Overview & Current Events

H.B. Fuller is a leading global manufacturer of adhesives, sealants, and other specialty chemical products. The category of industrial adhesives is the core product offering of the company.

Given the $3.2 billion market cap of H.B Fuller, it is evident that its acquisition of Royal Adhesives & Sealants for $1.6 billion is critically important. This acquisition, which is the largest in the history of the company, boosted its annual sales by nearly one-third and enhanced its reach to more highly specialized adhesive segments. H.B. Fuller also acquired Adocol in late 2017 to improve its growth prospects in Brazil.

In late June, H.B. Fuller reported (6/22/22) financial results for the second quarter of fiscal 2022. Revenue and organic revenue grew 20% and 22%, respectively, over last year's quarter thanks to 3.4% volume growth and 18.5% price hikes. The company enjoyed double-digit growth in all segments and posted record sales. Due to high material costs and freight costs, gross profit shrank from 26.3% to 25.5%, but earnings-per-share grew 18% thanks to strong sales growth.

H.B. Fuller has recovered strongly from the pandemic, it posted record earnings in 2021 and is on track to post record earnings this year as well. It generates less than 1% of its sales in Russia and Ukraine but the ongoing war has caused supply chain disruptions and inflationary pressures. Nevertheless, H.B. Fuller expects to maintain its strong momentum. Management reiterated its guidance for adjusted earnings-per-share of $4.10-$4.35. H.B. Fuller has grown sales at a double-digit rate for 6 consecutive quarters and has not missed the analysts' consensus for 10 consecutive quarters.

H.B. Fuller has exhibited a volatile performance record throughout the last decade. It is also very sensitive to the underlying global economic growth. However, the company has improved its performance in recent years. It has grown its earnings-per-share at a 6.9% average annual rate over the last decade and at a 7.5% average annual rate over the last five years. Moreover, the pandemic has begun to subside and the global economy is in good shape, albeit with high inflation. H.B. Fuller has already emerged stronger from the pandemic. Overall, we expect H.B. Fuller to grow its earnings-per-share at an 8.0% average annual rate over the next five years off this year's expected record level.

H.B. Fuller (FUL)

Updated June 23rd, 2022 by Aristofanis Papadatos

H.B. Fuller is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 14.5. While the historical average earnings multiple is 17.7, we assume a fair price-to-earnings ratio of 15.0 due to the high cyclical nature of the stock. If the stock trades at our fair valuation level in five years, it will enjoy a 0.6% annualized gain in its returns thanks to the expansion of its earnings multiple.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	17.4%	20.6%	47.4%	30.2%	22.7%	52.2%	20.7%	21.6%	22.9%	19.3%	18.1%	16.5%

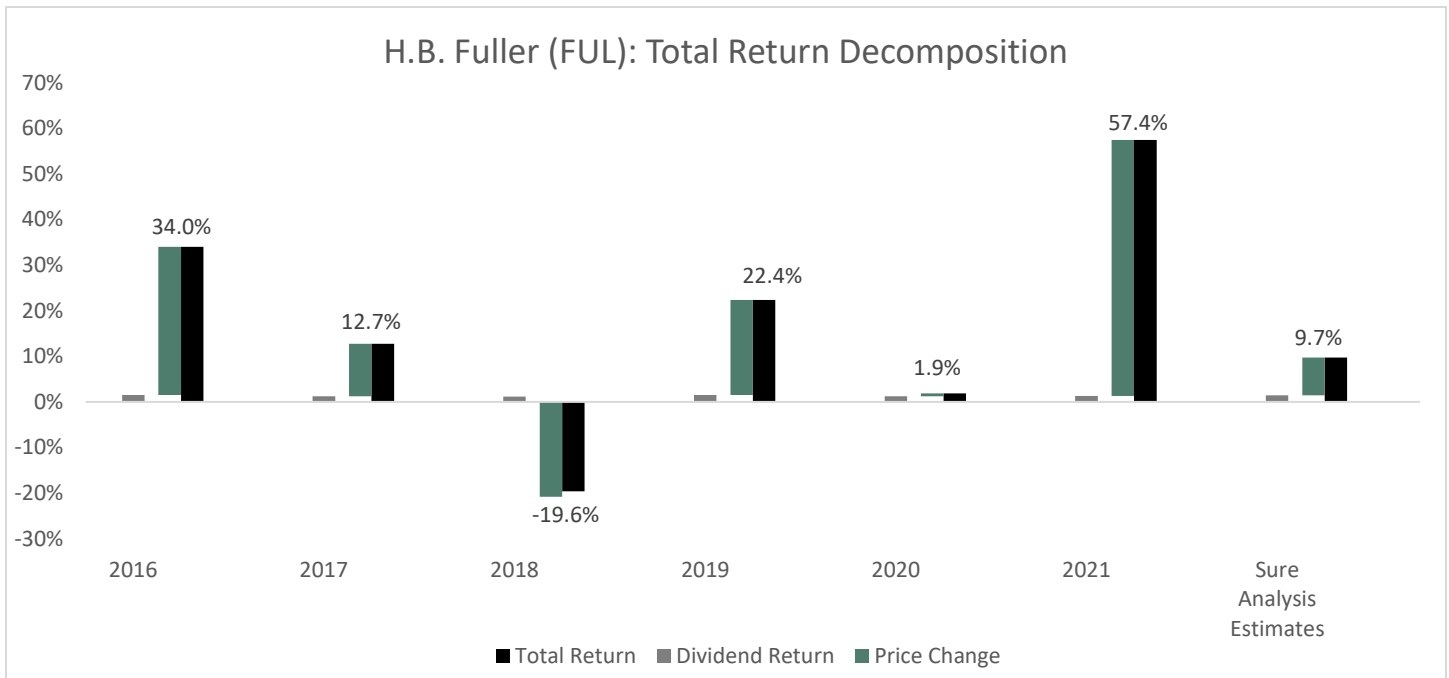

Due to the acquisition of Royal Adhesives & Sealants, interest coverage fell to 2.0 in 2018 but it has bounced to 3.3, as the company has been using a major portion of its free cash flows to reduce debt. The company reduced its debt by $268 million in 2019, by $205 million in 2020 and by $157 million in 2021. As a result, its interest coverage has returned to healthy levels.

As the customers of H.B. Fuller are manufacturers of a wide range of products, the performance of H.B. Fuller is closely tied to underlying economic conditions. Moreover, H.B. Fuller is highly leveraged to economic growth and hence the stock could outperform the market in rallies and underperform the market in rough periods. The company is notably vulnerable to recessions. During the Great Recession, its earnings-per-share plunged -79%, from $1.68 in 2007 to $0.36 in 2008, and the stock lost two-thirds of its market cap in less than six months. This is a significant risk factor to keep in mind, although the company has proved markedly resilient throughout the coronavirus crisis.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

H.B. Fuller has a volatile earnings record, and it is vulnerable to economic downturns. However, the company has proven to be more resilient than expected during the pandemic and has emerged stronger from this crisis, primarily thanks to pent-up demand and the unprecedented fiscal stimulus packages offered by most governments. We expect the stock to offer a 9.7% average annual return over the next five years and hence we rate it as a hold.
