Overview & Current Events

J.B. Hunt Transport Services (JBHT) is a freight carrier company that primarily operates large semi-trailer trucks (semis). The business operates more than 12,000 trucks and 100,000 trailers and containers in its fleet. The business is split into 5 segments – Intermodal (JBI), which operates the largest drayage fleet (vans 53 feet long) in North America, Dedicated Contract Services (DCS), which offers design and implementation of supply chain solutions and on-site management, Integrated Capacity Solutions (ICS), which ships domestic and international containers across North America, Truckload (JBT), which is one of the largest capacity networks in North America, allowing users to GPS track trailers, and Final Mile Services (FMS), which provides final destination delivery and installation. Intermodal is the largest of these divisions, followed by Dedicated Contract Services and Integrated Capacity Solutions. The company enjoyed strong demand for logistics services over the past couple of years as American consumers spent money at a record pace. However, that momentum has now gone into reverse.

On April 17th, 2023, J.B. Hunt reported Q1 2023 results for the period ending March 31st, 2023. The business saw diluted earnings-per-share of $1.89, down 17% from the year-ago period. This result came up well short of analyst expectations. Revenues of $3.23 billion fell 7% versus the same period of last year. This was a weak result, fell well short of analyst expectations, and represented further deceleration in the business following an already weak Q4 of 2022.

The business lost momentum in Q1 primarily due to a dramatic 42% decline in volume in its Integrated Capacity Solutions business. In addition to slowing revenue, costs also rose. J.B. Hunt pointed to higher insurance costs, labor costs, and maintenance expenses among factors which pressured margins. J.B. Hunt does not offer specific forward earnings guidance. However, on the conference call, management indicated that it is not concerned about its longer-term pricing or volume capabilities despite the ongoing slump in the trucking industry as of late.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Over the past 9 years, J.B. Hunt has seen earnings-per-share grow at an average annualized rate of 13.8%. However, that compounded rate is heavily driven by the large earnings increases seen over the past couple of years. We expect earnings growth to decelerate significantly over the next few years as the economy stabilizes after the recent bout of inflation and elevated consumer spending. Following a decline in earnings this year, we expect the firm to grow at 5% per year going forward.

Over the past 5 years, dividend payments have grown at 11.8% annually. We expect for that dividend growth rate to slow down in-line with the company's more modest earnings growth rate going forward. J.B. Hunt has bought back a meaningful amount of stock over the past decade, reducing its share count by more than 10%. There is currently a $520 million share buyback authorization open, and the company repurchased 183,000 shares in Q1 of 2023.

Valuation Analysis

| Year      | 2013 | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | Now         | 2028        |
|-----------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|-------------|-------------|
| Avg. P/E  | 25.2 | 24.2 | 22.2 | 21.6 | 26.0 | 20.7 | 20.0 | 25.1 | 23.9 | 21.0 | 20.1 | 21.0 |
| Avg. Yld. | 0.6% | 1.0% | 1.0% | 1.1% | 0.9% | 0.8% | 1.0% | 0.9% | 0.7% | 0.9% | 1.0% | 0.9% |

Over the past 9 years, J.B. Hunt has averaged a P/E ratio of 23, and over the past 5 years, the stock has averaged a P/E ratio of 22.1. We expect that the company's P/E ratio will stay in its current range in the low 20s.

A similar outlook holds for the dividend. J.B. Hunt has long offered a dividend yield right around the 1.0% mark, and we expect the yield will remain near that level in coming years.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Year   | 2013 | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | 2023       | 2028       |
| Payout | 21%  | 25%  | 23%  | 23%  | 25%  | 17%  | 20%  | 23%  | 17%  | 17%  | 20% | 19% |

J.B. Hunt has averaged a roughly 20% payout ratio over the past decade. We expect it will continue to increase its dividend in-line with earnings, leading to a stable payout ratio. Trucking is historically a cyclical industry prone to downturns during a recession. However, J.B. Hunt's diversified lines of business and large scale give it a good deal of insulation from economic shocks as compared to most of its peers.

J.B. Hunt has a fair amount of leverage on its balance sheet. S&P Global rates the company's debt at BBB+. The balance sheet is well within investment-grade parameters, but conditions could change in a more prolonged recession.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Given the economic headwinds and likelihood of a further slowdown in trucking demand in 2023, J.B. Hunt faces near-term challenges. That said, J.B. Hunt shares currently earn a hold rating, with a forward outlook of 6.8% annualized total returns. This comes primarily from future earnings growth, as shares are currently close to our estimate of fair value while the dividend yield is a modest part of the total return picture.
