Overview & Current Events

FMC Corporation (FMC) is an agricultural sciences company that provides crop protection, plant health, and professional pest and turf management products. Through acquisitions, FMC is now one of the five largest patented crop chemical companies. The company markets its products through its own sales organization and through alliance partners, independent distributors, and sales representatives. It operates in North America, Latin America, Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia. FMC Corporation was founded in 1883, is headquartered in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and has about 6,600 employees.

On August 2nd, 2023, FMC released its second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2023. For the quarter, the company reported revenue of $1.01 billion, down 30% versus the second quarter of 2022, and adjusted earnings per diluted share of $0.24, down 77% versus the same quarter previous year.

Second quarter revenue was driven by a 3% contribution from price and a 31% decline in volume with a 2% currency headwind, especially in EMEA. North America revenue was down 25% versus the prior-year period as partners, the distribution channel and growers reduced inventory. Sales in EMEA declined 26% due to channel and grower destocking as well as adverse weather conditions across Europe. In Latin America, revenue was down 38% driven by significantly lower volumes as destocking was amplified by a historic drought in southern Brazil and Argentina.

FMC lowered its outlook for 2023, revenues are now expected to be in the range of $5.2 to $5.4 billion, reflecting 9% decline at the midpoint versus 2022, and adjusted earnings per diluted share are expected in the range of $5.86 to $6.80 reflecting 15 percent decrease at the midpoint versus 2022. Adjusted earnings per diluted share is expected to be in the range of $0.90 to $1.32 in the third quarter, representing a decrease of 10% at the midpoint versus third quarter 2022 due to expected higher interest and tax rates, and lower price increases.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Shares²	136	134	134	135	134	136	132	131	129	126	123	122

FMC Corp.'s long-term earnings growth track record shows some instability, with the company's earnings-per-share reaching $2.71 in 2017 and growing thereafter to $6.93 in 2021. We expect the company to grow its earnings-per-share by 6% per year on average over the next five years. The company remains well positioned in its markets and was able to increase prices in all regions. We expect rising demand from agricultural markets that will drive strong sales of fertilizer in the years ahead. Growth from emerging geographies should also be particularly healthy. Costs will continue to be a headwind and are driven by inflation. On the short-term earnings will be under pressure due to higher interest rates and taxes. Furthermore, the crop protection market is in the midst of a global resetting of inventory levels and several and unfavorable weather conditions could impact the business of FMC.

Updated August 3rd, 2023, by Patrick Neuwirth

The company has a long history of paying dividends but has only 5 consecutive years of annual dividend increases. In December 2022, the quarterly dividend increased by 9.4% from $0.53 to $0.58 per share. Over the last five years, the average annual dividend growth rate is an impressive 28.6%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Avg. P/E	16.8	16.8	20.3	16.1	28.5	13.5	13.9	16.3	15.4	15.8	15.2	15.0
Avg. Yld.	1.9%	0.9%	1.3%	1.5%	0.9%	0.8%	1.9%	1.8%	1.8%	1.9%	2.5%	3.1%

During the past decade shares of FMC Corporation have traded with an average price-to-earnings ratio of about 17 times earnings and today, it stands at 15.2. We are using 15 times earnings as a fair value baseline, implying the potential for a modest valuation headwind. FMC's dividend yield is currently 2.5% and the dividend raises in the last few years have boosted total returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	14%	15%	27%	23%	24%	10%	27%	29%	28%	29%	38%	46%

During the past five years, the company's dividend payout ratio has averaged around 23%. With the current payout ratio of 31%, FMC's dividend payments are well covered by earnings. Given the expected earnings growth, there is still room for the dividend to continue to grow moving forward while maintaining a payout ratio of around 35%.

Pricing gains along with strong volume growth of higher-margin products have supported FMC's revenues and earnings. The company's robust research and development pipeline will support stable growth in the years to come.

Approximately $120 million in additional revenues were generated from products launched in 2021 and $400 million from products launched in the last five years. Partnerships with key technology leaders, such as Chr. Hansen and Novozymes are in place.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

FMC Corporation has a strong globalized business model, and a robust research and development pipeline. The crop protection market is currently experiencing a global inventory level reset, and various adverse weather conditions may potentially affect FMC's quarterly earnings and lead to a volatile share price. We expect FMC to grow its earnings-per-share by 6% per year on average over the next five years. The expected total returns for FMC are 8.3% per year, driven by earnings growth, a 2.5% dividend yield, and the potential for a valuation headwind. Shares earn a hold rating.
