Overview & Current Events

Prospect Capital Corporation is a business development company, or BDC. It provides private debt and private equity to middle-market companies in the U.S. The company focuses on direct lending to owner-operated companies, as well as sponsor-backed transactions. Prospect invests primarily in first and second lien senior loans and mezzanine debt, with occasional equity investments. The company went public in 2004 and currently has a market capitalization of $3 billion. Prospect produces about $730 million in annual revenue.

We note that Prospect has had to file amended 1099 tax forms at times in the past, causing additional work for those that own shares when filing taxes for dividends received from the company.

Prospect reported fourth quarter and full-year earnings on August 29th, 2022, and results were better than expected on both the top and bottom lines. Adjusted earnings-per-share came to 21 cents, which was three cents ahead of estimates. Total investment income soared 17% year-over-year to $185 million, and beat expectations by $8 million.

The company's beat was in spite of the fact that originations declined. Originations were $477 million in Q4, down from $565 million in Q3. Total repayments during the quarter were down as well from Q3, falling from $185 million to $151 million.

Operating expenses were $95 million, flat with Q3, but up from $84 million in the year-ago period.

Net investment income per share of 21 cents was up from 20 cents in Q3 and 19 cents in last year's Q4. Net asset value of $10.48 was down from $10.81 in Q3. We start fiscal 2023 with an estimate of 80 cents in NII per-share.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Growth has been tough to come by for Prospect in the past decade. The company weathered the financial crisis quite well – 2010 results excluded – but since 2012, net investment income has struggled. Part of this is due to Prospect's prodigious share count, which is nearly double today what it was a decade ago. While it is typical for a BDC to issue shares to fund acquisitions, Prospect's dilution has been excessive at times. Given this history of dilution and weak net investment income performance, we expect -1% annual growth on a per-share basis.

Prospect has had additional trouble growing net investment income because its balance sheet has slowly grown smaller over time. The company's total assets are $7 billion today, with Q2 2022 marking the first quarter in years that total assets have grown materially.

The company's dividend has also shrunk over time as this year's payout of $0.72 is less than half the value of the dividend from before the financial crisis. Shrinking net investment income has taken its toll on the company's ability to finance the dividend. We see the dividend remaining where it is for the foreseeable future as NII barely covers the payout today. Prospect has funded deficits in its NII in the past, and we are still cautious on its ability to fund the dividend at current levels. However, the company has made it clear it intends to defend the payout. The boost in projected earnings is helping to increase dividend safety.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/NII	9.2	8.8	6.9	9.9	8.7	8.0	8.2	8.2	8.5	9.3	9.7	8.5
Avg. Yld.	12.1%	13.1%	13.8%	11.8%	11.3%	10.6%	12.1%	12.1%	11.3%	10.3%	9.3%	11.1%

Prospect's price to net investment income has averaged ~8 in the past decade. We see fair value as 8.5 times net investment income given that the company's growth outlook has improved slightly with higher rates. We see a sizable headwind to total annual returns from the valuation moving lower over time from today's 9.7.

The company's current dividend yield is 9.3%, which is well down against its historical average. We forecast the yield rising to 11.1%, which would result from a lower share price but stagnant payout per share.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	82%	111%	116%	96%	118%	97%	85%	100%	96%	90%	90%	95%

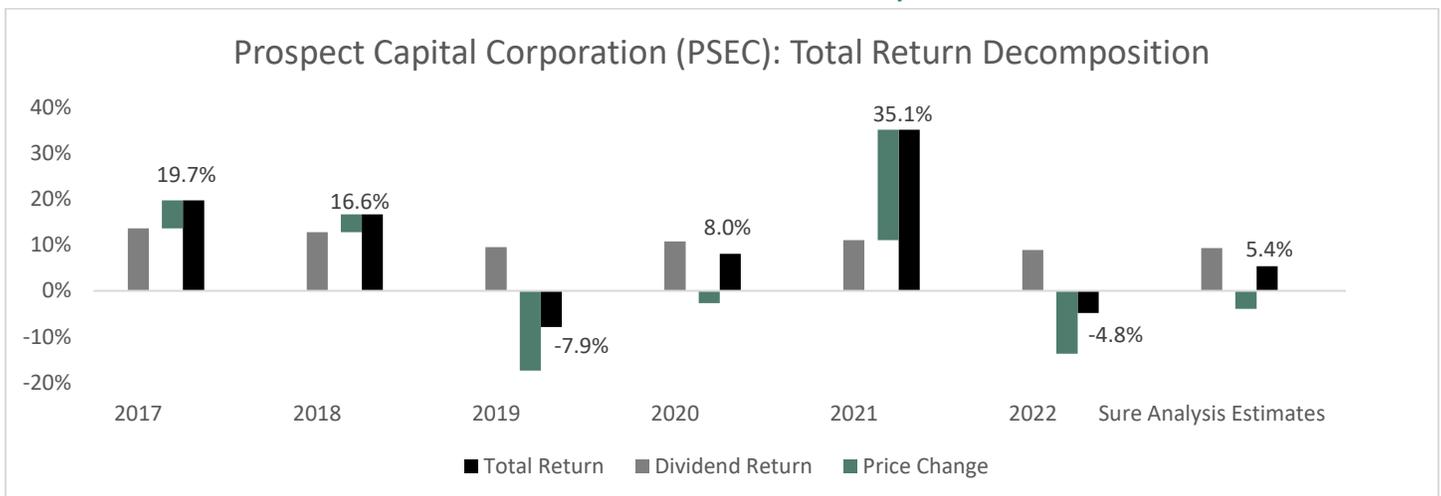

One of the issues with business development companies is that competitive advantages are very difficult to come by, and Prospect is certainly no exception. Scale is the name of the game for BDCs and with a stagnant balance sheet, Prospect has lost some of its relative scale over time. That began to reverse given Q2 2022 results.

The company's payout ratio was over 100% for several years in the past decade but is slightly under that now given the increasing NII-per-share estimate. We are cautious on Prospect's ability to continue to fund the dividend at the current rate but note it has funded deficits for several quarters at a time in the past and may do so again.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Prospect Capital offers investors a huge yield, but it is not without its risks. The valuation is still relatively high, particularly considering the company's modest growth outlook. The yield is now quite low by historical standards, however. We are forecasting 5.4% in total returns in the coming years, consisting of the 9.3% yield, -1% growth, and a 2.6% headwind from the valuation. We reiterate Prospect at a hold rating.
