Property and casualty insurance premiums totaled $11.7 billion, up 9.9% from $10.6 billion in the same period a year ago. Adjusted net income per share of ($1.56) was an unfavorable decline from $0.73 a year ago, due to increased claims severity and unfavorable prior year reserve reestimates, and lower net investment income.

Allstate's profits took a large hit during the last financial crisis. Earnings once peaked in 2006 at $7.67 and continued to drop for several years before bottoming out in 2011, more than 80% below the peak that was hit five years earlier. Since then, profits have recovered, though, and have risen to new record highs since 2018, and through to 2020. The last year fell just short of its 2020 high, and we forecast a significant reduction in EPS in 2022 due to increased claims severity and unfavorable prior year reserve reestimates, lower net investment income and policies in force, and higher costs and expenses. From a normalized earnings power of $5.50 per share, we estimate Allstate can produce 6.0% annualized earnings growth to generate $7.36 in 2027.

The insurance industry is not a high-growth industry, nevertheless, Allstate has managed to grow earnings successfully over the long-term, with ebbs and flows over certain time periods. Higher contract volumes are a good indicator for the company's near-term growth. Allstate would benefit from rising interest rates, as this allows the company to deploy the insurance float more profitably, which should bolster profit growth as well. The company has very successfully reduced its share count throughout the last decade. It is likely that share repurchases will remain a key factor for earnings-per-

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	8.2	8.7	11	12.6	13.8	13.1	10.3	13.5	7.5	9.2	23.8	10.5
Avg. Yld.	3.1%	1.5%	1.9%	1.8%	1.9%	1.6%	2.2%	1.9%	2.1%	2.2%	2.6%	5.6%

Allstate Corporation trades at 23.8 times normalized earnings power of $5.50 per share right now. This is well above the 10-year average PE of 10.8. We believe that shares are significantly overvalued here, which implies a valuation headwind. Allstate's dividend yield is above that of the broad market at 2.6% and is elevated in comparison to its average historical yield of 2.0%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	20%	18%	21%	23%	26%	22%	21%	19%	15%	24%	62%	59%

Allstate saw its profits shrink considerably during the last financial crisis, which is why the company cut its dividend during those troubled times. The dividend was cut from 2008 to 2009 as well as from 2009 to 2010. The dividend payout ratio is quite low, though, and there have been no cuts to earnings estimates for the company due to the coronavirus pandemic. Allstate even provided a Shelter-in-Place Payback of over $900 million to customers since customers drove less due to social distancing. Still, adjusted net income saw strong growth. The risk of another dividend cut during the next couple of years is relatively low, even with the underperformance we are seeing in 2022. Allstate does not have strong recession performance; its profits declined massively, and it took the company until 2018 to breach its earnings-per-share record that the company set in 2006. Allstate is thus not a resilient investment. Allstate is highly reliant on auto insurance, which is responsible for more than 50% of revenues. Shifts towards more autonomous driving or ride sharing could thus turn into a headwind in the distant future.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Allstate is one of the largest American insurers and a very shareholder friendly company. We are forecasting total annualized returns of -5.8% in the intermediate term, and the stock is trading significantly above our estimate of fair value. As a result of this overvaluation, Allstate earns a sell rating.
