Total revenue for the first quarter was $2.33 billion, which is (10)% lower than what the company made in 1Q2022. The decrease in revenue was due to a reduction in COVID-19 testing revenues, which saw a decrease of (80.2)% YoY. The base business revenue was an increase of 10% year-over-year. Operating income was down (40.6)% for the quarter compared to the first quarter of 2022. Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	13.4	14.9	14.9	17.9	17.4	13.2	16.3	10.7	12.2	15.7	15.8	14.0
Avg. Yld.	2.2%	2.0%	2.1%	1.8%	1.8%	2.4%	2.0%	1.9%	1.4%	1.7%	2.0%	2.8%

The company has a PE of 15.8 as of this report, which is higher with its ten-year average of 14.7, and higher than its five-year average of 13.6. However, we think that a fair PE multiple of 14 is reasonable. This provides a multiple headwind compression of (2.4)%. The current dividend yield is in line with its ten-year average and the five-year average, 1.9% and 2.0%, respectively.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

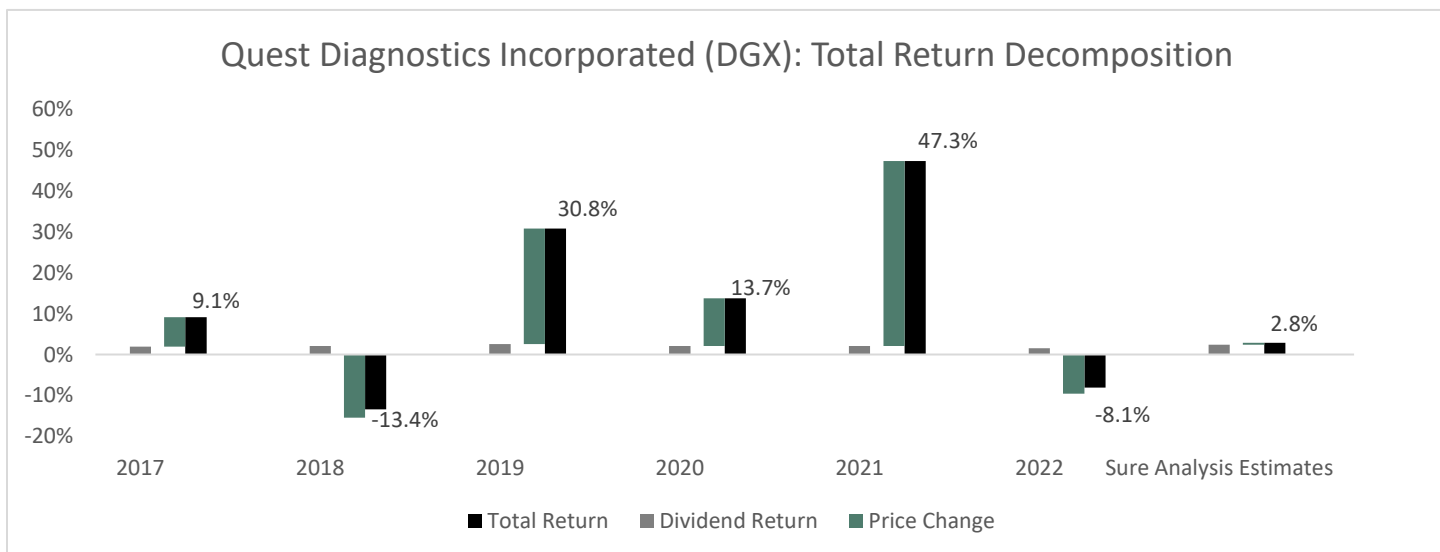

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	30.0%	29.3%	31.9%	32.0%	31.7%	32.2%	32.3%	20.0%	17.4%	26.1%	32%	39%

Quest's competitive advantage is that it is a mature and market leader Company in the diagnostic information services industry. While this field is technically more susceptible to competition, it will require a lot of capital to build lab capacities. During the Great Recession, Quest grew earnings during that period. In 2008 EPS was $3.23 per share, and in 2009 it rose 20% to $3.88 per share. During the COVID-19 pandemic, earnings saw a tremendous growth of 70% as the company provided most of the COVID-19 tests. Quest has a BBB+ credit rating, which is an investment grade. The debt/equity ratio is 0.8, which is excellent, and the company has interest coverage of 8.2. Overall, the balance sheet is very healthy. The dividend payout ratio is low, and the company has had a dividend growth rate of 6.8% over the past five years. So, the dividend will continue to grow at a high rate.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, Quest Diagnostic Inc. is a well-run company with a history of steady growth in earnings. The risk with purchasing shares of this company would be the post-pandemic normalization. As COVID-19 testing decreases, it will also decrease the company earnings to the 2018-2019 level. We estimate an 2.8% total annualized rate of return for the next five years. Most of it comes from earnings growth and dividend. Thus, we rate the stock a sell.
