Overview & Current Events

1st Source was founded in 1863 and since that time has grown into a regional bank with about $8 billion in total assets. The company is headquartered in Indiana and has about 100 locations to service its customers. 1st Source's market capitalization is $1.2 billion, and it is expected to produce more than $335 million in revenue this year. 1st Source also has an exceptional dividend increase streak that stands at 34 years, which very few banks can match.

1st Source reported first quarter earnings on April 21st, 2022, and results were quite strong. Total net income came to $27.4 million, down from $28 million a year ago, but that quarter was impacted positively by credit loss provisions being unwound. On a per-share basis, earnings were $1.10, equal to the year-ago period.

Like other banks, 1st Source has nearly completely unwound its Paycheck Protection Program loans, which came to just $36.6 million in Q1. As a result, fees generated from PPP loans nearly disappeared in Q1.

Average loans and leases were up $69 million, or 1.3% from Q4. From the year-ago period, loans and leases were up $186 million, or 3.7%. Mortgage banking income was down 65% year-over-year as demand for mortgages declined amid slowing refinancing activity, as well as low inventory of homes for sale.

Deposits were $6.62 billion, up 10.6% year-over-year, and down 1.3% from Q4.

Net interest margin was 3.17% in Q1, a decline of 18 bps year-over-year, but up 8 bps from Q4. Lower interest expense, as well as the impact of PPP loans caused the fluctuations in NIM.

We are reiterating our estimate of $4.15 in earnings-per-share for this year following Q1 results. We see the slowdown in mortgages as somewhat offsetting the potential gains from higher NIM.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Earnings-per-share growth has been robust since the bottom in 2009. Recent growth has been fueled by gains in the company's asset base, averaging 5%+ in the past decade. 1st Source's strong balance sheet growth has been accompanied by expanding margins and prudent operating expenditures, allowing for a rise in returns on its asset base. With normalizing conditions in 2022, and a lower base, we've updated our earnings growth estimate from -5% to no growth. 1st Source is trying to build more fee revenue, but its business is still heavily dependent upon lending margins, and we think growth will be tough to come by because of the unfavorable interest rate environment. Normalized conditions for 2022 should help 1st Source at least maintain this year's level of earnings.

Our expectation for the dividend is now $1.37 in 2027 as we see 1st Source facing headwinds in its ability to grow earnings. However, we don't expect the bank to end its very long streak of dividend increases. We see the bank as being hesitant to boost its payout ratio much higher than it is at the moment.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	11.3	11.8	12.8	13.9	15.3	18.4	16.4	13.1	11.2	9.9	11.1	11.5
Avg. Yld.	2.9%	2.6%	2.3%	2.2%	2.1%	1.6%	1.9%	2.4%	3.1%	2.6%	2.7%	2.9%

1st Source's price-to-earnings multiple has been steady, all things considered, for the past decade. It is trading for 11.1 times earnings today, which is ahead of our estimate of fair value. Therefore, we see a tailwind to total returns from the valuation in the coming years. The yield could remain below 3% for the foreseeable future.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	33%	31%	30%	32%	34%	30%	30%	31%	35%	26%	30%	33%

The payout ratio is around one-third of earnings and dividend raises will likely be somewhat modest in the coming years. We see the dividend as safe and with a lot of room to grow given 1st Source's commitment to raising the payout, as well as the low payout ratio. We see the payout growing even if 1st Source is not able to produce strong earnings growth, and indeed, that is what we're forecasting.

1st Source's competitive advantage is in its clean balance sheet, strong profitability metrics and robust market position in the areas it serves. The advantage of a community or regional bank is that it can generate sizable market share in lots of small markets, creating a sustainable competitive advantage. It is obviously not immune from recessions but did perform well in 2020 all things considered.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We believe total returns for 1st Source investors could be just 3.4% annually, consisting of the current 2.7% yield, a small tailwind from the valuation and no earnings-per-share growth. Given that the bank's growth outlook is murky, and the fact that it has struggled to grow loans and leases organically, we think this, combined with perpetually low interest rates, will keep a lid on growth. Earnings are set to decline markedly this year, and the valuation isn't particularly attractive. We're reiterating the stock at a sell rating.
