Overview & Current Events

3M sells more than 60,000 products that are used every day in homes, hospitals, office buildings and schools around the world. It has about 95,000 employees and serves customers in more than 200 countries. From the second quarter of 2019, 3M is now composed of four separate divisions. The Safety & Industrial division produces tapes, abrasives, adhesives and supply chain management software as well as manufactures personal protective gear and security products. The Healthcare segment supplies medical and surgical products as well as drug delivery systems. Transportation & Electronics division produces fibers and circuits with a goal of using renewable energy sources while reducing costs. The Consumer division sells office supplies, home improvement products, protective materials and stationary supplies.

On February 8th, 2022, 3M announced it was raising its quarterly dividend 0.7% to $1.49, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 64 consecutive years.

3M is facing several lawsuits, including nearly 300,000 claims that its earplugs used by U.S. combat troops and produced by a subsidiary were defective. On July 26th, 2022, 3M announced that Aearo Technologies had filed for bankruptcy as it looks to conclude lawsuits related to its combat ear plugs.

On July 26th, 2022, 3M reported second quarter earnings results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. Revenue decreased 2.8% to $8.7 billion, but was in-line with expectations. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $2.48 compared to $2.59 in the prior year, but was $0.04 above estimates.

Organic growth for the quarter was 1% as a stronger U.S. dollar offset gains. Safety & Industrial had 0.7% organic growth as this segment continues to see gains in industrial adhesives and tapes, abrasives, and masking systems, though personal safety declined once again. Transportation & Electronics improved 0.5% as advanced materials, commercial solutions, and automotive OEM were higher for the quarter. Transportation & Safety declined year-over-year. Consumer was lower by 2.5% as demand for home care, stationery and office were more than offset by weakness in home improvement and consumer health and safety. Health Care grew 4.4% due to strength in separation and purification sciences, health information systems, medical solutions, and oral care. Food safety was flat. The company also announced that it would be spinning off its Health Care segment into a standalone entity, which would have had $8.6 billion of revenue in 2021. The transaction is expected to close by the end of 2023.

3M provided an updated outlook for 2022, with the company now expecting adjusted earnings-per-share of $10.30 to $10.80 for the year, down from $10.75 to $11.25 previously.

3M Company (MMM)

Updated July 26th, 2022 by Nathan Parsh

3M has grown earnings at a rate of 5.4% per year over the last decade. We are reaffirming our expected growth rate of 5%. 3M's dividend growth streak shows that the company can thrive in a wide variety of economic conditions. We expect dividend growth to come in at ~2% going forward in order to bring the payout ratio within the historical range.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	14.1	17.0	19.1	20.6	20.6	22.3	21.1	19.8	18.7	17.6	13.5	19.0
Avg. Yld.	2.7%	2.2%	2.4%	2.6%	2.6%	2.3%	2.6%	3.2%	3.9%	3.3%	4.2%	2.6%

Shares of 3M have declined $2, or 1.4%, from our April 26th, 2022 update. We have reaffirmed our 2027 target price-to-earnings ratio of 19 as this is in-line with the stock's average multiple since 2012. Based off of estimates for 2022, shares trade with a price-to-earnings ratio of 13.5. If the stock were to revert to this target, then the valuation would add 7.1% to annual returns through 2027. The current yield of 4.2% is well above the stock's 10-year average yield of 2.8% and is nearly triple the average yield of the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	37%	38%	46%	54%	54%	52%	52%	63%	67%	58%	56%	49%

Like many companies, 3M saw earnings decline during the last recession. While earnings declined in both 2008 and 2009, they quickly recovered in 2010 to grow more than 27% from 2009. 3M is not recession proof, but the company has proven itself to be resilient during the difficult times in the economic cycle. While dividend growth has outpaced earnings growth in recent years, 3M's dividend track record is virtually second to none. When the next recession occurs, it is likely that growth will slow, though we don't feel the dividend is in any danger of being cut. 3M's innovation is one of the company's greatest competitive advantages. The company targets R&D spending equivalent to 6% of sales (~$2 billion annually) in order to create new products to meet consumer demand. This spending has proven to be very beneficial to the company as 30% of sales during the last fiscal year were from products that didn't exist five years ago. 3M's commitment to developing innovative products has led to a portfolio of more than 100,000 patents.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

3M is expected to return 15.1% annually through 2027, down slightly from our previous estimate of 15.7%. The projected return stems from a 5% earnings growth rate, a 4.2% dividend yield, and a high single-digit tailwind from multiple expansion. Inflationary pressures continue to impact results as does a strong dollar. Shares were higher by more than 6% following the news that that 3M would spin off its Health Care business. We have lowered our 2027 price target $11 to $256 due to earnings guidance, but reiterate our buy rating on shares of 3M due to projected returns.
