RPM International manufactures, markets and distributes chemical products to industrial, retail and specialty customers. The majority of sales are made to industrial customers. RPM was founded in 1947 and employs more than 15,000 people today.

RPM reported earnings results for the first quarter of fiscal year 2022 on 10/6/2021. Revenue grew 2.5% to $1.65 billion, which was $20 million better than expected. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $1.08 compared to adjusted earnings-per-share of $1.44 in the prior year, but was $0.06 above estimates.

RPM faced a difficult comparison as the prior year saw excellent growth on a year-over-year basis due to COVID-19 related demand. The Consumer Group had a sales decrease of 16% as acquisitions only partially offset lower demand. This segment was the primary beneficiary of heightened demand in the same period a year ago. The Construction Products Group increased almost 18% due to strength in commercial roofing systems, concrete admixtures and repair products. Performance Coatings Group had revenue growth of 9.9%, driven by acquisitions and gains in all business areas. This segment had been most heavily impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Specialty Products Group was up 15.2% due to high demand in marine and powder coatings, wood stains and sealers and disaster restoration equipment. Leadership expects raw material, freight and wage costs to continue into the next quarter.

Analysts expect RPM to earn $4.00 in fiscal year 2022, down from $4.48 previously. We have updated our forecast accordingly.

The last recession had a severe impact on the RPM's earnings, which saw a decline of 42% from 2008 to 2009. It was not until 2013 that RPM's earnings numbers recovered above 2008's total. In recent years, growth has been much steadier. From 2008-2017, earnings per share grew at a rate of 3% per year. Coming off the lows of the last recession, earnings have grown at a rate of 10%. In order to account for the likely declines in earnings during the next recession, we feel comfortable forecasting a 5% earnings-per-share growth rate going forward. Organic growth is expected to be the primary contributor.

Growth slowed during the last recession, but RPM was able to maintain and increase its payments to shareholders even in an adverse economic climate. RPM raised its dividend 2.9% for the 10/15/2020 payment, giving the company 47 consecutive years of dividend growth. The company has compounded its dividend by 5.2% annually over the last five years.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Avg. P/E	14.0	15.9	17.7	19.8	17.3	21.2	15.9	20.1	24.4	22.5	20.0	18.0
Avg. Yld.	3.7%	3.1%	2.5%	2.2%	2.4%	2.2%	2.6%	2.6%	1.9%	1.6%	1.9%	2.1%

Shares of RPM have declined $7, or 8%, since our 7/26/2021 update. Using expected earnings-per-share for fiscal year 2022, the price-to-earnings ratio is 20. We reaffirm our five-year target P/E to 18 to reflect the higher multiple that shares have traded with over the past few years. If the stock were trade with this multiple by fiscal 2027, then valuation would be a 2.1% headwind to annual returns over this period of time.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	52%	49%	44%	43%	41%	48%	47%	53%	47%	37%	38%	38%

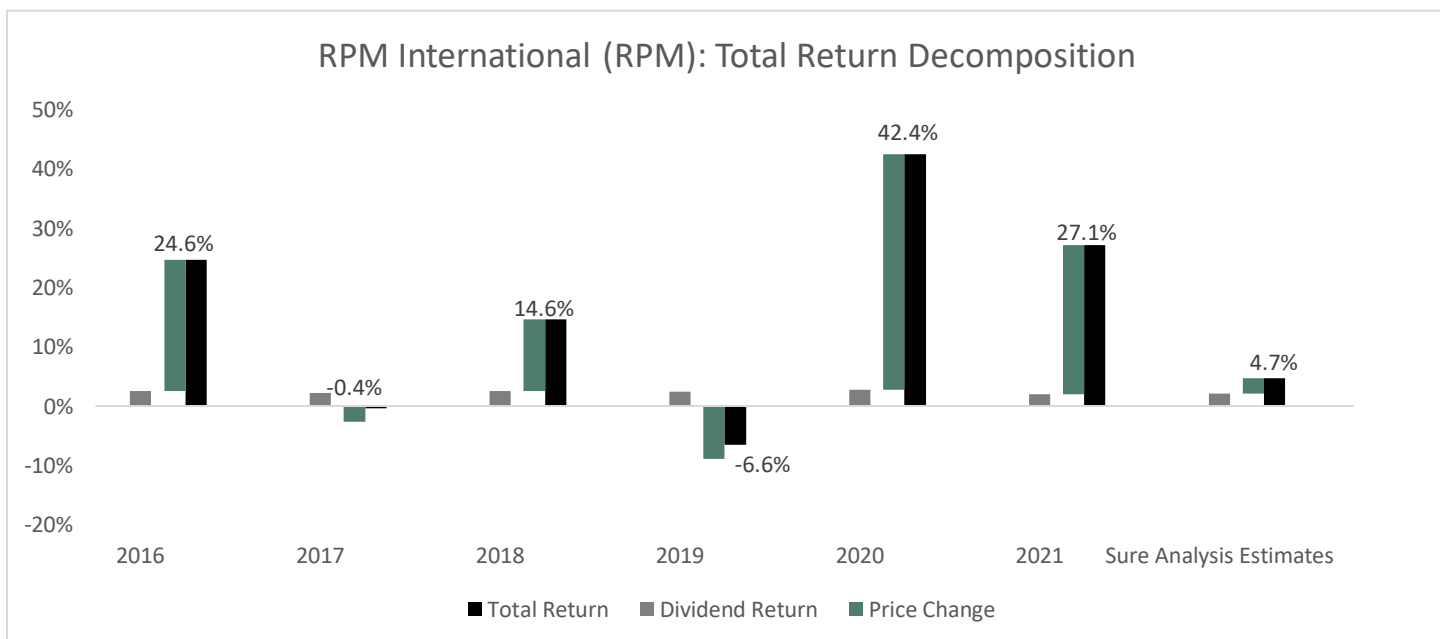

RPM is not recession proof, as shown by the company's decline in earnings, and in the time that it took for earnings growth to return to the company. The company also has a high level of debt that could make acquisitions or high dividend growth difficult if earnings were to weaken.

RPM is a leading manufacturer and distributor of paints, coatings, construction chemicals, colorants and adhesives to consumers, contractors or construction businesses. These businesses perform well when the economy is growing due to the increases in construction and home improvement spending. However, RPM is very susceptible to recessions.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

RPM International is now expected to return 4.7% per year through fiscal year 2027, down from our previous estimate of 5.1%. All aspects of RPM performed well during the most recent quarter, outside of the Consumer segment. This business faced an extremely tough comparison in the prior year. We have lowered our five-year price target $11 to $92 due to revised EPS estimates for fiscal year 2022. Shares continue to earn a hold due to projected returns.
