Overview & Current Events

Ritchie Bros. offers end-to-end solutions for buying and selling used heavy equipment, trucks, and other assets. The company's primary selling channels include Ritchie Bros. Auctioneers, the world's largest industrial auctioneer featuring online bidding, IronPlanet, an online marketplace with weekly auctions, and IronClad Assurance, which provides equipment condition certification. The company has a market cap of $10.6 billion, generates around $1.7 billion in annual revenues, and is based in Burnaby, Canada. Investors can trade its shares both on the TSX and NYSE. All figures in this report are in US dollars.

On May 10th, 2023, Ritchie Bros. reported its Q1 results for the period ending March 31st, 2023. For the quarter, revenues rose 30.1% year-over-year to $512.4 million. This was due to total service revenues and inventory sales revenues increasing by 40% and 13% to $343.6 and $168.8, respectively. Total revenue growth includes $80 million from the impact of the acquisition of IAA.

Adjusted net income and adjusted EPS rose by 36% and 24% to $69.2 million and $0.57, respectively. This was the result of strong growth in operating income and higher interest income from a rise in interest rates and a lower effective tax rate. The per-share figure grew at a lower rate due to the dilution that took place as a result of the IAA acquisition. Note that on a GAAP basis, the company actually posted losses due to the acquisition and integration costs related to IAA.

During Q1, the company paid a special dividend of $1.08/share related to the closing of IAA. Our adjusted EPS estimate for FY2023 remains at $2.50, as we expect earnings to normalize following last year's record-breaking figures. That said, all figures in our tables reflect GAAP metrics.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028

Despite Ritchie Bros. consistently growing revenues over the past decade, profitability had lagged, particularly in the 2016-2019 time period, as the company was reinvesting toward growth. We retain our EPS growth estimates at 10% over the medium term to reflect the company's growing GMV and accretive acquisitions. The recently announced acquisition of IAA is expected to be accretive to EPS post-close and to achieve $100 to $120+ million in annual run-rate cost synergies by the end of 2025. The company also sees strong demand for its auction services, while its acquisitions should unlock cost efficiencies, boosting net income. We believe strongly in Ritchie's potential synergies amongst its services (for example, certification provision before auction listing and vertical integration). Hence EPS growth is likely to remain solid. Due to profitability improving drastically, management has been accelerating its dividend growth recently. Dividend growth had fallen to as low as 3% in 2017, in line with stagnating EPS. We retain our dividend growth expectations at 10% in the medium term, as this rate can be supported by the company's underlining net income, despite the most recent, slightly humbler increase of 8%. Ritchie Bros. has been growing its dividends annually without any exception since 2005, marking an 18-year dividend growth record.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	26.4	27.9	30.6	25.0	25.8	43.7	31.2	42.5	51.4	20.0	21.4	21.5
Avg. Yld.	2.6%	2.2%	2.2%	2.2%	2.2%	2.0%	1.9%	1.9%	1.4%	1.8%	2.0%	2.0%

Ritchie Bros' valuation had been quite consistent prior to 2020, typically hovering from 25x to 30x earnings-per-share. Between 2020 and 2021, the stock's P/E skyrocketed. It has now normalized 21.4X our projected earnings, with earnings growth mostly catching up to the stock price. We believe that this is a somewhat fair multiple for the stock. It reflects its growth prospects and potential synergies to be achieved with IAA while accounting for a rather tough macro landscape.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

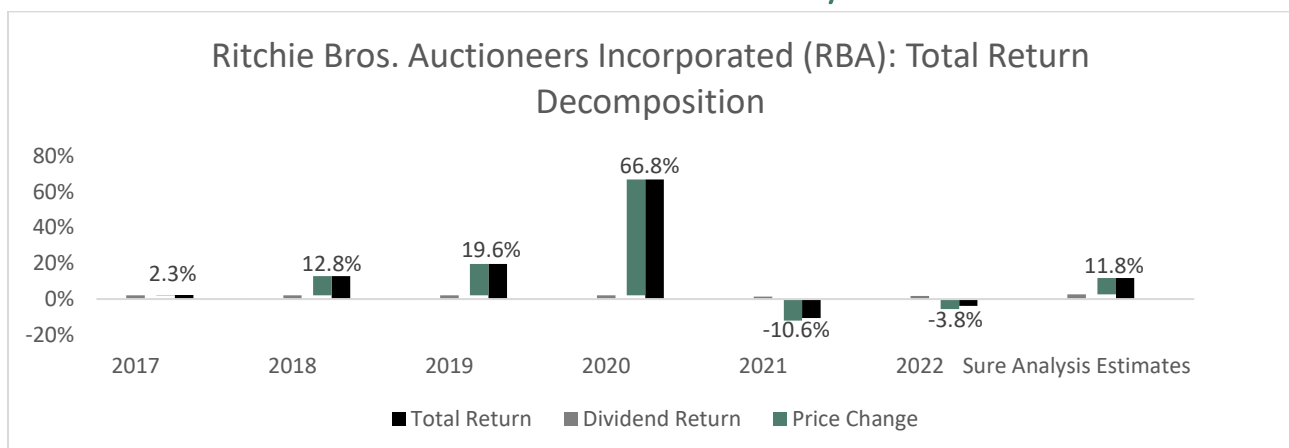

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	58%	65%	49%	78%	97%	63%	57%	56%	71%	37%	43%	43%

Ritchie Bros.' dividend coverage remains quite healthy. Despite the recent acceleration in dividend growth, the stock's payout ratio based on the company's expected FY2023 EPS is just around 43%. The company is the largest industrial-equipment auctioneer in the world, holding a significant competitive advantage due to its long-term expertise in the sector and the wide network effect of its online participants. Additionally, while its business model sounds sensitive to the industrial sector's cyclicity, the company is benefiting during such times as more equipment is brought forward to be auctioned (e.g., amid a company's liquidation), increasing its fees. During the Great Financial Crisis, for example, the company continued to enjoy revenue growth, despite the overall challenges in the economy. Hence, the company should remain resilient during a potential recession, enjoying robust cash flows.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Ritchie Bros. has achieved great shareholder value creation over the years, both in terms of share price gains and a growing dividend. While we believe that this year's results will normalize against last year's record numbers, we believe that the company's growth prospects remain solid. We forecast annualized returns of 11.8% through 2028, to be driven by a 10% annual growth in earnings, an initial yield of 2.0%, and relatively stable valuation assumptions. Accordingly, Ritchie Bros. earns a buy rating.
