RGC Resources, Inc. is highly dependent on Roanoke Gas' natural gas distribution business, which accounts for more than 98% of the firm's total revenues. The continued demand for natural gas ensures that the company operates as a stable company with consistent financial performance over time. Although the net loss posted in fiscal 2022 may reflect otherwise, it is essential to consider the earnings and dividend growth posted by the company over time and the fact that the current net loss is due to an impairment charge related to the Mountain Valley Pipeline.

The company is expected to continue its growth trajectory in the coming years owing to a strong natural gas demand as it remains the cheapest heat source compared with electricity and fuel. However, it is also important to realize that the company operates in a highly regulated industry, and its topline remains highly dependent on gas costs, consumption patterns, and weather/economic conditions. The increase or decrease in gas prices is passed on to customers through the PGA mechanism, which means that sometimes price increases are not allowed by regulators. Hence, we forecast a modest 5.0% growth in EPS through 2028, in line with the company's long-term EPS growth rate. In addition, the company will be able to grow its dividends at a healthy pace in the future and has assumed a dividend growth rate of 6.0% for the next five years.
