Overview & Current Events

Packaging Corporation of America (PKG) is a manufacturer of packaging products, including containerboard and corrugated packaging products used to protect goods during the shipping process. The company also makes products for the agricultural products industry and multi-color boxes and displays. PKG manufactures more than 4.3 million tons of containerboard annually. Most of the containerboard is converted into corrugated boxes, and it ships about 62.8 billion square feet of corrugated products annually.

The company operates three segments: packaging, paper, and corporate / other. The packaging segment accounts for the vast majority (90%) of sales. The paper segment accounts for the remaining 10% of sales and includes office paper, printing paper, and converting paper, with paper mills in Jackson, AL and International Falls, MN.

Packaging Corporation of America operates nearly 100 manufacturing plants throughout the U.S. The company was founded in 1867 in Quincy, Illinois and has a current market capitalization of $13 billion.

On July 25th, 2022, Packaging Corporation of America reported second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2022. For the quarter, diluted earnings-per-share equaled $3.20, up from $2.17 in the prior year quarter.

Sales for the quarter were $2.2 billion, up from $1.9 billion in the prior year. PKG generated $532.6 million in EBITDA, with the Packaging segment contributing $525.3 million, the Paper segment contributing $31.5 million and the Corporate segment with -$24.2 million.

The company has been active in increasing prices and foresees further price increases in the third quarter. Leadership estimates third quarter earnings to come in at $2.80 per share.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027

Earnings-per-share has grown rapidly, though the growth has been volatile between 2012 and 2021. After growing at an average rate of 9% over the prior 5 years, including some pull-forward demand from the pandemic, we project the company to revert to a more sustainable 3% intermediate-term growth rate, as it should grow alongside GDP more broadly. This still does leave upside potential if we continue to see robust demand and the ability to increase prices in the future, as was seen in the first half of 2022.

PKG has traded at an average P/E ratio near 16 over the past 5 years, which captures performance through periods of stagnation and growth. We are using 16.0 times earnings as a fair value baseline. With shares presently trading at 12 times expected earnings, this implies the potential for a valuation tailwind.

PKG has a long history of paying a quarterly dividend dating back to 2003, and the dividend has grown gradually since 2009, albeit with some periods where the payment has been flat for more than 4 quarters. PKG most recently increased its quarterly dividend from $1.00 to $1.25 as of May 18th, 2022, an impressive 25% increase.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	60%	46%	40%	49%	50%	44%	39%	43%	58%	43%	44%	48%

PKG has maintained a fairly safe dividend payout ratio between 40-60%. It operates in the packaging industry which has secular tailwinds supporting it along with significant scale. Risks to the business include operating in a competitive industry with several similarly sized competitors such as International Paper, Westrock, and Sonoco Products. There are modest barriers to entry in the cardboard industry due to the large capital requirements to build manufacturing plants and scale across the country. We expect the dividend to continue to be protected at current levels given the strong growth the company has shown over the past decade and optimistic commentary from the CEO.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Packaging Corporation of America has put together a solid earnings and dividend record in the last decade. Total projected returns come in 11.9% annually, driven by a 3.6% dividend yield, 3% earnings-per-share growth rate and the potential for a valuation tailwind. Shares earn a buy rating.
