Overview & Current Events

Bunge Limited is one of the largest agribusiness and food companies globally, with integrated operations that stretch from farmer to consumer. The company buys, sells, stores, transports, and processes oilseeds and grains to make protein meals for animal feed and edible oil products for commercial customers. Bunge also produces sugar and ethanol from sugarcane, mills wheat and corn, and sells fertilizers. BG currently has a market capitalization of $14.8 billion.

BG Bunge has remained resilient in the face of broader equity sell-off in the market and is down 1.92% over the past one year compared to the S&P 500's decline of 7.07% over the same period. The company's strong balance sheet and liquidity position provides it with a competitive advantage in adverse market conditions. Even though the global supply chain bottlenecks persist, BG has profited from the rise in crop prices since a growing global population has raised the need for more food-grade oils and well-fed livestock.

On May 3rd, 2023, the company announced Q1 2023 results, reporting Q1 GAAP EPS of $3.26, which beat the markets' estimates by $0.02. Bunge reported revenues of $15.33 billion, down 3.5% year-over-year.

Although results were down from the notably good performance last year, the agribusiness sector nonetheless performed strongly. Results for refined and specialty oils were better in every region, suggesting good demand trends and efficient supply chain management. In addition, BG announced specific initiatives to increase business capabilities, expand footprint, and promote growth. Lastly, the management maintained its guidance for full-year 2023 adjusted earnings per share of at least $11.

Bunge Limited has grown its EPS by a CAGR of 7.9% over the past nine years, well below its 5-year CAGR of 47.4%. Indeed, the company has experienced significant growth in EPS in the last two years, with an EPS increasing materially in 2020 and 2021. However, as we move closer to the end of the cycle, the company may face earnings normalization with slower growth in the medium-term. Nevertheless, BG now has an increasing opportunity to expand its revenue. For instance, as the world advances toward sustainability, the growth in renewable diesel, produced from crop oils, is currently a modest portion of Bunge's business but may become big in the future.

We are forecasting an EPS of $11.97 in 2023, matching the management's higher-end guidance. Still, we maintain our forecast with an EPS normalization in the coming years with a negative growth of 1.0% between 2023 to 2028, leading to our estimated EPS of $11.38 by 2028. Additionally, we have assumed a 6.8% dividend growth resulting in a dividend payment of $3.68 in 2028. Nevertheless, higher crop prices are not the only factor driving growth for Bunge. The world

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Avg. P/E	14.3	27.5	16.6	12.1	48.8	43.7	31.0	6.2	6.0	9.4	7.7	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.5%	1.7%	1.7%	1.9%	2.4%	2.8%	3.0%	2.9%	2.8%	3.2%	2.9%	3.2%

Due to the material rise in EPS since 2020, the market has assigned a much lower P/E multiple, which is significantly lower than its 10-year and 5-year P/E ratio of 21.6 and 19.3, respectively. As a result, we believe the company could trade at a P/E ratio of around 10.0 by 2028, implying a valuation tailwind. Finally, we expect the company to be consistent with its historical dividend payout policy, resulting in a stable dividend yield of 3.2% by 2028.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	22%	43%	30%	32%	117%	122%	114%	26%	15%	22%	22%	32%

Bunge's CEO Gregory Heckman, who took over in 2019, has been instrumental in introducing structural changes to harness the global scale of its business, increasing the earnings power of the company and reducing the level of debt on the balance sheet. The company has been very disciplined at paying out dividends and is a great capital allocator. The company ended 2022 with $1.1 billion in cash and equivalents, nearly triple 2019 levels. The company faces risks from the volatile nature of commodity prices. The markets for the products of the company are characterized by high competition and subject to product substitution. The management noted that competition faced by the company is principally based on price, quality, product and service offerings, and geographic location.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

It is reasonable to expect the company to pass on the cost to its customers efficiently, offering Bunge inflation resistance in the current environment. Undoubtedly, Bunge is a cyclical stock, and we believe that prices are near their peak. However, Bunge earns a hold rating premised upon the 7.2% annualized total return expectation derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share decline of 1.0%, the 2.9% dividend yield, and a valuation tailwind.
