Overview & Current Events

CMS Energy Corp. (CMS) is an energy company operating primarily in Michigan. It's the parent holding company of several subsidiaries, including Consumers, an electric and gas utility; and CMS Enterprises, a domestic power producer and marketer. Founded in 1987, this $16 billion market cap company has raised its dividend every year for 15 years.

CMS reported Q3 2022 earnings on October 27th, 2022. For the quarter, earnings-per-share equalled $0.56, lower than the $0.64 reported in the same period in 2021. The company has declared a $0.46 dividend for Q3, with an ex-dividend date of November 3rd and payable by November 30th. The dividend is covered by the company's earnings.

The company has adjusted its 2022 earnings guidance of $2.87 to $2.89 per share and introduced a preliminary 2023 adjusted earnings guidance of $3.05 to $3.11 per share. The company had a strong quarter and continues to execute well on all fronts, positioning themselves solidly for the fourth quarter and 2023. A new commitment by Gotion, a global electric vehicle battery manufacturer to build a factory in its service territory will help build the CMS customer base going forward.

Utility companies are often seen as stable businesses with low volatility in their dividends, at the expense of limited growth opportunities. CMS is no different from its peers, and its dividend has steadily grown over the past decade. Unfortunately, this stability has also come at a great cost, and its revenue has been flat over this period, with earnings growth coming primarily from increased margins. As a mature company in a mature industry, we don't expect this situation to change much, though we do think that due to its plans for net zero carbon emissions by 2040, and its elimination of coal generation by 2025, the company will be better positioned than most to take advantage of the ongoing energy transition.

For these reasons we estimate 6% annual growth over the next 5 years, and estimate earnings of $3.81 per share in 2027, with a dividend per share of $2.46. This is in line with the lower end of the company's own expectations.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	Now	2027
Avg. P/E	15.0	16.0	17.0	18.0	20.0	21.0	20.0	24.3	23.3	23.6	20.0	15.0

CMS has traded hands with an average P/E ratio of about 20 times earnings in the last decade. This is a substantial premium for what is arguably a low-growth highly regulated business, and while it's possible that this premium will continue to be paid, such a situation would not be justified by the company's fundamentals and made even harder due to the ongoing interest rate hikes. As such we expect the company's valuation to be re-rated to the lower end of that historical range by 2027, ending that year at a 15 PE, in line with the market average.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	63%	61%	62%	61%	63%	61%	62%	64%	61%	67%	65%	65%

The core competitive advantage is also the thing that prevented its revenue growth over the past decade, CMS is a regulated utility. Regulated utilities receive government backed monopolies, and as such they don't have to worry about any new competition coming in and disrupting their business. At the same time, however, the stringent regulations they operate under make it difficult to grow the business, and operate it in an efficient manner, and any price increases are subject to political pressures.

While CMS has managed to navigate this successfully in the past, and its focus on carbon neutrality means they will likely see little in the way of political interference, such dangers are nonetheless present in this industry, and as such must be accounted for.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Despite a 3.2% dividend yield and an expected 6% EPS growth rate, we are forecasting total return potential of only 3.7% per annum, driven primarily by an adjustment to its valuation multiple. As a result, the company's shares earn a Hold rating.
