Overview & Current Events

Artesian Resources Corp. was founded in 1905 in New Castle County, Delaware. Through its subsidiaries, the company provides water, wastewater and other services, primarily in the Delaware region. Artesian Resources sells and distributes water to residential, commercial, industrial, governmental, and utility customers throughout the state. In addition, Artesian Resources provides water for public and private fire protection in Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. The company produces 7.9 billion gallons of water annually through 1,311 miles of water main with a population of approximately 301,000 served.

On November 2nd, 2022, Artesian Resources reported Q3 results. Diluted net income per share increased to $0.65 in the third quarter and to $1.65 year-to-date. Net Income increased by 21.5% in the third quarter and 13.8% year-to-date. The company has invested $36.7 million year-to-date in water and wastewater infrastructure, including acquisitions and announced a settlement agreement with the Delaware Sand & Gravel Trust, who will reimburse Artesian Water Company for treatment costs associated with the release of contaminants from the Delaware Sand & Gravel Landfill Superfund Site.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Artesian Resources has enjoyed strong growth for a utility. EPS growth over the past decade has averaged just under 8% per year.

That being said, we expect growth to slow somewhat moving forward to a 6.4% annualized growth rate over the next five years. Delaware's population growth averages approximately 1% per year, which along with 1%-2% annual price increases, provides a baseline growth rate for the company of approximately 2%-3%. The company can potentially increase this further by offering new services, improving economies of scale, and expanding its area, but growth beyond 6-7% per year may be difficult going forward and for now, we choose to remain conservative with our estimate.

Updated November 29th, 2022 by Samuel Smith

Due to its stability, Artesian Resources has historically commanded a rather high valuation. Its P/E ratio dropped to under 17 during the previous recession but has often floated over 20 during normal economic times. Currently the P/E ratio is 29.7 and its dividend yield is 2.0%.

Low government bond yields across the developed world have resulted in substantial equity premiums for recession-resistant stocks, meaning that even at rich valuations they potentially offer a sizable return premium over safe government bonds. Still, with interest rates rising, we believe that paying over 24.5x annual earnings is too rich given the lack of growth potential, and that a P/E of 24.5 or less for a company with this level of growth and high earnings resiliency is warranted.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2027
Payout	70%	87%	79%	69%	64%	62%	62%	61%	58%	60%	59%	49%

Artesian Resources has a solid balance sheet as annual interest expense is well-covered by operating income. The company uses a substantial amount of leverage but is in line with other utilities on this metric due to their stable, recession-resistant cash flows and large base of assets.

Like most utilities, the company's earnings have historically been very recession resistant. During the previous recession, the company's earnings-per-share declined by 5% in 2007 and declined by a further 7% in 2008. By 2009, the company had recovered to match its 2006 peak earnings and surpassed that peak in 2010. The company operates in a regulated environment with long-term contracts, and its cash flows should be very safe going forward. The company has increased its dividend for 27 consecutive years, although at times the payout ratio was high. Since 1992, the company has had the same CEO, Dian Taylor, who has proven to be an intelligent allocator of shareholder capital.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Artesian Resources has been a very successful utility company with a long stretch of consecutive annual dividend increases and a solid growth rate in an otherwise slow-growing industry.

However, Artesian Resources' forward returns are likely to be lower than past returns, as the company's growth rate is likely to slow moving forward. We expect total returns over the next five years to average approximately 4.2% per year, and therefore consider Artesian Resources to be a Hold at the current time.
