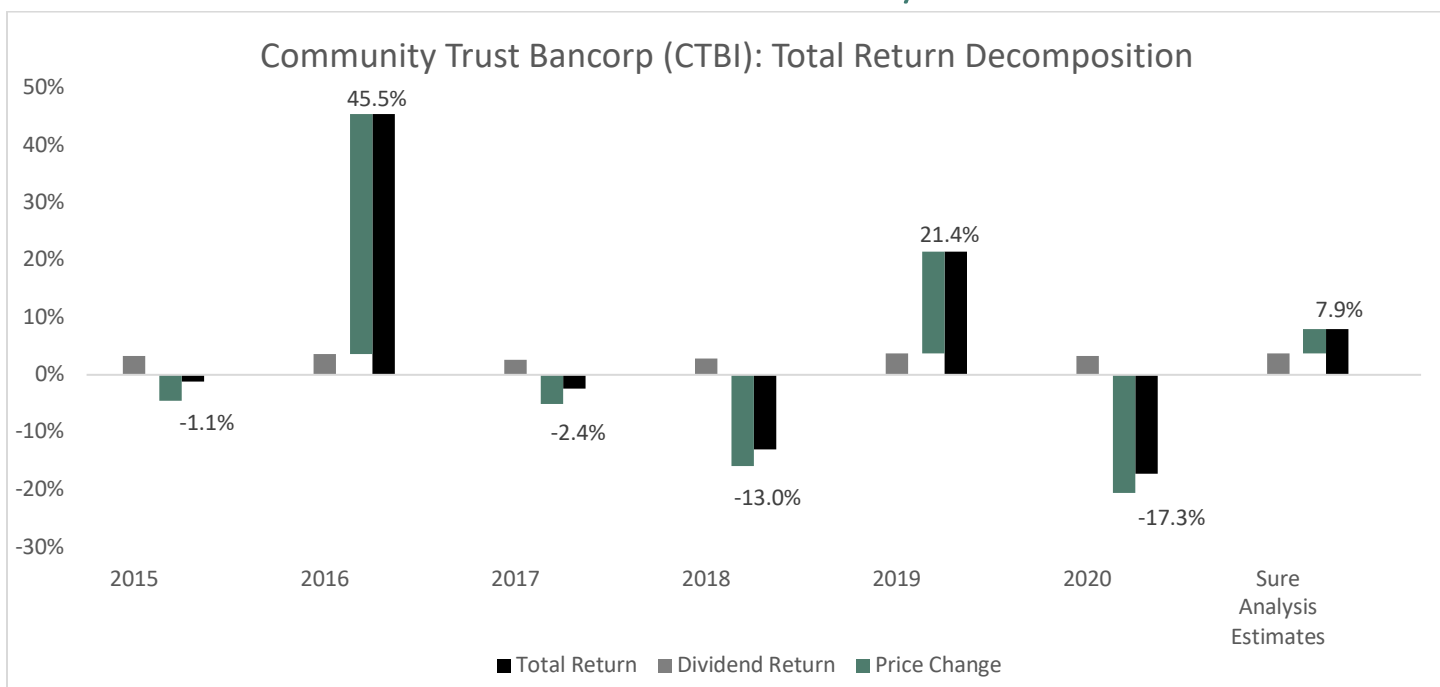

The recession from the pandemic last year caused an -8% decrease in the earnings-per-share of Community Trust Bancorp, but this business performance is superior to that of most other banks thanks to the conservative loan portfolio. To provide a perspective, the bank has reported average net loan charge-offs of only 0.03% in the last three quarters.

On the other hand, whenever the market incurs a meaningful correction, Community Trust Bancorp tends to underperform its sector due to its low market cap and its resultant low trading liquidity. Only investors who can remain focused on the fundamentals and ignore pressure on the stock price should consider this security.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Community Trust Bancorp is a well-managed bank. It accelerated its growth pattern in 2018 and 2019 thanks to higher interest rates and its reduced tax rate. It has also accelerated this year thanks to the reversion of provisions for loan losses, as the economy is recovering from the pandemic. However, it will decelerate next year due to low interest rates and the absence of this year's growth driver. The stock has rallied 10% since our last research report, in July, but it could still offer a 7.9% average annual return over the next five years thanks to 3.0% earnings-per-share growth, its 3.6% dividend and an expansion of the valuation level. We rate the stock as a hold. The company also has a decent payout ratio, so it has ample room to keep raising its dividend. It is thus eligible for income-oriented investors, particularly given its exceptional dividend growth record.
