Overview & Current Events

LyondellBasell Industries goes back to 1955, when its predecessor company began industrial-scale production of polyethylene in Germany. Today LyondellBasell is one of the largest plastics, chemicals and refining companies in the world. The company provides materials and products that help advance solutions for food safety, water purity, fuel efficiency of vehicles, and functionality in electronics and appliances. LyondellBasell sells products in more than 100 countries and is the world's largest producer of polymer compounds. The $31.9 billion market cap company, with U.S. operations headquartered in Houston, Texas and Global operations headquartered in London, generated $28 billion in sales last year.

On October 29th, 2021, LyondellBasell released Q3-2021 results for the period ending September 30th, 2021. For the quarter, revenues totaled $12.70 billion, an 87.4% increase compared to Q3-2020, as gains were seen across all the company's segments. In North America, the company enjoyed solid demand, which drove continued strength in benchmark integrated polyethylene margins leading polypropylene spreads to historic highs. Consequently, net income equaled $1.76 billion or $5.25 per share compared to $114 million or $0.33 per share in Q3-2020.

LyondellBasell reduced its net debt from $13.6 billion to $12.7 billion, with more deleveraging planned for the second half of 2021. The company leveraged its favorable results to improve the balance sheet and return cash to shareholders. Specifically, it redeemed $500 million in bonds to bring its year-to-date debt reduction to $2.4 billion and repurchased 1 million shares (worth ~$89 million) during the quarter. We expect FY2021 EPS to land at around $19.00.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

From 2010 to 2018, LyondellBasell put together a terrific growth record, increasing earnings-per-share by an average compound rate of 20% per annum. However, there are two important caveats: 1) in April of 2010 LyondellBasell emerged from Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, meaning that the company was starting from an artificially low base and 2) 2019 and 2020 saw marked downdrafts in earnings.

Over time LyondellBasell can improve from a combination of organic growth and acquisitions. For example, LyondellBasell recently launched its Advanced Polymer Solutions segment, which could be a new growth platform. In addition, LyondellBasell utilizes acquisitions to generate growth, such as the $2.25 billion acquisition of A. Schulman, Inc., which doubled LyondellBasell's compounding business. It also gave the company exposure to new categories such as consumer products, appliances, and agriculture. Further, the share repurchase program can add bottom-line growth.

Updated November 2nd, 2021, by Nikolaos Sismanis

After a strong Q3 2021 showing, we expect significant results for 2021. However, thereafter we are assuming a -5% growth rate, as earnings may very well peak in 2021. Even so, this still implies improved intermediate term growth expectations.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Now	2026
Avg. P/E	9.5	9.1	10.1	11.7	9.5	8.8	8.2	8.8	9.0	16.7	4.9	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.5%	3.2%	2.9%	2.9%	3.3%	4.1%	3.9%	3.8%	4.8%	5.9%	4.8%	4.1%

Since 2011 shares of LyondellBasell have traded hands with an average P/E ratio of about 10 times earnings. We believe this is a fair valuation estimate for the firm, keeping in mind this has ranged from 6 to 14 times earnings in the past. The current valuation appears low, but that is due to the expectation of standout results for 2021. Moreover, a portion of the artificial valuation tailwind could be offset by the negative expected growth rate. Meanwhile, the dividend will add to returns, with the 4.8% starting yield.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2026
Payout	15%	29%	30%	34%	32%	36%	32%	33%	43%	75%	24%	41%

LyondellBasell's primary competitive advantage is its leading industry position. It is the world's largest producer of polypropylene compounds and the largest licensor of polyolefin technologies. It also has a vast intellectual property portfolio, with over 5,500 patents.

The lack of recession performance is a cautionary note, as LyondellBasell emerged from bankruptcy in 2010 after crumbling under a high debt load. At the end of Q3 2021, LyondellBasell held $1.8 billion in cash, $13.9 billion in current assets and $38.6 billion in total assets against $7.4 billion in current liabilities and $26.8 billion in total liabilities. Long-term debt equaled $12.9 billion.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares have hovered slightly downward since our last report. LyondellBasell is a high-quality business in reasonable financial condition. The company is not recession-resistant, but it is in much better shape today than it was a decade ago. We forecast a total return potential of 13.1% annually, stemming from the company's 4.8% dividend yield and the potential for a valuation tailwind offset by a mid-single-digit decline in earnings. Shares earn a buy rating.
