The company's loan portfolio consists of both commercial and residential real estate loans, as well as construction loans. As of the end of the quarter, nonperforming loans totaled $915K with all deferrals for consumer automobile loans. Provisions for credit losses totaled $22.9 million, down slightly sequentially. Total loans fell 17.7% to $1 billion, mostly due to a steep decline in Paycheck Protection Program loans. Analysts expect that the company will earn $3.40 in 2022, down slightly from $3.41 previously.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027

Earnings-per-share for Westamerica Bancorporation more than doubled from 2008 to 2009, an accomplishment that few banks can claim. Earnings-per-share have declined in what is essentially a straight line until 2018, which was just the second year since 2009 that earnings increased year-over-year. The company has seen flat or higher earnings-per-share each year since. We anticipate an annual earnings-per-share growth rate of 2% through 2027 due to quality of loans and increases in revenue.

Westamerica Bancorporation has increased its dividend for the past 29 years. The company most recently increased its dividend by 2.4% for the November 19th, 2021 payment date. The dividend has compounded at a rate of 1.2% annually over the last decade. Note that the company also tends to raise its dividend every other year, but does so in the fourth quarter to keep its dividend growth streak alive.

Westamerica Bancorp (WABC)

Updated April 23rd, 2022 by Nathan Parsh

Westamerica Bancorporation's stock has increased $2, or 3.4%, since our October 21st, 2021 update. Given expected earnings-per-share for the year, the price-to-earnings ratio (P/E) is 17.9. The stock has seen its average P/E multiple vary dramatically over the past decade. Eliminating the year where the average P/E was above 24 (2017, 2018), shares of Westamerica Bancorporation have averaged a multiple of more than 19. We believe a multiple of 18 times earnings is a good starting point given the likely lateness of the current economic cycle. If shares were to revert to our target P/E, valuation would add 0.1% to annual returns through 2027.

Westamerica Bancorporation trades with a forward yield of 2.8%, which is higher than the yield of the S&P 500, but just below the stock's long-term historical average 2.9%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	51%	60%	66%	67%	68%	68%	60%	55%	55%	51%	49%	49%

While earnings-per-share increased significantly during the last recession, this does not make Westamerica Bancorporation recession proof, or even an attractive investment. The company has proven that it cannot be a reliable source of earnings growth. Despite this, the company's dividend payout ratio has been relatively stable.

Westamerica Bancorporation's key competitive advantage is its ability to see an improvement in net interest income as interest rates rise. With rates near zero in order to help stimulate the economy during the COVID-19 pandemic, we feel Westamerica Bancorporation will face difficulty in growing its net interest margin. That said, the Federal Reserve has indicated that rate hikes will begin sometime in 2022, with most market observers believing that three to four rate hikes will occur this year. This would be a material benefit to Westamerica Bancorporation were this to occur.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Following first quarter results, Westamerica Bancorporation is projected to return 4.6% annually through 2027, down from our previous estimate of 5.4%. Our projected returns stem from a 2% earnings growth rate, 2.8% dividend yield, and a small contribution from multiple expansion. Westamerica Bancorporation saw strength in most areas outside of PPP loans and shares offer a decent yield. However, we reiterate our belief there are better values in the regional banking sector. Westamerica Bancorporation earns a hold rating due to projected returns.
