Overview & Current Events

LyondellBasell Industries goes back to 1955, when its predecessor company began industrial-scale production of polyethylene in Germany. Today LyondellBasell is one the largest plastics, chemicals and refining companies in the world. The company provides materials and products that help advance solutions for food safety, water purity, fuel efficiency of vehicles, and functionality in electronics and appliances. LyondellBasell sells products in more than 100 countries and is the world's largest producer of polymer compounds. The $36.1 billion market cap company, with U.S operations headquartered in Houston, Texas and Global operations headquartered in London, generated $46.1 billion in sales last year.

On April 29th, 2022, LyondellBasell released its Q1-2022 results for the period ending March 31st, 2022. For the quarter, revenues totaled $13.16 billion, a 44.9% increase compared to Q1-2021, once again driven by robust demand, tight markets, and strong pricing power. European demand for polymers remained solid despite the ongoing challenges from the war in Ukraine. In its oxyfuels and refining businesses, LyondellBasell experienced increasing demand for transportation fuels, while higher prices for gasoline and diesel drove exceptional profitability. Further, advanced Polymer Solutions also contributed notably to the bottom line as a result of higher volumes and margins as automotive demand improved from last year. Consequently, net income equaled $1.32 billion or $4.00 per share compared to $1.07 billion or $3.18 per share in Q1-2021.

During the quarter, LyondellBasell repurchased 2.1 million shares totaling $0.2 billion and strengthened its balance sheet by continuing to pay down its long-term debt. With its total debt at 1.2x trailing EBITDA, LyondellBasell's leverage ratios are below its targeted range of 1.5 to 2.5. Thus, the company sees no need for further deleveraging at this time. Following continued strength in demand for the company's products through 2022, we now project EPS of $16.80 for the full year.

From 2010 to 2018, LyondellBasell put together a terrific growth record, increasing earnings-per-share by an average compound rate of 20% per annum. However, there are two important caveats: 1) in April of 2010 LyondellBasell emerged from Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, meaning that the company was starting from an artificially low base and 2) 2019 and 2020 saw marked downdrafts in earnings.

Over time LyondellBasell can improve from a combination of organic growth and acquisitions. For example, LyondellBasell recently launched its Advanced Polymer Solutions segment, which could be a new growth platform. In addition, LyondellBasell utilizes acquisitions to generate growth, such as the $2.25 billion acquisition of A. Schulman,

Inc., which doubled LyondellBasell's compounding business. It also gave the company exposure to new categories such as consumer products, appliances, and agriculture. Further, the share buyback program can boost bottom-line growth. After a strong FY-2021, we expect robust results for 2022. However, we are assuming no growth thereafter, as earnings may very well have peaked in 2021. We also forecast a DPS CAGR of 6% through 2027.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	9.1	10.1	11.7	9.5	8.8	8.2	8.8	9.0	16.7	5.3	6.6	8.0
Avg. Yld.	3.2%	2.9%	2.9%	3.3%	4.1%	3.9%	3.8%	4.8%	5.9%	4.6%	4.1%	4.5%

Since 2012 shares of LyondellBasell have traded hands with an average P/E ratio of about 9.7 times earnings. We believe this is a fair valuation estimate for the firm, keeping in mind this has ranged from 6 to 14 times earnings in the past. The current valuation appears low, but that is due to the standout results for 2021. We expect a modest valuation expansion potential towards a P/E of 8 in the medium term. The dividend should add to returns as well, currently yielding 4.1%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	29%	30%	34%	32%	36%	32%	33%	43%	75%	24%	27%	36%

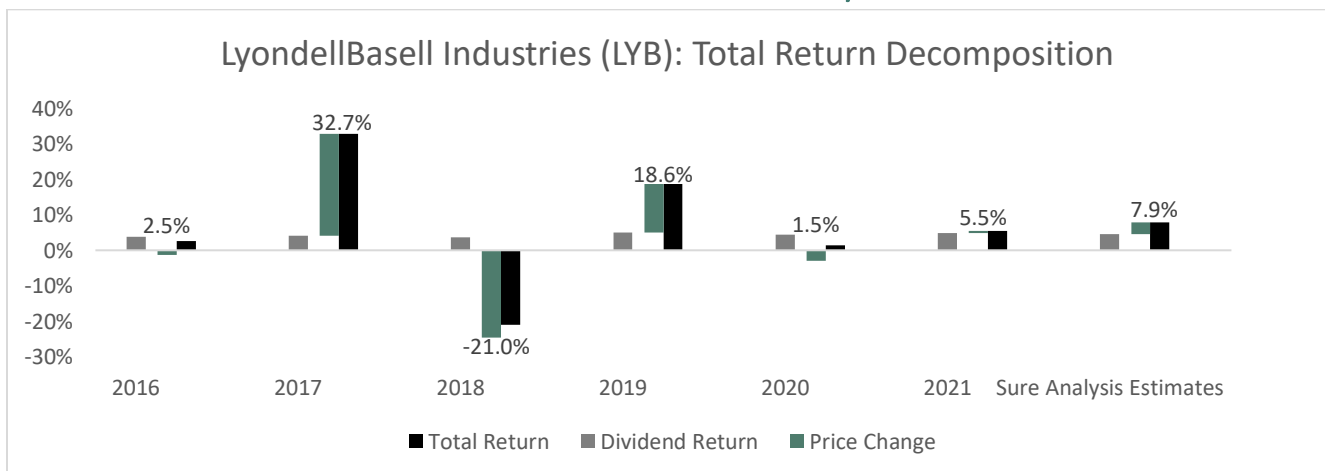

LyondellBasell's primary competitive advantage is its leading industry position. It is the world's largest producer of polypropylene compounds and the largest licensor of polyolefin technologies. It also has a vast intellectual property portfolio, with over 5,500 patents.

The lack of recession performance is a cautionary note, as LyondellBasell emerged from bankruptcy in 2010 after crumbling under a high debt load. At the end of Q1-2022, LyondellBasell held $1.8 billion in cash, $13.3 billion in current assets and $37.8 billion in total assets against $7.5 billion in current liabilities and $25.1 billion in total liabilities. Long-term debt equaled $11.1 billion.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares have gained modestly since our last report. LyondellBasell is a high-quality business in a relatively sound financial condition. The company is not recession-resistant, but it is in much better shape today than it was a decade ago. We forecast a total return potential of 7.9% annually, stemming from a 4.1% dividend yield and a potential valuation tailwind. Accordingly, LyondellBasell earns a hold rating.
