Overview & Current Events

Douglas Emmett (DEI) is a real estate investment trust (REIT) that was founded in 1971. It is the largest office landlord in Los Angeles and Honolulu, with a 38% average market share of office space in its submarkets. The REIT generates 86% of its revenue from its office portfolio and 14% of its revenue from its multifamily portfolio. It has approximately 2,700 office leases in its portfolio, annual revenue of $1 billion and a market capitalization of $3.5 billion.

The merits of being the largest office landlord in Los Angeles are obvious, as Los Angeles County is the third-largest city in the world, with GDP of $1 trillion, behind only Tokyo and New York. The dominant position of Douglas Emmett creates operational synergies. In addition, the REIT benefits from high barriers to entry, which reduce competition. Moreover, the proximity to premier housing attracts affluent tenants, who offer reliable cash flows to the company.

In early November, Douglas Emmett reported (11/3/22) financial results for the third quarter of fiscal 2022. The trust continued to recover from the pandemic and thus leased more than 1,000,000 square feet in the quarter. Its multifamily portfolio remained essentially fully leased. Revenue grew 6.5% and adjusted funds from operations (FFO) per share grew 7% over the prior year's quarter. Management narrowed its guidance for FFO per share in 2022, from $2.03-$2.07 to $2.03-$2.05, implying 10% growth at the mid-point. The REIT expects its interest expense to increase next year due to higher interest rates. Fortunately, 87% of its debt is at fixed rates and there are no debt maturities until the end of 2024.

The markets of Douglas Emmett are characterized by high rent growth and relatively low volatility. Rents in the West Los Angeles submarkets of the REIT have grown 150% over the last 25 years, at a 3.7% average annual rate, the highest growth rate among all the U.S. gateway markets. Douglas Emmett certainly benefits from this trend, as its leases include 3%-5% annual rent hikes. Thanks to this tailwind, the company has grown its adjusted FFO per share at a 3.5% average annual rate over the last decade. In addition, the REIT has ample development opportunities within its existing portfolio. Given the low comparison base formed this year due to the continued effect of the pandemic but also the negative effect of high interest rates on interest expense, we now expect Douglas Emmett to grow its FFO per share at a 3.0% (vs. 5.0% previously) average annual rate over the next five years.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	46%	41%	44%	44%	42%	43%	43%	43%	53%	60%	55%	52%

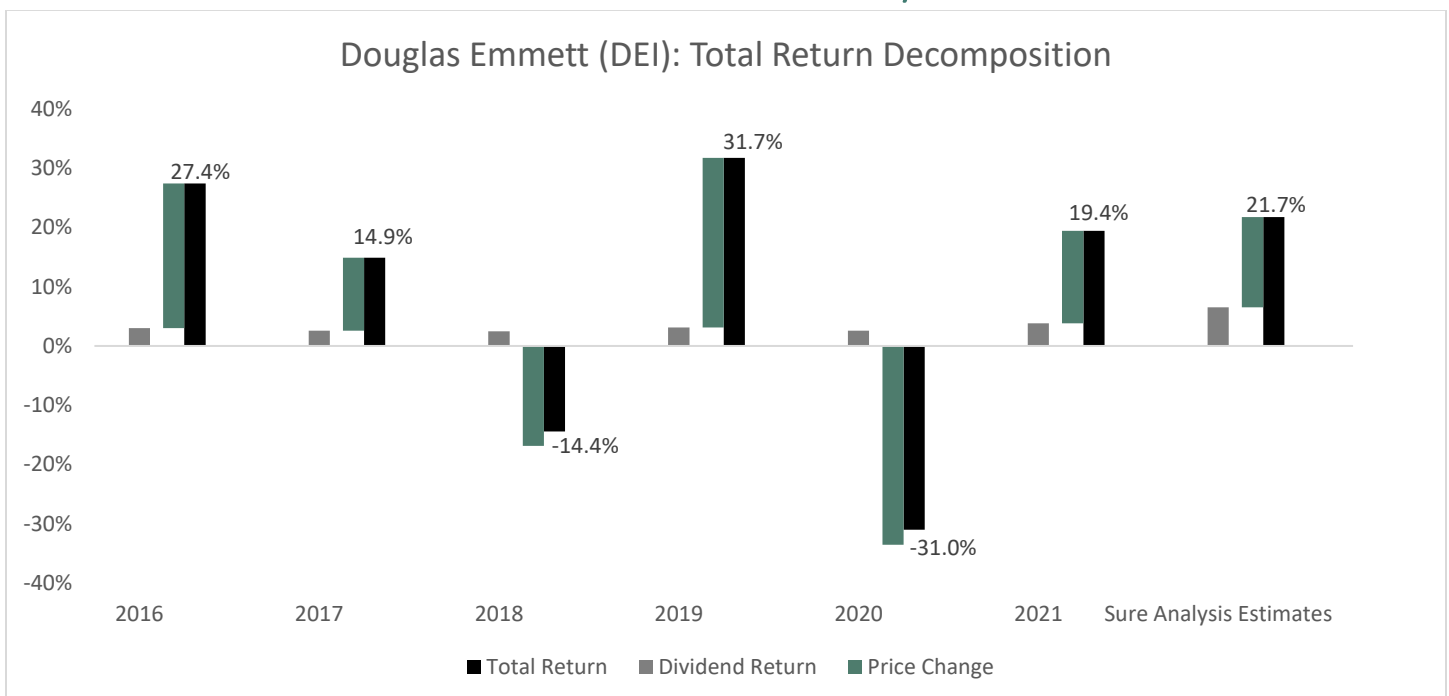

The markets of Douglas Emmett have the highest barriers to entry among the U.S. gateway markets. New office development in its core L.A. markets is limited due to restrictive zoning laws, density limits and anti-growth community sentiment. Total new supply of offices in these submarkets of L.A. and Honolulu has been only 2% and 0%, respectively, since 2009. These high barriers to entry offer a dominant position to Douglas Emmett, which can thus raise rents by 3%-5% per year. The annual rent hikes greatly support cash flows during downturns and offer reliable growth. Moreover, thanks to economies of scale and its efficient team that optimizes design before move-ins, Douglas Emmett minimizes vacancy time and enjoys higher operating margins than its peers.

Overall, Douglas Emmett is somewhat resilient but not immune to recessions, mostly due to its leverage. Due to the pandemic, the company's interest coverage ratio has fallen from 1.8 in 2019 to 1.6 and the REIT has paid the same dividend for 12 consecutive quarters. It also cut its dividend by -47% during the Great Recession, in 2009.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

The pandemic is still weighing on the business of Douglas Emmett. The stock has shed -53% this year due to 40-year high inflation and fears that the pandemic may have a permanent impact on the occupancy of office space. We view this sell-off as an opportunity and expect the stock to offer a 21.7% average annual rate over the next five years, thanks to 3.0% FFO growth, a 7.0% dividend and a 14.7% annualized valuation tailwind. The REIT receives a buy rating but we note that it is suitable only for patient investors, who can tolerate stock price pressure and remain focused on the long term.
