Overview & Current Events

Alpine Income Property Trust is a real estate trust that owns and operates a high-quality portfolio of commercial net lease properties. Its portfolio consists of 143 net leased retail and office properties located in 98 markets in 35 states. The trust was formed in August of 2019, has no employees, and is externally managed by Alpine Income Property Manager. The manager is owned by the publicly traded trust CTO Realty Growth (CTO), which also owns 22.3% of Alpine's common stock. Alpine Income Property generates around $30.1 million in annual rental revenues and is headquartered in Daytona Beach, Florida.

On July 21st, 2022, Alpine Income Property Trust reported its Q2 results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. Total revenues came in at $11.28 million, 71% higher year-over-year following the trust's sustained acquisition spree since its inception. During the quarter, Alpine acquired 19 net lease retail properties for a purchase price of $43.6 million, reflecting a weighted average going-in cash cap rate of 7.0%. Following a $234 million straight-line rent adjustment, AFFO grew by a softer, but still impressive 63% to $6.3 million. Due to the issuance of common stock to raise further funds to partially assist with its acquisitions, AFFO/share increased by a lower yet very strong 20.5% to $0.47.

At the end of the quarter, Alpine's Weighted-Average Remaining Lease Term was 9.9 years, and the portfolio was 100% occupied. For FY2022, management (once again) raised its outlook, expecting AFFO/share to come out between $1.58 and $1.63 (previously $1.53 and $1.58). We have once again utilized the higher-end of this range in our estimates due to the trust's results likely pointing towards a greater figure, let alone one within this range. The guidance remains somewhat conservative based on Alpine's leasing profile, too, and is evident by the non-stop sequential outlook boosts.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
AFFO/shr	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	$0.09	$1.04	$1.59	$1.63	$2.18
DPS	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	$0.06	$0.82	$1.02	$1.08	$1.45
Shares²	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	7.9	7.6	9.8	13.6	30.0

Due to its very recent inception, Alpine Income Property Trust does not have a historical track record to show. However, its financials have been growing at a very rapid pace by the quarter. The trust has achieved more than 260% accretive portfolio growth since its inception, which is quite impressive. Its current growth drivers include its acquisition spree, which takes place at extremely low-cost financing (Alpine borrowed $60 million in a 5-year term at just 2.16% last year), as well as rent escalations.

Currently, around half of its annualized base rent is subject to rent escalations. We forecast an AFFO CAGR of 6% in the medium-term. The trust's ongoing growth trajectory points towards a greater growth ahead, though we remain prudent due to its very short history of operations. In terms of the dividend, the trust's latest sequential raise was 5.9%, to an annualized rate of $1.08. We have also utilized a 6% growth rate in our calculations, though both this and our AFFO/share estimate are likely to change as the trust evolves.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/AFFO	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	14.4	11.9	11.1	12.5
Avg. Yld.	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	5.6%	5.6%	6.0%	5.3%

Alpine's valuation multiple currently stands at 11.1 times the high point of management's expected AFFO. Considering Alpine's rapid growth and above-average yield, the stock seems relatively undervalued versus its peers. We believe this is mainly attributable to its brief history both in terms of its operations and time as a publically traded security, which may discourage some investors from allocating capital. We retain our fair multiple of 12.5, implying the possibility for a modest valuation expansion tailwind moving forward.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	64%	79%	64%	66%	66%

We consider Alpine's dividend to be relatively safe considering the comfortable payout ratio and the trust's latest per-share hike. Alpine's qualities include fantastic cash flow visibility backed by multi-year leases, contractually embedded rent hikes that counter inflation, low-cost financing, and an experienced management team backed by the much larger REIT, CTO. Further, no State and no tenant account for more than 19% and 12% of total rental revenues. Additionally, a large chunk of the trust's tenants comprises investment-grade firms, with Walgreens, Academy Sports + Outdoors, and Walmart accounting for 12%, 6%, and 5% of total rental revenues, respectively. Finally, few companies can claim 100% occupancy levels. For these reasons, we believe the trust would perform resiliently during a recession, but note that it has not been tested under a prolonged one. We don't note any particular competitive advantages apart from the combination of qualities mentioned above as a whole distinguishing Alpine amongst its peers.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, Alpine Income Property Trust seems like a high-quality REIT with excellent characteristics despite its short trading history. We estimate annualized returns of around 13.3% through 2027, powered by the REIT's dividend, our AFFO/share growth rate assumption of 6%, and the possibility for a modest valuation expansion ahead. Returns are likely to be greater based on the trust's ongoing performance trajectory, though we remain conservative due to Alpine's lack of a longer track record. Shares are rated as a buy.
