Overview & Current Events

Merck & Company is one of the largest healthcare companies in the world. Merck manufactures prescription medicines, vaccines, biologic therapies, and animal health products. Merck employs 67,000 people around the world and generates annual revenues of ~$58 billion.

On June 2nd, 2021, Merck completed its previously announced spinoff of its women's health and biosimilar portfolio into Organon & Co (OGN).

On October 1st, 2021, Merck announced that its antiviral drug, Lagevrio (molnupiravir), was effective in reducing the risk of hospitalizations and deaths by 50% for patients with COVID-19. The company expects to deliver as many 20 million doses in total by the end of 2022. The drug is currently available in 30 markets, including the U.S., U.K., and Japan.

On July 28th, 2022, Merck reported second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. Revenue improved 28.1% to $14.6 billion, easily topping estimates by $750 million. Adjusted net income of $4.7 billion, or $1.87 per share, compared very favorably to adjusted net income of $1.6 billion, or $0.61 per share, in the prior year and was $0.16 above expectations.

Pharmaceutical revenue increased 28% to $14.6 billion for the quarter, with Lagevrio sales adding $1.2 billion, down from $3.2 billion in the fourth quarter of 2021. Keytruda, which treats cancers such as melanoma that cannot be removed by surgery and non-small cell lung cancer, remains the key driver of growth for the company, with sales higher by 26% to $5.3 billion for the quarter. The product eclipsed the $17 billion mark for revenue in 2021, a 20% improvement from the previous year, and could reach $20 billion this year. Keytruda continues to see gains in market share across a number of indications. Sales for Merck's HPV vaccine Gardasil grew 36% to $1.67 billion due to particularly strong demand in China. Januvia/Janumet, which treats diabetes, fell 2% to $1.2 billion. This product will lose market exclusivity in the E.U. and China in the third quarter. Animal Health revenue of $1.47 billion was essentially unchanged from the prior year, mostly due to unfavorable currency exchange. Demand remains high for livestock products and parasiticides for companion animals.

Merck provided an updated outlook for 2022 as well. The company narrowed adjusted earnings-per-share guidance to a range of $7.25 to $7.35, compared to $7.24 to $7.36 per share previously. Revenue is projected in a range of $57.5 billion to $58.5 billion, up from $56.9 billion to $58.1 billion and $56.1 billion to $57.6 billion previously.

Merck's earnings declined during the last recession and it took the company several years to return to growth. In fact, Merck has had earnings-per-share grow by just over 5% per year over the past ten years. Merck has struggled to grow earnings as patents for drugs have expired, but Keytruda has shown very high rates of growth in recent reporting periods. Keytruda has patent protection in the U.S. until 2028, in the European Union until 2030, and in Japan until 2032. In addition, the company's spinoff of Organon should allow for a higher growth as Merck focuses on its pharmaceutical, vaccines and animal health businesses. For now, we maintain our estimate of 5% earnings growth over the next five years. Merck paused its dividend from 2005 through 2011, but has increased its dividend for 11 consecutive years, including a 6.2% raise for the June 7th, 2022 payment date.

Valuation Analysis

| Year      | 2012 | 2013 | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | Now  | 2027 |

Shares of Merck have increased $1, or 1.1%, since our May 2nd, 2022 update. Based off of guidance for the current year, the stock has a forward price to earnings multiple of 12.2. Merck's long-term average price-to-earnings ratio is 14.4. Due to growth rates of key products, particularly Keytruda, we believe shares could trade with a price-to-earnings ratio of 15 by 2027. If shares were to revert to this target by 2027, then valuation would be a 4.2% tailwind to total annual returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Year   | 2012 | 2013 | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | 2027 |

| Payout | 44%  | 49%  | 50%  | 50%  | 49%  | 47%  | 46%  | 42%  | 42%  | 44%  | 38%  | 38%  |

Many investors consider pharmaceutical companies "defensive" stocks because their products are in demand even in a protracted recession. The thinking goes that sick people will seek treatment for illnesses even in poor economic conditions, causing earnings to increase. While this is true for many names in this industry, Merck's earnings declined in 2009 and suffered a subsequently long road back to profitability that this is not necessarily true for every healthcare corporation. With that said, Merck's key competitive advantage is that it is seeing strong growth rates in key product areas. While generic competition is putting pressure on certain pharmaceuticals, we find Keytruda's growth rate and peak sales expectations very appealing. Merck is also one of the largest pharmaceutical companies in the world, which gives the company size and scale. If needed, the company would likely have the ability to acquire other assets. Merck has also spent heavily (16%-19% of sales) on research and development over the past five years.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Merck & Company is expected to offer a total annual return of 11.8% through 2027, down from our prior estimate of 12.1%. This projected return stems from annual expected EPS growth of 5%, a starting yield of 3.1%, and a mid-single-digit contribution from multiple expansion. Once again, Keytruda provided strong growth rates that should last for years given its patent protection. Most other top products also showed year-over-year growth as well. Merck continues to earn a buy recommendation due to projected returns.
