Overview & Current Events

The Gap Inc. is an American clothing and accessories retailer worldwide. The company was founded in 1982 by Nick Taylor, Donald Fisher, and Doris F. Fisher and is headquartered in San Francisco, California. The company has a market capitalization of $3.8 billion. The Gap operates six business lines: Gap, Banana Republic, Old Navy, Intermix, Hill City, and Athleta. The company has 3,380 store locations in over 40 countries, of which 2,743 are company operated.

The company reported second-quarter results for Fiscal Year (FY)2023 on August 24th, 2023. Despite its stature as the largest specialty apparel company in the U.S., Gap Inc. faced challenges with net sales at $3.55 billion, down 8% from the previous year. This dip included a 1-point foreign exchange headwind and a 2-point impact from the sale of Gap China. Comparable sales and store sales also saw a decline of 6% and 7%, respectively, with the company operating 2,592 out of 3,456 stores globally. Online sales, constituting a third of total net sales, dropped by 11% year-on-year. However, there were pockets of improvement, notably in gross margin, which increased by 310 basis points to 37.6%. This gain can be attributed to reduced inventory impairment charges and improved merchandise margin, up by 410 basis points due to lower air freight expenses and enhanced promotional strategies. Conversely, rent, occupancy, and depreciation expenses showed a 100 basis point deleverage due to decreased comparable sales.

Operationally, reported operating income stood at $106 million, translating to a 3.0% operating margin. Adjusted for $13 million in restructuring costs, the adjusted operating income rose to $119 million, with an adjusted operating margin of 3.4%. The company's effective tax rate was unusually negative at -8.3%, a result of a tax benefit linked to a transfer pricing settlement. This influenced reported net income, which reached $117 million, with diluted earnings per share of $0.32. Excluding restructuring costs, adjusted net income was $127 million, corresponding to adjusted diluted earnings per share of $0.34.

The company anticipates a low double-digit decline in net sales for the next quarter due to the sale of Gap China, with a mid-single digit decrease expected for fiscal year 2023 compared to the prior year, including a favorable impact from a 53rd week. The company remains committed to gross margin expansion throughout 2023 and estimates adjusted operating expenses of approximately $1.3 billion for the next quarter and about $5.15 billion for the fiscal year. Capital expenditures for fiscal 2023 are projected to range from $500 million to $525 million.

The Gap has been experiencing operating margin compression over the past ten years. Operating margins ranged between 9.9% and 13.4% from 2009 to 2014. The subsequent four years saw operating margins decrease to 7.7% and 9.6%. For FY2022, the operating margin was (0.4)%. As a result of rising operating costs through store closures and initiatives to revitalize its portfolio of brands, operating expenses will increase, resulting in lowered profit expectations.

However, we believe that diluted earnings per share will start to increase over the next three years. Earnings are expected to be $0.89 per share for the company in FY2028. This compared unfavorably to what the company earned in FY2018 and FY2019. The dividend looks to be unsafe as well. The company currently pays a dividend of $0.60 per share for the year while expecting to earn $0.70 per share for 2023. Thus, this will give a high payout ratio of 85%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	14.4	14.5	15.3	12	12.4	11.3	10.1	-	38.3	-	14.6	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.6%	2.1%	2.7%	3.8%	3.5%	3.3%	4.9%	0.0%	3.3%	4.4%	5.9%	6.7%

The 2019 P/E of 10.1x reflects an extended period of slow growth and operational headwinds. We expect the effects of revitalizing the brands and optimizing store operating profits to begin after completing store closures in 2023. Consumer confidence has also taken a hit because of high inflation. Hence, we expect a 5-year growth estimate of 5% over the next five years. This growth estimate will change as time goes on. Considering expectations of a marginal earnings decline in the near term and subsequent growth, we assume a fair 2028 P/E of 10x instead of the historical average PE of 16x. The company has a PE of 14.6x, which is higher than our fair value PE.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

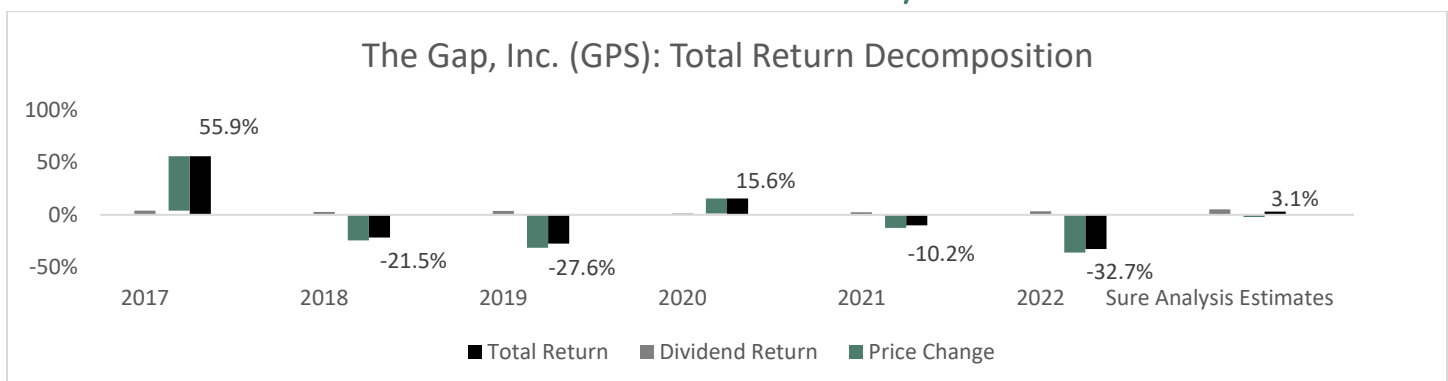

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	23%	30%	41%	54%	43%	37%	104%	---	72%	---	86%	67%

The Gap Inc. manages a portfolio of brands and has the size and capital strength to acquire new brands to bolster its business or engage in aggressive share repurchases. Inorganic growth through acquisitions may represent an upside to investors. The Gap can also capitalize on the retail industry's weaknesses by buying distressed brands and assets. An example would be purchasing the high-end children's clothing line Janie and Jack from a bankrupt retailer, Gymboree, for $35 million. The company's balance sheet has deteriorated with a debt/equity ratio of 2.4. However, during the last financial crisis, Gap displayed resiliency in its business. It reported a net income of $967 million in 2008 and $1,102 million in 2009 while maintaining its dividend during those years.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

The company is undergoing a transformation in which costs will be incurred to restructure the business and grow through organic initiatives or inorganic acquisitions. We estimate 5% EPS growth annually over the next five years. The Gap has a 3.1% expected total return over the next five years. This is due to higher valuation. Thus, we rate the company a hold.
