Overview & Current Events

Novartis researches, develops and markets products to improve patients' health. The company's Innovative Medicines division offers medicines in the areas of oncology, cardiovascular, dermatology, respiratory and several others. Novartis Sandoz division markets generic drugs. Novartis employs 110,000 people and has annual sales of more than $52 billion. Novartis is incorporated in Switzerland, but U.S. investors have access to the company through an American Depositary Receipt, or ADR.

On July 19th, 2022, Novartis reported second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. All figures in U.S. dollars. Revenue decreased 1.4% to $12.78 billion, but was $40 million ahead of estimates. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $1.56 compared unfavorably to $1.66 in the prior year, but was $0.01 better than expected.

Innovative Medicines was flat for the quarter (+5% in constant currency). Volume improved double-digits, but was largely offset by lower realized prices and generic competition. Cosentyx, which treats plaque psoriasis and is the company's top selling product, was higher by 12% in constant currency as demand remains high in Europe, the U.S., and China. Entresto, which is used to treat chronic heart failure, surged 33% as the product continues to see increased patient share across all markets. Tafinlar + Mekinist, which treats melanoma, was up 13% due to continued high demand in adjuvant and non-small cell lung cancer. Sales for Promacta/Revolade, which helps lower the risk of bleeding, were higher by 10%, with most regions again showing growth. Sandoz was lower by 1% (+6% in constant currency). Novartis announced in late 2021 that it was conducting a "strategic review" of its Sandoz segment, with a decision regarding the segment likely before the end of the year.

We expect Novartis to earn $6.10 in 2022, down from $6.20 and $6.39 previously. We have updated our forecast accordingly.

Novartis increased earnings at a rate of 5.5% per year over the last decade, with growth accelerating to more than 14% since 2017. The company is also recession-resistant as it saw growth during the last recession. Healthcare companies often perform well during recessions as people will seek out treatments for ailments regardless of the economic climate. Due to continued strength of the company's top selling products, we are reiterating our expect earnings-per-share annual growth rate of 4%.

Novartis AG (NVS)

Updated July 20th, 2022 by Nathan Parsh

Novartis pays an annual dividend, with the most recent announcement stating the company increased its 2022 dividend 4.1% to $3.33 in USD. The company has increased its dividend 26 consecutive years in local currency. The dividend for U.S. investors was maintained in 2016 and 2017 after being cut slightly in 2015 due to currency exchange. Dividends are declared in Swiss Francs.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	14.8	19.8	21.4	33.3	27.3	24.5	15.2	28.4	24.6	13.9	14.1	16.0
Avg. Yld.	4.2%	3.3%	3.1%	2.7%	3.5%	3.4%	3.6%	3.2%	3.5%	3.7%	3.9%	3.4%

Novartis saw earnings-per-share decline at the same time the share price accelerated in the 2013-2015 period. We assign shares a fair value price-to-earnings multiple of 16 to help account for the wide variance in valuations over the last decade. This valuation is a premium to most peers, but we feel that the growth in the company's key products, as well as the expectation for new products to produce strong results, warrants the slight premium. Shares of Novartis have decreased $2, or 2.3%, since our April 30th, 2022 update. Based off estimates for 2022, Novartis has a multiple of 14.1 times earnings. If shares were to reach our target by 2027, then valuation could add 2.6% to annual returns over this time period.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	62%	66%	67%	91%	97%	83%	57%	49%	53%	51%	55%	55%

The chief competitive advantage for Novartis is its Innovative Medicines division, which has shown impressive growth over the last year. Six different products have reached the $2 billion annual sales mark. Another key advantage for the company is Novartis' willingness to spend on research and development. The company spends close to $10 billion annually on R&D. This level of R&D spending should pay off as Novartis expects to bring to market 20+ different products over the next few years with the potential for at least a billion dollars in peak sales.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Novartis is now expected to return 9.8% annually through 2027, up slightly from our prior estimate of 9.6%. This projection stems from a 4% earnings growth rate, a starting yield of 3.9%, and a small contribution from multiple expansion. Novartis' most important products continue to see very strong growth rates. We have lowered our five-year price target $2 to $119 due to earnings estimates for the year and continue to view shares of Novartis as a hold. On a slight pullback, we would look more favorably upon shares of the company.
