For the quarter, revenue grew 8.5% to $2.18 billion while earnings-per-share of $0.82 compared favorably to $0.76 in the prior year. Both results were slightly below estimates.

However, this was up from a provision for credit losses of $164 million last quarter. The non-performing asset ratio of 0.54% was higher by 7 basis points compared to the prior year's period and 3 basis points higher than the first quarter of 2023. Average deposits declined 1.2% to $160.9 billion from the same period a year ago. Net interest income increased 5% sequentially and 6.8% year-over-year. Net interest margin of 3.10% was down by 19 basis points quarter-over-quarter, but up 18 basis points year-over-year. Compared to the prior year, Fifth Third Bancorp had return on average tangible common equity of 20.5% versus 17.5%, return on average common equity of 13.9% versus 12.3%, and return on average assets of 1.17% versus 1.09%.

Fifth Third Bancorp is now expected to earn $3.25 in 2023, down from $3.48 and $3.82 previously. We have updated our earnings-per-share forecast accordingly.

Fifth Third Bancorp's earnings-per-share had a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 9.5% for the 2012-2021 period. However, the COVID-19 pandemic greatly impacted the banking sector in general and Fifth Third Bancorp in particular in 2020, setting up a very easy comparison for 2021. The previous 2010 to 2019 -year period saw a CAGR of almost 16%. That said, even this growth rate is deceiving as the bank was in the midst of a recovery from the 2007-2009 recession and started from a low base. We feel that a 3% earnings growth rate going forward is appropriate until Fifth Third Bancorp can prove that its business has recovered from the pandemic.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Avg. P/E	8.9	12.6	9.9	10.0	10.1	11.7	10.0	10.3	11.6	9.6	8.9	10.0
Avg. Yld.	2.6%	2.4%	2.6%	2.7%	2.2%	2.5%	3.4%	4.9%	2.5%	3.8%	4.6%	4.1%

Shares of Fifth Third Bancorp have increased $1, or 3.6%, since our April 21st, 2023 report. The stock has traded with an incredibly consistent valuation range over the last decade, rarely dropping below a price-to-earnings ratio of 8 and rarely climbing above 12. We have a five-year target multiple of 10 times earnings, as we feel that this valuation reflects the company's business prospects and reflects the medium- and long-term average price-to-earnings ratios. With shares trading with a price-to-earnings ratio of 8.9, this implies a 2.3% annual tailwind to total returns from multiple expansion through 2028.

Shares yield nearly three times that of the S&P 500 index and the dividend has a 10-year CAGR of more than 14%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	23%	31%	26%	27%	23%	29%	34%	50%	32%	37%	41%	41%

Along with much of the banking sector, Fifth Third Bancorp suffered significant losses during the financial crisis recession. Earnings-per-share totaled $1.70, -$3.94, and $0.67 for 2007, 2008 and 2009 respectively. At the same time, the dividend was cut twice for a total reduction of 98%. It took the company until 2013 to establish a new earnings-per-share high and the dividend still has not recovered from its pre-Great Recession levels. Growth since has been mixed, even without the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. Therefore, we do not believe that Fifth Third Bancorp is a recession-proof name. We also do not find that Fifth Third Bancorp possess any significant advantages to its peers. The company does have a presence in certain growing states, such as Florida, but much of its core business is in the Midwest, which has seen population decline in recent years.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Fifth Third Bancorp is now expected return 9.1% annually through 2028, down from our prior forecast of 11.2%. Our projected return stems from a 3% earnings growth rate, a starting yield of 4.6%, and a low single-digit contribution from multiple expansion. Shares of Fifth Third Bancorp have recovered slightly from the sell-off resulting from the banking crisis seen in the last quarter. Loan growth remains solid, though the net interest margin has declined sequentially. PCLs appear reasonable as well. We have lowered our five-year price target $2 to $38 to reflect revised earnings estimates and now view shares of Fifth Third Bancorp as a hold due to projected returns.
