Overview & Current Events

3M sells more than 60,000 products that are used every day in homes, hospitals, office buildings and schools around the world. It has about 95,000 employees and serves customers in more than 200 countries. From the second quarter of 2019, 3M is now composed of four separate divisions. The Safety & Industrial division produces tapes, abrasives, adhesives and supply chain management software as well as manufactures personal protective gear and security products. The Healthcare segment supplies medical and surgical products as well as drug delivery systems. Transportation & Electronics division produces fibers and circuits with a goal of using renewable energy sources while reducing costs. The Consumer division sells office supplies, home improvement products, protective materials and stationary supplies.

3M reported third quarter earnings results on 10/26/2021. Revenue was higher by 7.1% to just under $9 billion and was $270.5 million above expectations. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $2.45 was up slightly from the prior year and topped estimates by $0.22.

Organic growth was 6.3% for the quarter and 11.5% year-to-date, with each segment again showing growth. Safety & Industrial improved 6.1%. General industrial demand remains high, especially in the areas of adhesives and tapes, abrasives and roofing granules. Personal safety fell year-over-year due to high demand in the prior year. Transportation & Electronics improved 5.1%. Advanced materials, commercial solutions and transportation safety all performed well. Auto OEM continues to outpace global car and light truck builds. Semiconductor shortages have impacted electronic sales. Health Care was higher by 3.3% due to gains in food safety, oral care and health information systems. Medical solutions were weaker due to lower disposable respirator sales. Consumer was the best performing segment as sales improved 7.6%. Home improvement, home cleaning and stationery were the leading product categories. Adjusted free cash flow fell 29% to $1.5 billion. Net debt declined $2.6 billion to $12.4 billion. The company noted that it expects an $0.80 to $0.90 headwind from higher raw materials and logistics expenses, up from $0.65 to $0.80 and $0.30 to $0.50 previously. Price increases nearly made up for higher input costs in the third quarter.

3M revised its guidance for the year, with earnings-per-share expected in a range of $9.70 to $9.90, compared to $9.70 to $10.10 previously. Organic growth is projected to be 8% to 9% compared to 6% to 9% and 3% to 6% previously.

economic conditions. The company raised its dividend 1% for the 3/12/2021 payment. We expect dividend growth to come in at  $\sim 2\%$  going forward in order to bring the payout ratio within the historical range.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	14.5	14.1	17.0	19.1	20.6	20.6	22.3	21.1	19.8	18.7	18.6	19.0
Avg. Yld.	2.5%	2.7%	2.2%	2.4%	2.6%	2.6%	2.3%	2.6%	3.2%	3.9%	3.3%	2.8%

Shares of 3M have declined $18, or 9%, from our 7/27/2021 update. We have reaffirmed our 2026 target price-to-earnings ratio of 19 as this is in-line with the stock's average multiple since 2011. Based off of estimates for 2021, shares trade with a price-to-earnings ratio of 18.6. If the stock were to revert to this target, then the valuation would add 0.5% to annual returns through 2026. The current yield of 3.3% is above the stock's 10-year average yield of 2.7% and more than double the average yield of the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	37%	37%	38%	46%	54%	54%	52%	52%	63%	67%	60%	52 %

Like many companies, 3M saw earnings decline during the last recession. While earnings declined in both 2008 and 2009, they quickly recovered in 2010 to grow more than 27% from 2009. 3M is not recession proof, but the company has proven itself to be resilient during the difficult times in the economic cycle. While dividend growth has outpaced earnings growth in recent years, 3M's dividend track record is virtually second to none. When the next recession occurs, it is likely that growth will slow, though we don't feel the dividend is in any danger of being cut. 3M's innovation is one of the company's greatest competitive advantages. The company targets R&D spending equivalent to 6% of sales (~$2 billion annually) in order to create new products to meet consumer demand. This spending has proven to be very beneficial to the company as 30% of sales during the last fiscal year were from products that didn't exist five years ago. 3M's commitment to developing innovative products has led to a portfolio of more than 100,000 patents.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

3M is expected to return 8.1% annually through 2026, up from our previous estimate of 6.3%. The projected return stems from a 5% earnings growth rate, a 3.3% dividend yield and a small tailwind from multiple expansion. The company is facing higher raw material and logistic expenses and did see a tough comparison from the prior year in certain business. Still, 3M delivered solid organic growth and once again raised top-line estimates. We have, however, lowered our 2026 price target $2 to $238 due to revised EPS guidance. Income investors will find 3M's yield and dividend growth history attractive. We encourage total return investors to wait for a further pullback before purchasing the stock, and it is rated a hold.
