Overview & Current Events

PNC Financial Services is headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and it is one of the largest diversified financial services companies in the U.S. It is engaged in retail banking as well as corporate and institutional banking and asset management. Its retail network is located primarily in markets across the Mid-Atlantic, Midwest and Southeast. PNC currently has a market capitalization of $92.4 billion.

On June 1st, 2021, PNC completed its acquisition of BBVA USA Bancshares from the Spanish financial group BBVA for $11.6 billion in cash. It acquired more than 600 branches in Texas, Alabama, Arizona, California, Florida, Colorado and New Mexico and became the fifth largest bank in assets, with a presence in 29 of the 30 largest U.S. markets.

In mid-January, PNC reported (1/18/22) financial results for the fourth quarter of fiscal 2021. Net interest income and net interest margin remained essentially flat sequentially. PNC reduced its provisions for loan losses by $327 million thanks to improved economic conditions, which rendered some previously considered risky loans as viable. However, its fee income dipped -4%, primarily due to lower residential mortgage revenue. As a result, its adjusted earnings-per-share slipped -2%, from $3.75 in the third quarter to $3.68. In the full year, PNC more than doubled its earnings-per-share, to a new all-time high. However, investors should note that the impressive growth resulted mostly from the acquisition of BBVA USA Bancshares. We thus expect growth to moderate to ~4% this year.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

PNC was significantly affected by the pandemic in 2020, but the bank has recovered strongly. PNC has consistently pursued growth by expanding into attractive markets, growing its loan base organically and acquiring other banks. The acquisition of BBVA USA is likely to be a significant growth driver in the upcoming years while we also expect a tailwind from an increase in the loan/deposit ratio of the bank. PNC has grown its earnings-per-share at a 9.7% average annual rate in the last decade and at a 14.2% average annual rate in the last five years. Due to the somewhat high comparison base formed by the record earnings expected this year, we expect the bank to grow its earnings-per-share at a 6.0% average annual rate over the next five years.

PNC's stock price has more than doubled off its bottom in 2020, and it is now trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 14.8. The stock has traded at an average price-to-earnings ratio of 12.6 over the last decade. If it reverts to its average valuation level over the next five years, it will incur a -3.2% annualized drag in its returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	29.2%	23.3%	25.8%	27.2%	29.0%	25.1%	31.7%	43.9%	72.3%	33.9%	34.0%	33.5%

PNC has raised its dividend for 11 consecutive years. It froze its dividend for 8 consecutive quarters due to the pandemic, but it has resumed raising its dividend thanks to its ongoing recovery. Due to a healthy payout ratio of 34%, the dividend should be considered safe. In addition, the bank has reduced its share count by -19% in the last six years and has resumed repurchasing its shares after its major acquisition.

On the other hand, investors should be aware that PNC is vulnerable to recessions. In the Great Recession, PNC cut its dividend by -85% while in the coronavirus crisis it saw its earnings-per-share fall -34%. Therefore, in the scenario of a prolonged pandemic or another recession, the stock of PNC could come under great pressure, just like it did at the outbreak of the virus, when it plunged nearly -50% in just five weeks. Only the investors who can tolerate such a high stock price volatility should consider PNC.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Thanks to the massive distribution of vaccines and the fiscal stimulus packages offered by the government, PNC has recovered strongly from the pandemic. However, the market has already priced part of a strong recovery in the stock. As a result, we expect PNC to offer just a 4.9% average annual return over the next five years, primarily thanks to 6.0% earnings-per-share growth and its 2.3% dividend, which could be offset by a -3.2% annualized contraction of the valuation level. We rate PNC as a hold.
