National Health Investors is an REIT focused on healthcare facilities. Some of the healthcare facilities NHI invests in are independent living facilities, senior-living campuses, and medical office buildings. NHI specializes in sale-leaseback, joint-venture, mortgage, and mezzanine financing. The company was incorporated in 1991 and is headquartered in Tennessee. National Health Investors had raised its dividend for 19 years, but then slashed it in 2021. This healthcare facility REIT has a market capitalization of $2.4 billion.

On December 31st, 2021, NHI had investments in 136 senior housing properties, 75 skilled nursing facilities, and one hospital across 33 states run by 31 operating partners. During 2020, rental income was $271 million and made up 91% of income.

For the full year, normalized FFO of $4.62, was a 16.2% decrease from 2020. Normalized FAD also decreased 12.6% for the company, to $210 million.

The company collected only 79% of contractual cash due in the quarter-to-date, with 7.8% in deferrals related to Bickford, and 8.4% in unpaid rent related to the legacy Holiday properties. Four other tenants make up 2.8% more deferrals. The last 2.0% in outstanding contractual cash due is expected to be collected.

National Healthcare Investors has been able to generate a stream of fairly predictable and consistent adjusted funds from operations (AFFO). In the last 9 years AFFO has grown by 4.6% on average, but this has slowed recently and resulted in a 5-year AFFO growth rate of 0.9%. Shares outstanding have grown by nearly 6% annually over the last decade, which is somewhat normal for an REIT. The number of shares being added is not outrageous but does not help grow AFFO per share. Increased investment activity through financing or purchasing more healthcare real estate, as well as improved collections, and improved occupancies (which have fallen and are expected to increase due to vaccinations and the sales of non-performing assets) should see NHI continue to grow. We are forecasting 2% average annual AFFO growth over the intermediate term.

The corporation will pursue acquisitions and diversifications opportunistically, with the main focus on triple-net senior housing and skilled nursing. The company will further diversify across asset, tenant, and geography. The company has paid special dividends a few times in the past, most recently in 2011 and 2013. With the 2021 dividend cut, we estimate that NHI will potentially resume growing the dividend at no more than 1% to maintain flexibility in the following years.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/AFFO	16.5	18.0	16.6	15.8	16.2	16.0	14.4	15.7	12.1	14.0	11.3	13.0
Avg. Yld.	5.0%	4.5%	4.8%	5.0%	4.9%	4.8%	5.4%	5.1%	6.9%	6.7%	6.9%	5.7%

National Health Investors has traded at a P/E ratio of 15.5 on average in the past nine years, and 14.4 on average in the past five years. While shares trade at 11.3 times estimated 2022 AFFO, we believe fair value is closer to 13.0 times AFFO, which would result in a 2.9% annual gain due to valuation expansion. The dividend yield would fall slightly as a result of a higher share price, but we expect it will remain above 5%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	85%	91%	82%	83%	82%	80%	79%	82%	83%	87%	77%	74%

While NHI does not have a strong competitive advantage over other healthcare REITs, the corporation believes that they have an advantage in accessing debt markets due to a strong balance sheet. The company is highly diversified across tenant, geography and asset type which is also advantageous. During the great recession, share price did not fall as much as the overall market, and in fact, FFO per share grew from 2008 to 2010.

Target leverage is set at 4x – 5x Net Debt to Adjusted Annualized EBITDA, and the company targets a 60/40 equity/debt funding mix. At yearend 2021, NHI was just within its target leverage range at 4.9x, however this is the highest it has been at least in the past 5 years. While the payout ratio appeared to be stable in the last twelve months, NHI has opted to slash the dividend, thus we would not count on it to consistently grow the dividend from here on out.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

While National Health Investors' have a history of performing well, drops in occupancy, deferrals, and problems with specific, large partners weighs on the company today. The corporation trades below our estimated fair value, and has expected annualized total returns of 10.2%, the majority of which come from the dividend of 6.9%. We rate NHI a Buy.
