Overview & Current Events

Emerson Electric was founded in Missouri in 1890 and since that time, it has evolved through organic growth, as well as strategic acquisitions and divestitures, from a regional manufacturer of electric motors and fans into a $55 billion diversified global leader in technology and engineering. Its global customer base and diverse product and service offerings afford it about $15 billion in annual revenue. The company's very impressive 66-year dividend increase streak lands it on the prestigious Dividend Kings list.

Emerson reported fourth quarter and full-year earnings on October 31st, 2022, and results were better than expected. The company posted adjusted earnings-per-share of $1.53, which was 14 cents better than expected. Revenue was up more than 8% to $5.36 billion, and was $30 million better than expected.

Emerson's results were overshadowed by some very large portfolio moves. The company sold its InSinkErator food waste disposer business for $3 billion to Whirlpool Corporation (WHR). In addition, Emerson is selling a 55% stake in its Climate Technologies business to Blackstone for $9.5 billion, valuing the business at $14 billion. That includes about $5 billion in annual sales. Emerson previously announced its divestiture of Them-O-Disc earlier this year, bringing total proceeds from divestitures to about $18 billion in cash for this year.

We see $4.05 in earnings-per-share for this year, but note that the timing of the planned divestitures could see that estimate move around quite a bit throughout the year.

Emerson boosted its dividend for the final payment of calendar 2022, with the dividend rising just 0.5 cents to a new quarterly payout of 52 cents per share.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
EPS	$3.54	$3.75	$3.17	$2.46	$2.54	$3.46	$3.71	$3.46	$4.10	$5.25	$4.05	$5.95

Shares²	707	697	655	643	642	641	632	601	595	591	585	550

Emerson is undergoing a significant shift in its strategy, whereby it is selling off legacy units and focusing more on automation and recurring revenue. We're estimating growth at 8% as management remains bullish, and as there are signs of organic revenue growth improvement, as well as with respect to margins. We still think low single-digit growth in revenue and a tailwind from the buyback will be the key drivers of earnings-per-share growth in the coming years, and we see Emerson as rebounding. We note there is likely to be significant earnings weakness while the transformation plays out, including a slow start to fiscal 2023.

The dividend is also expected to grow in the low single-digits as recent years have seen Emerson focus more on acquisitions and share repurchases than growing the dividend. Growth rates will likely be unimpressive as the company continues to focus on using its ample cash flow on acquisitions, not above average dividend growth.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	15.8	17.6	18.0	20.6	22.9	20.5	17.7	18.8	18.2	13.9	23.5	19.0
Avg. Yld.	3.0%	2.6%	3.3%	3.8%	3.3%	2.7%	3.0%	3.1%	2.3%	2.8%	2.2%	2.1%

Emerson's price-to-earnings ratio is up since our last update, at 23.5 times earnings, which is well ahead of our estimate of fair value at 19. We are therefore forecasting a modest negative impact from the valuation in the coming years on total returns. We see the yield as declining over time, primarily from small dividend increases. If free cash flow weakens, growth rates in the dividend could moderate.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	46%	61%	60%	77%	75%	58%	53%	58%	50%	39%	51%	41%

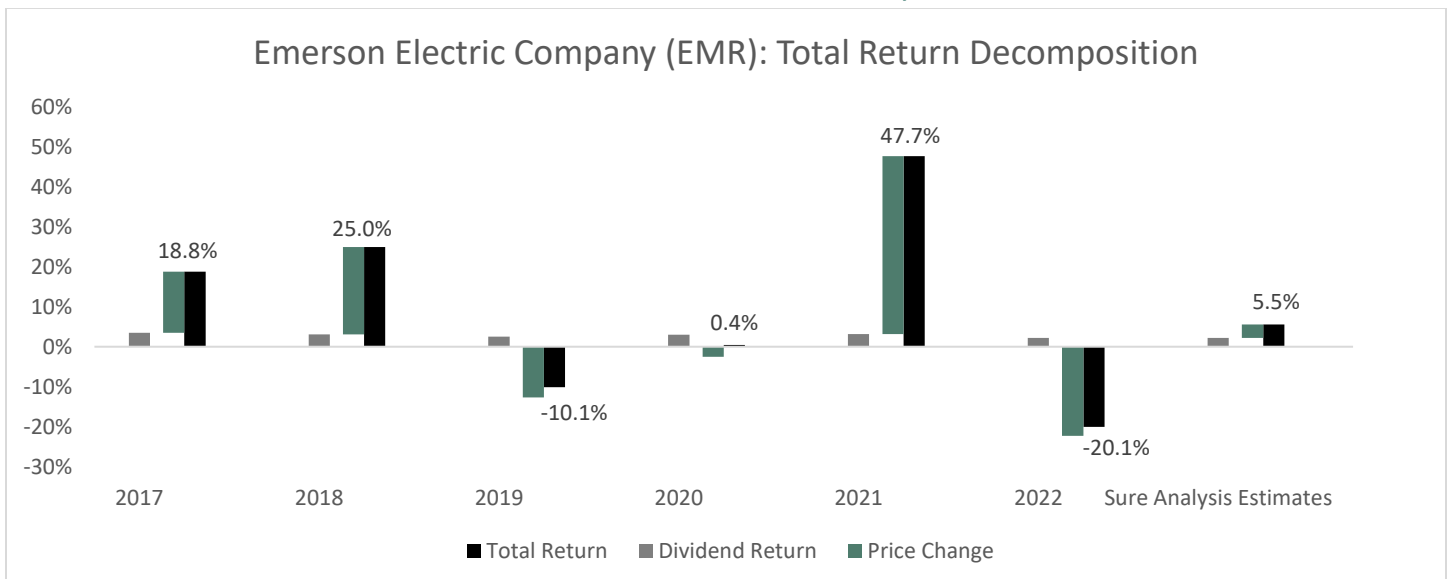

Emerson's payout ratio is right at half of earnings, and we believe it will continue to drift lower over time as Emerson focuses on acquisitions instead of boosting the payout by large amounts. The dividend is very safe as it is well covered by free cash flow, and the yield is decent, so it is a suitable dividend stock. We also note that Emerson likes to buy back its stock, which puts a natural cap on how much the company is willing to use for dividend payments.

Emerson's competitive advantage is in its many decades of experience in building customer relationships and engineering excellence. It has a global customer base that is seeing strong economic growth and that underlying sales tailwind should power results going forward. It is very susceptible to recessions, however, so any signs of economic weakness should put investors on alert, as we saw in 2020.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

With recent price action, Emerson is now overvalued in our view. Our growth forecast, combined with shares at 123% of our estimate of fair value, and a lower dividend yield, means we are forecasting 5.5% total annual returns in the coming years. We reiterate the stock at a hold rating, driven by a 4.1% valuation headwind that should be offset by the 2.2% yield and 8% earnings growth.
