Overview & Current Events

Brady Corporation was founded in 1914, generates annual revenue in excess of $1.3 billion, and has a $2.7 billion market capitalization. It manufactures and markets specialty materials. Beginning of the third quarter of fiscal year 2023, the company began reporting results for geographic regions as opposed to product lines. This includes the Americas & Asia and Europe & Australia. Brady Corporation's products include absorbents, labels, pipes and valves, signs, tags, tapes, and printers.

On August 31st, 2022, Brady Corporation increased its quarterly dividend 2.2% to $0.23, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 37 consecutive years.

On May 18, 2023, Brady Corporation announced results for the third quarter of fiscal year 2023 for the period ending April 30th, 2023. For the quarter, revenue declined 0.4% to $337.1 million, which was $5.6 million below estimates. Adjusted earnings-per share of $0.90 compared favorably to $0.86 in the prior year and was in-line with estimates.

Organic revenue grew 1.9% for the quarter, but was offset by a 2.1% headwind from currency exchange and a 0.2% reduction related to a divestiture. Organic growth for the Americas & Asia and Europe & Australia was up 1.2% and 3.4%, respectively. Gross profit margin expanded 190 basis points to 50.3% for the period as the company offset input costs with pricing action, lower freight charges, and efficiency gains.

Brady Corporation provided an updated outlook for fiscal year 2023 as well, with the company now expecting adjusted earnings-per-share in a range of $3.45 to $3.60, compared to $3.40 to $3.60 for the year and $3.30 to $3.60 previously.

Brady Corporation grew earnings per share at a rate of 5.6% annually over the last decade, but that growth rate has accelerated to more than 10% over the last five years. We continue to expect earnings growth of at least 5% through 2028. We feel that this is an appropriate starting place for earnings growth due to the low base for earnings-per-share that occurred in 2013.

five-year target P/E ratio of 19 to be more in-line with the stock's average valuation over the last decade. As a result, the stock appears undervalued. If the stock returns to our estimate of fair value by fiscal 2028, then valuation would be a 6.5% tailwind to annual returns over this period of time.

Shares yield 1.9% currently, slightly ahead of the average yield of S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	39%	50%	63%	52%	45%	39%	35%	38%	38%	29%	26%	23%

Brady Corporation has a secure dividend with a payout ratio below 30%. This leaves room for the company to continue to invest in growth initiatives, while also raising its dividend payout each year. Brady Corporation also has a consistently profitable business model in most cycles. This is due to the company's durable competitive advantages. It maintains a leadership position in both of its main product categories through sufficient research and development investment. Investors should note that while the company did remain profitable during the Great Recession, it nevertheless experienced a significant reduction in earnings-per-share. The company would likely see earnings decline if another recession were to occur, but we would expect Brady to continue paying its dividend.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

After third quarter results, Brady Corporation is projected to return 13.1% annually through fiscal 2028, up from our prior estimate of 10.3%. This estimated return stems from a 5% earnings growth rate, a 1.9% starting dividend yield, and a mid-single-digit contribution from multiple expansion. Organic growth was positive for the quarter, though currency exchange weighed on results again. The stock's yield remains on the low side, but the company has a very consistent dividend growth track record. We have raised our five-year price target $1 to $86 due to earnings guidance. We continue to rate Brady Corporation as a buy due to projected returns.
