Overview & Current Events

Honeywell International is a diversified industrial company. The company has four divisions: Aerospace, Honeywell Building Technologies, Performance Materials & Technologies and Safety & Productivity Solutions. Honeywell International has more than 103,000 employees around the world and more than 40% of sales come from international markets. The company generates about $35 billion in annual revenues.

Honeywell International announced third quarter earnings results on 10/22/2021. Revenue grew 8.7% to $8.47 billion, but missed estimates by $210 million. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $2.02 was a $0.46, or 29.5%, increase from the prior year and topped expectations by $0.02.

Organic sales grew 8% as the company continues to see improvements in many areas that were impacted by COVID-19 (Q3 was the second weakest quarter for Honeywell International in 2020). Segment margin expanded 130 basis points to 21.2%. Aerospace continues to rebound, with sales growth of 2%. This segment was the most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, but business original equipment demand is improving. Commercial aftermarket revenue was up double-digits. The segment margin improved 390 basis points to 27.1%. Revenue for Honeywell Building Technologies was up 3% as this segment again benefited from double-digit orders and high demand in building products and building solutions. Segment margin expanded 190 basis points to 23.5%. Performance Materials & Technologies was up 9%. Areas of strength included petrochemical catalysts, advanced materials, thermal solutions and services. Margin improved 260 basis points to 22.2%. Safety & Productivity Solutions remains the best performing segment for Honeywell International as sales grew 21%. Warehouse and workflow solutions continue to be in high demand as these businesses have a backlog of $2.4 billion. The margin fell 70 basis points due to supply chain headwinds and higher business investment.

Honeywell International provided updated guidance for 2021 as well. The company now expects adjusted earnings-per-share of $8.00 to $8.10 for the year, up from $7.95 to $8.10 and $7.75 to $8.00 previously. Honeywell International expects organic sales of 4% to 5%, compared to 4% to 6% previously.

While Honeywell International did see earnings decline 24% during the last recession, the company has managed to grow earnings every year since 2010 outside of 2020. While the short term will be challenging for the company, we expect earnings growth to accelerate following a recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. Therefore, we are increasing our expected growth rate through 2026 to 9% from 7% due to a combination of organic growth, margin expansion and share repurchases.

Honeywell International (HON)

Updated October 22nd, 2021 by Nathan Parsh

Honeywell International has paused, but not cut, its dividend growth several times over the past two decades, most recently in 2010. The company increased its dividend 5.4% for the 12/3/2021 payment date. Honeywell International had increased its dividend by a double-digit rate for the last decade. In order to be conservative, we forecast that dividend will grow in line with earnings going forward.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	14.3	13.2	16.0	16.9	16.9	17.0	18.9	18.8	20.3	23.0	27.1	17.0
Avg. Yld.	2.5%	2.6%	2.1%	2.0%	2.1%	2.2%	2.0%	2.0%	2.0%	2.2%	1.8%	2.9%

Honeywell International shares have decreased $11, or 4.8%, since our 7/24/2021 report. We are reaffirming our 2026 target P/E to 17 due to our belief that Honeywell will see a recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic as well as to better match the stock's average valuation since 2011. Using adjusted earnings-per-share estimates for 2021, shares have a forward multiple of 27.1, implying a possible significant headwind from multiple reversion. If shares reverted to our target multiple by 2026 then total returns could be reduced by 8.9% per year over this time frame.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	36%	34%	34%	34%	36%	37%	39%	38%	41%	51%	49%	49%

Industrial companies tend to perform very well when the economy is strong, but struggle in weak economic climates. As with most industrial companies, Honeywell International saw earnings decline in 2020. Honeywell International divested two lower margin businesses in the form of spin offs recently. This should allow the company to focus on its higher margin businesses, particularly in Aerospace, where military products and aftermarket services should see growth as well. With a strong economy, the company's other products, such as Intelligrated and industrial products like Solstice, should perform well. We see Honeywell's strong position in these markets as its competitive advantage.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Honeywell International is expected to return 1.6% annually through 2026, up from our previous estimate of 0.5%. Our projected return stems from a 9% earnings growth rate and a 1.8% starting yield that are nearly offset by a high single-digit headwind from multiple reversion. Honeywell International produced a solid quarter with all businesses showing year-over-year growth as the recovery from COVID-19 continues. Supply chain constraints were a factor in the company's revised guidance, particularly for organic growth. We feel that interested investors should wait for a further pullback given that the stock trades at 159% of our fair value estimate. We have raised our 2026 price target $1 to $211 due to revised EPS estimates, but rate shares as a sell due to projected returns.
