Overview & Current Events

Equity Residential is one of the largest U.S. publicly-traded owners and operators of high-quality rental apartment properties with a portfolio primarily located in urban and dense suburban communities. The trust's properties are located in affluent areas around Boston, New York, Washington, D.C., Southern California, San Francisco, Seattle, and Denver. Equity Residential generates around $2.4 billion in annual revenues and is headquartered in Chicago, Illinois.

On October 26th, 2021, Equity Residential reported its Q3 results for the quarter ended September 30th, 2021. Revenue came in at $623.21 million, up slightly by 0.1% YoY while FFO stood at $0.77 per share.

Equity Residential has experienced a quick performance recovery from COVID-19 headwinds due to strong physical occupancy, increased pricing power, increased non-residential revenues and governmental rental assistance. Furthermore, same store physical occupancy increased to 96.6% from 94.7% year-over-year. Q3 rental income stood at $623.2 million, up slightly from $622.4 million in the year-ago period.

Meanwhile, the management team increased its guidance, seeing FY2021 FFO/share coming in at $2.95-$2.97 (previously $2.85-$2.95). Equity Residential also expects physical occupancy same store operating performance to soar to 96.0% vs. 95.0% - 96.3% in its previous guidance. We anticipate FY2021 FFO/share of $2.95, in line with consensus estimates.

Equity residential properties are located in some of America's most affluent markets, which results in relatively robust rental collections due to the high quality of the trust's tenants. Additionally, these locations have consistently seen increasing pricing trends. We forecast FFO/share CAGR of 4.8% in the medium-term, following the strong rebound in residential occupancy and overall pricing. The trust had slashed its dividend back in the great financial crisis.

In 2016, the base rate dividend was "cut" again due to the trust divesting some of its non-core assets and paying shareholders a massive dividend with the proceeds. Since then, the dividend has grown annually before suffering a slight cut last year due to uncertainty surrounding COVID-19. Moving forward, we expect solid dividend per share growth to resume.

Avg. P/E	23.5	18.3	24.4	20.0	20.6	21.7	19.8	19.3	23.8	16.8	29.5	22.0
Avg. Yld.	2.6%	3.0%	3.1%	3.2%	2.9%	19.4%	3.1%	3.4%	2.7%	4.3%	2.8%	3.7%

Due to the stable performance of Equity Residential over the past decade, its shares have traded at a consistent valuation multiple around 20 times the underlying FFO. While the trust's performance has recovered in the wake of COVID-19, the stock price has recently rallied to levels that are incompatible with the current financials, trading at 29.5 times its forward FFO. We expect a significant valuation multiple compression to the low 20s over the next half decade. Consequently, we also expect the stock's yield to appreciate to higher levels following such a correction.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	62%	54%	75%	63%	61%	421%	62%	66%	64%	72%	82%	80%

Considering that the trust had cut its dividend during the Great Financial Crisis, the fact that its payout ratio approaches higher levels than its historical ones, and the trust not increasing its DPS moving into 2021 as it usually does, the dividend cannot be blindly trusted. On the other hand, the trust enjoys several qualities, such as having its properties located in an attractive job market, translating into strong pricing. The trust has also showcased average rental collections of 97% throughout the pandemic. Still, its financials have yet to fully recover to their pre-COVID levels, as the trust was forced to reduce its rents to maintain said high occupancy.

Overall, the trust operates in a highly competitive market. However, management's proven expertise should partially offset this risk. A prolonged recession in which individuals see their salaries declining could easily damage the trust's performance following reduced rents, poor rental collections, and possible move-outs to cheaper areas.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Equity Residential has produced pretty strong returns over the years, though its FFO has recently been under pressure as the trust had to reduce rents to sustain higher occupancy levels during COVID-19 headwinds. This has improved somewhat lately as the economy – and the residential market in particular – is rebounding sharply. Meanwhile, investors have pushed the stock's valuation multiple to a level that is inconsistent with its historical norms and non-reflective of this year's expected performance, despite the improving outlook in the residential market.

Overall, we expect annualized returns of around 2.0% in the medium-term, powered by our estimated growth rates but offset by the possibility for significant valuation headwinds. Hence, we assign a sell rating to Equity Residential.
